Canada sets 'dangerous' course

Killanin in Montreal: Agreed conditions for Olympics not met

MONTREAL (CP) — Lord Killanin, president of the International Olympic Committee, flew to Canada Monday and reiterated that the Canadian government's policy regarding Taiwan's participation in the forthcoming Montreal Games is in conflict with Olympic principles.

Killanin said he had come to hold discussions with world sports federation officials and others concerned in the government's decision to prohibit Taiwanese athletes from participating as representatives of the Republic of China.

Questioned at a news conference, he said Montreal was awarded the Games in 1970 — backed by the federal and Quebec governments — on the stipulation that national Olympic committees, including that of Taiwan, would be admitted for participation under terms laid down by the IOC.

Killanin said that the Canadian government's policy, which would also prohibit the Republic of China's anthem and flag as well as use of the name by Taiwan, would create a dangerous precedent.

"This precedent could be especially dangerous not only for 1980 but in the long term for 1984 and 1988."

Montreal was awarded the 1976 Games only because of guarantees that IOC regulations would be followed—otherwise they would have gone to Moscow or Los Angeles, the competing bidders, Killanin declared.

The Canadian government's position has been under active consideration by the IOC since its position became known. Killanin said he could not commit himself as president regarding a government proposal that the Taiwanese come to the Montreal Games on the same basis as they attended the 1960 Olympics in Rome.

In the Commons earlier in the day, Prime Minister Trudeau and External Affairs Minister Allan MacEachen called on the IOC to extend Canada the same rights given Italy in 1960 when the Taiwanese were told by the IOC they could participate only as Taiwanese and not as the Republic of China.

Killanin said that while it was absolutely correct the Taiwanese went to Rome on those terms, the Taiwanese athletes unfurled a banner as they passed the reviewing stand in the Olympic stadium proclaiming they were participating under protest.

"I will not commit myself in any way," said Killanin, emphasizing he had come here to look into the situation as carefully as possible and discuss it with those concerned, a procedure that

External Affairs Minister Allan MacEachen said in Ottawa Monday he has rejected requests by the People's Republic of China that Canada ban entry of Taiwanese Olympic athletes.

But he also refused to alter Canadian policy that these athletes may enter Canada only as Taiwanese not as representatives of the Republic of China.

He said external affairs officials were willing to meet Lord Killanin, president of the International Olympic Committee.

The People's Republic of China, in a broadcast monitored in Tokyo Monday, said the International Olympic Committee must not allow Taiwan to participate in the Olympics.

Global cheer for daring raid

Israel buries dead while Amin stews

Many Western leaders praised the raid that freed more than 100 hostages in Uganda as Israel paused Monday in its celebration of the hostage rescue to bury two Israelis killed in the Entebbe airport shootout.

UN Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim on Monday criticized the Israeli raid as a violation of Uganda's sovereignty but expressed satisfaction it has proved possible to save human lives endangered by hijacking. He also predicted the raid would have "serious international repercussions," especially in Africa.

The 48-country Organization of African Unity meeting in Mauritius unanimously condemned the raid and asked an immediate UN Security Council meeting on the issue.

Israel's foes in the Arab and Soviet camps said the Jewish state had committed aggression.

U.S. President Ford expressed "great satisfaction" to Israeli Premier Yitzhak Rabin over the commando raid Sunday.

West German Chancellor Helmut Schmidt expressed "deep satisfaction and great relief" at the outcome.

Among the first to congratulate Israel was Denmark's Foreign Minister Knud Andersen who spoke of "the well executed and brave liberation of the hostages" from pro-Palestinian air hijackers of an Air France aircraft.

Prime Minister Robert Muldoon said New Zealanders are thrilled by "this audacious operation."

The French ambassador in Israel, Jean Herbly, said the raid is "a moral victory . . . a victory over brutal force."

Meanwhile, the Israeli army is on alert for threatened revenge attacks by Palestinian guerillas.

Across the Jewish state, shops and houses flew the blue-and-white national flag and newspapers filled pages with advertisements congratulating Rabin and the army.

But there was little rejoicing in Batyam and Netanya, where two of three hostages killed in the clash with the hijackers were buried.

"This is a harsh land," wept the husband of 56-year-old Ida Borochovich, a Russian immigrant who struggled most of his life to come to Israel and finally arrived with his family in 1969.

"It was a magnificent, courageous operation," said the chief military chaplain, Brig. Gen. Mordechai Piron, in eulogizing Mrs. Borochovich. "But it is the fate of this nation that every joy and delight be mixed with pain and mourning."

Mrs. Borochovich and another Israeli passenger of the hi-jacked airliner, Jean-Jacques Maimoni, 19, were buried with military honors and their graves covered with wreaths from the Israeli army, government, Air France and other groups.

They were killed in a battle during the Israeli raid, the military said. The seven hi-

'Four-fold increase' for West sea watch

Canadian Press

The use of naval vessels to enforce Canada's new 200-mile limit will be increased four-fold on the Pacific coast, a Vancouver fisheries office said Monday.

Ken Pittre, chief of West Coast and Vancouver Island operations, said increased patrols by naval vessels and transport ministry ships, in combination with fishery patrol vessels, will go into effect this year although the 200-mile limit does not become effective until Jan. 1, 1977.

"We are looking at a four-fold increase in surface ship surveillance." Pittre said. "The present air surveillance provided by the department of national defence is more than adequate . . . once a week."

He declined to be more specific in the number of patrols that would be carried out by naval vessels, explaining the system is still in the planning stage.

The Fisheries Council of Canada's latest bulletin, however, reports patrols on both east and west coasts will be increased to a doubling of total sea days over-all. Air patrols will increase so that every fishing vessel in Canada's offshore zone will be identified at least once a week.

Pittre said fishery patrols on the West Coast will only be necessary for a 50-mile limit.

"We have virtually no stocks (of bottom fish) outside of 50 miles," he explained.

Demoted official quits B.C. post

Wilmer Pettit, who is suing Health Minister Robert McClelland, said Monday he has quit his job with the provincial government.

Pettit was demoted from his post as director of the hospital finance division at the end of April because of what McClelland said was the premature payment of $4.5 million to five hospitals.

The health minister was under attack at the time by an Opposition that claimed the payments had been made to pad the amount of money sent to hospitals last year. He said the cheques had been sent without consultation and had since been returned.

Pettit said Monday his resignation took effect June 22.

In May he launched a three-way suit against McClelland claiming unspecified damages for alleged slander, wrongful dismissal from his directorship and financial loss.

In an interview with the Colonist, Pettit said he didn't expect examination for discovery in connection with the suit to take place before the fall.

He said he took the government job two years ago after moving from another province he declined to name.

Asked if the position was filled by cabinet order (the New Democratic Party was in power at the time), he said: "No. It was not a political job."

Comox-based jet dives into strait

Voodoo crash kills two

Eyewitness Tillotson: 'It broke right up'

By BILL SMITH
Colonist Staff

COMOX — A search was still underway at dusk Monday for one of two occupants of a CF-101 Voodoo jet fighter which crashed into Strait of Georgia waters about two miles northeast of the Canadian Forces base at Lazo.

Missing and believed drowned is Capt. Leslie John Cox, 32, of Comox, pilot of the aircraft. A fisherman found the body of the navigator, Capt. Roy James Smith, 29, of Kelowna, a short time after the crash.

The plane was taking part in a formation-flying exercise with two other jets when it suddenly plumeted into the calm waters of the strait.

Capt. Val Cretney, base public relations officer, said there was no radio transmission between the three aircraft to warn of any problems with the aircraft. "There was just routine transmission," he said.

Monday's tragedy struck almost exactly a year after two CFB Comox airmen had a close brush with death only a short distance from the scene of Monday's fatal crash.

The 1975 crash occurred July 4 at 2:40 p.m.—almost the same time as Monday's crash—with a Voodoo jet crashing into the sea about 500 yards off Kin Beach. Both occupants ejected from the aircraft, one landing in about three feet of water and the other in a tree near the beach.

Monday's crash was seen by passengers aboard the Sechelt Queen ferry which was heading for Little River from Powell River.

Owners of pleasure craft at the nearby Airforce Beach and Little River rushed to the downed aircraft and several pieces of wreckage collected

Ottawa, Argentina talk about Chilean refugees

OTTAWA (CP) — External Affairs Minister Allan MacEachen said Monday talks were being held with Argentine officials about Chileans who had taken refuge in the Canadian Embassy in Buenos Aires.

He said the talks were aimed at finding a solution to the problem but would give no more details in answer to questions in the Commons.

Immigration Minister Robert Andras said that the department was exploring the possibility that the Chileans could be declared refugees and thus be given special treatment for entry into Canada.

The 27 exiles entered the embassy office on the 25th storey of a downtown building Friday and refused to leave. The Chileans said their lives were in danger in Argentina and they wanted to move to Canada.

In Buenos Aires, embassy spokesman Brian Long said the embassy could not grant the exiles — 10 men, 10 children and seven women — permanent asylum in the building but possibly could provide them with visas for Canada.

Long said the Canadian government had a special program for refugees of the 1973 Chilean coup.

He said the group at the embassy felt threatened in Argentina. A diplomatic source said names of some of the refugees may have been on a list stolen three weeks ago by armed men.

The Argentine military regime, installed after the bloodless March 24 coup that ousted President Isabel Peron, has said it would welcome departure of refugees in the country because some are believed to be aiding leftist guerrillas.

'Peacekeepers' battle in Beirut

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — A right-wing radio said Monday skirmishes had broken out near Beirut airport between Sudanese and Libyan contingents of the Arab peacekeeping force.

The radio said the command of the Arab League was trying to contain the fighting and was believed to have "asked Syrian troops to separate the two contingents."

The reported clashes broke out following Sudan's complaint to the United Nations that Libya instigated last Friday's abortive coup against Sudanese President Jaafar Numeiry.

Marchand's portfolio to LeBlanc

OTTAWA (CP) — Fisheries Minister Romeo LeBlanc has been named acting environment minister, filling a gap left by the sudden resignation last week of Jean Marchand.

LeBlanc, 48, is former press secretary to Prime Minister Trudeau. He was acting environment minister last December and January, before Marchand's appointment and after a cabinet shuffle that moved former environment minister Jeanne Sauve to communications. He has been fisheries minister since August, 1974.

jackers — all Palestinians except a German man and a woman — and 20 Ugandan soldiers also were killed.

But third hostage died in Nairobi, Kenya, the stopover point for the Israeli commando plane on its 2,500-mile return trip.

American-born Lt. Col. Yonatan Netanyahu, the lone Israeli soldier killed, will be buried today.

External Affairs Minister Allan MacEachen told the House of Commons in Ottawa the Israeli raid was a "remarkable feat" that would be widely applauded as a serious setback for international terrorism.

Outside the Commons, MacEachen told reporters the raid is "bound to strike a responsive chord among Canadians who are concerned very much with hijacking."

The Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine, named earlier by the hijackers as the organization they represented, issued a statement Monday saying it considers France and Kenya equally responsible with Israel for the commando raid.

Uganda radio carried a statement by the front but did not make clear where it was issued or by whom.

The statement said an Air France plane flew over Entebbe airport and asked the control tower for permission to land at the same time the commandos were launching their attack. This was a diversionary tactic, the statement said.

It accused Kenya of playing a major role in the operation and said Israeli planes that took part in it has used Nairobi airport as a base both before and after their mission. Kenya has denied any connection with the raid but acknowledged emergency medical treatment was provided at Nairobi for some freed hostages.

Ugandan President Idi Amin declared today and Wednesday public days of mourning for "the gallant officers and men of the Uganda armed forces" who died in the commando raid.

Chaplains lead Borochovich funeral procession

Amin directed that all flags fly at half-mast during the two days and that only those required for essential services, such as security personnel, report for duty.

Amin, cabinet ministers and security personnel paid their last respects to the soldiers who died in the raid. The ceremony was held at Kololo airstrip.

Amin said in a broadcast statement earlier Monday he "reserves the right to retaliate in whatever way possible to redress the aggression," but did not elaborate. He added that his government will seek compensation for damage suffered in the raid.

Speaking at Mrs. Borochovich's grave, Israeli Transport Minister Gad Yaacobi said that since 1968 anti-Israel terrorists had carried out 30 hijackings and a dozen assaults on air ports killing more than 200 persons.

Yaacobi added he had requested countries whose airlines land in Israel to tighten anti-hijacking measures.

Newspapers from Tokyo to Stockholm expressed approval or at least understanding for the tough Israeli response to terrorism.

Manila's Philippines Express called the response "a triumph of good over evil."

The Asahi newspaper in Japan said "Israel will be further isolated" from the international community as a result of the raid. "This is the cost Israel is to pay . . . but Israel had to carry out the operation," it added.

Newspapers in Denmark and Sweden conceded the raid was an illegal act of war by Israel but said Israel had little choice.

"Individual nations cannot take the law into their own hands," said Sweden's daily Aftonbladet but admitted the difficulties in deciding how to deal with hijackers.

"It has taken everyone's breath away," said The Times of London. The Financial Times said the strike shows that "intervention by force of arms can work."

The London Daily Mail said: "Bravery . . . is certainly a better bet in this flabby-nerved age than compromise with killers."

The Guardian praised what it called Israeli "pirates for a day" who humiliated "a tinpot dictator and a terrorist gang."

In Nairobi, Kenya, where the rescue flights stopped over en route back to Israel, the head nurse at a hospital said wounded Israeli hostages had been treated and discharged.

Earlier reports said only one persons was admitted to hospital in Nairobi. The nurse declined to say in a telephone interview with Radio Israel how many hostages had been in hospital. The Israeli military appears to want details kept secret.

Israel appealed to the Red Cross and to an unidentified third country to secure the release of a hostage left behind in a hospital in Kampala. The woman, Dora Bloch, 75, was sent to hospital at the start of the week during which the others were held at an abandoned hangar at Entebbe airport.

Lebanon talks halted after battle heats up

BEIRUT (AP) — Palestinian guerrillas and leftist Lebanese forces said Monday they hit deep into the Christian heartland from north Lebanon.

Mahmoud Riad, Arab League secretary-general, said in Damascus a scheduled meeting between Christian and Moslem Lebanese leaders was postponed indefinitely because of the escalation of the fighting.

The leftist-controlled Beirut radio claimed Moslem forces occupied Chekka, a Christian town 40 miles north of Beirut. It said they then advanced to within four miles of Amchit, the site of the Christian-controlled radio, almost halfway to the capital.

In the capital, a Red Cross convoy trying to evacuate wounded from a besieged Palestinian refugee camp turned back Monday after both sides broke an agreement to stop shooting during the humanitarian mission.

A Red Cross spokesman said the convoy was trying to take an estimated 300 wounded from underground first-aid bunkers at Tal Zaatar camp.

The camp, inside Christian-held east Beirut, has been under siege for two weeks, defended by Palestinian guerrillas and leftists in a critical battle of the 15-month civil war.

The Christian noose around the camp has tightened and only a central section of the 74-acre shanty town remains in the hands of defenders.

Christians, blasting the camp from point-blank range with artillery and mortars, said Monday it is about to fall. However, Palestinians said the defence is holding and the Christians have suffered large losses.

Fifty volunteers in trucks driven by Armenians, who are neutral in the civil war, gathered in the no man's land between Beirut's Christian and Moslem-controlled sectors to begin the mission. Then 10 shells fell near where the wounded were to be collected.

The Red Cross contacted both sides by radio, pleading for an end to shelling, but it continued. Shooting also broke out in the area where the convoy was marshalled and the mission was abandoned.

The leftist attack in the north is seen as an attempt to relieve the relentless attack on Tal Zaatar, which the Christians say is a nest of radical guerrillas and revolutionary leftists.

Bomb threat to firm

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A communique issued Monday by the New World Liberation Front said time bombs are set to explode at two Pacific Gas Electric Co. sites in the San Francisco Bay area and all employees should stay away from work until July 10.

A spokesman for the utility company called the communique "an insane threat" and said employees should report to work and that operations would continue as usual.

The group has claimed responsibility for sabotaging Pacific Gas facilities five times since March 21, 1975, and for a number of area bombings, including one at the famous Hearst Castle in San Simeon.

The NWLF has demanded that Pacific Gas pay 50 per cent of the cost of bringing slum housing in San Francisco up to building codes.

$440,000 stolen in bank raid

MONTERREY, Mexico (UPI) — Five bandits held up the Bank of London and Mexico Monday and escaped with $440,000.

Police said the robbery was carried out in only three minutes. They said, although the bank was crowded, most patrons did not realize a robbery was taking place.

The gunmen's escape was aided by heavy pedestrian and automobile traffic and a heavy rainfall.

No shots were fired by the gunmen, who are suspected by authorities to be members of a guerrilla group.

Voodoo crashes

by the boaters were turned over to an HMCS Quadra crashboat crew.

George Tillotson of Comox, retired warrant officer who was stationed at Comox with 442 Search and Rescue squadron, was one of several eyewitnesses.

Fishing near the crash scene with his brother-in-law, Scott Webber of Kelowna and Webber's sons Jamie and Warren, Tillotson saw the three aircraft flying in formation headed towards Powell River.

"Suddenly, one of the aircraft left the formation and came straight into the water."

The Voodo hit the water, skipped, bounced and broke up, he said.

There was no evidence of a mid-air crash, Tillotson said. "I would say the crash was due to failure in the aircraft."

The jet interceptor crashed north of the ferry, which immediately stopped and conducted a search along with pleasure boats.

A rescue helicopter from the nearby base was at the scene within minutes, to be joined by the HMCS-Quadra-based crash boat Heron.

The aircraft were practising for summer air shows at Edmonton and Abbottsford and were almost near the end of the 30-minute training session when the crash occurred.

An investigation team is scheduled to arrive here today when a decision will be taken on locating and lifting the remaining wreckage.

Cretney said the aircraft went into about 360 feet of water. The body of the navigator was found floating on the water by an unidentified fisherman.

He said the aircraft had just left the formation when it turned and flew at a shallow angle into the water.

There was no evidence of the crew members trying to eject, Cretney said.

And there was no indication late Monday that the crash would mean the Comox Voodoo aircraft would be grounded.

Twelve at the Comox base were grounded last year while an investigation was carried out on the crash of another Voodo out of Bagotville, Que.

'Dangerous' precedent

Chinese administration in Taiwan have simmered in the Olympic movement for years but erupted last Thursday when the IOC announced it was at loggerheads with the Canadian government on the question.

"I am not interested in the politics of two Chinas but in getting the maximum number of participants in the Olympics," Killanin said Monday.

He emphasized twice that the Olympic organizing committee under Roger Rousseau had behaved correctly in extending an invitation to the Olympic committee of Nationalist China on Taiwan.

But the Canadian government had not lived up to the terms by which Montreal Mayor Jean Drapeau's bid for Games had been supported in letters from Prime Minister Trudeau and the late Jean-Jacques Bertrand, Quebec premier when the application was made.

The Canadian government subsequently extended recognition to Peking and withdrew recognition of the Taiwan government.

Asked what kind of pressures the IOC could exert on the Canadian government to bring about a change of current policy regarding Taiwan's presence at the Games, Killanin repeated he was here to study the whole question.

He reported, however, that he had been "inundated" by responses to a circular to IOC members and the international sports federations, mainstays of the Olympic movement.

The majority of members stood behind the Killanin view, including those who recognize the Peking regime rather than the one in Taiwan.

"I haven't had time to sort out all the messages yet," said Killanin, but he added that the IOC also had received powerful support from among the 21 world sports federations.

These included track and field, archery, boxing, handball, judo, modern pentathlon, swimming, shooting, yachting, equestrian and gymnastics.

"The great majority of the federations recognize the Republic of China as being Taiwan," Killanin said.

Taiwan had already requested participation in such categories as athletics, archery, gymnastics, cycling, shooting, pentathlon, boxing and yachting.

"I have no other statement to make on this matter now except that we are extremely worried that this situation should have come up at the last minute," said Killanin.

He said there had been no indication of the problem until May 28 when he received a message from James Worrall, IOC member in Canada, although Ottawa insists the IOC was warned of Canada's stand a year ago.

Your Good Health

Dear Dr. Thosteson: With reports of adverse effects of oral contraceptives (the "pill") in women of the over-40 age group, I am considering changing to another form of contraception. I am nearing that age.

I have been taking the Pill for more than 10 years. What will happen if I stop? When will my body return to a normal menstrual cycle? How soon after stopping is it possible to become pregnant? And what method would you suggest as an alternative to the Pill? — R.W.

You've just about covered the entire waterfront.

Return to normal menstruation varies widely among women. In some it is practically immediate. In others it can take a few months. The same applies to ovulation. The best rule is not to assume the transition period is safe. After 10 years of successful contraception you don't want any "surprises."

The second part of your question is more difficult.

The attraction of the Pill has been its almost 100 per cent effectiveness. Actually the only birth control method that surpasses it in effectiveness is vasectomy (for the male) or tubal ligation (for the female). With the Pill there is always the likelihood of improper use.

Many women have used the diaphragm with good results, but here again proper use is a factor.

The i.u.d. (intrauterine device) follows, although there are problems with some women in retaining the device and with irritation from it.

The "rhythm" method is advocated by some on religious grounds, but it carries the uncertainty posed by erratic menstrual cycles and of miscalculations.

The contraceptive foams and jellies bring up the rear in this contraceptive sweepstakes. They just are too uncertain.

Sudan thwarts coup

Chief owes life to 'extra hour'

KHARTOUM, Sudan (UPI) — Sudanese security forces Monday arrested one of the leaders of the aborted weekend coup attempt against President Jaafar Numeiry, who said he escaped assassination by arriving home from France an hour earlier than expected.

"The plan was to assassinate me and all personalities at the airport," Numeiry told Egyptian newsmen in Port Louis, Mauritius, where he flew Monday to attend the Organization of African Unity summit meeting.

"It was to have been physical liquidation from top to bottom — from the head of state to the most junior airport worker."

Numeiry, whose comments were carried by the Egyptian Middle East news agency, said he left Paris an hour ahead of schedule and it was the extra hour that saved his life.

"That hour was long enough for the arrival ceremonies and my exit from the airport together with all ministers and those who greeted me," he said.

Numeiry blamed a "mercenary infiltration from Libya" for the coup attempt and said the attackers included nationals from Ethiopia, Mali, Chad and Zanzibar. He called for a meeting of the UN Security Council to discuss the matter.

"The piracy of (Libyan strongman Moammar) Khadafy has been aimed at dominating the Arab world and imposing his leadership on the Arab peoples," Numeiry said.

Unofficial reports put the total dead since the dawn attack Friday at more than 500, including 20 persons executed for their role in the abortive coup.

(A right-wing Lebanese broadcast said skirmishes broke out Monday near Beirut International Airport between Sudanese and Libyan contingents of the Arab peace-keeping force.)

The captive, said by the radio to be "one of the most wanted rebels," was identified as former army Capt. Bushra Abdullah, who allegedly took part in another thwarted attempt to topple Numeiry last September.

Loyal troops continued cleaning out remaining pockets of rebel holdouts in Khartoum, its northern suburbs and Omdurman — all three at the confluence of the White and Blue Niles.

Numeiry ordered a 7 p.m. to 5 a.m. curfew extended at least one more day in the three main trouble spots at the Nile junction.

Burned out vehicles littered streets and bridges of the capital. Security forces stopped motorists and subjected them to careful searches. Many shops remained closed.

A few stores opened in Khartoum's principal market area, but frightened government employees refused to return to work.

Numeiry Sunday blamed neighboring Libya for the conspiracy, "aimed at spreading chaos and overthrowing its (Sudan's) legitimate government," in a notice of complaint to the 20-nation Arab League in Cairo.

"The Sudanese government is in possession of definite proof and evidence which leave no doubt that this aggression was plotted and carried out by Libya," the note said.

Sudan and Libya have been at odds since Numeiry blocked attempts by Libyan leader Col. Moammar Khadafy two years ago to unite the two countries. The same conflict has existed between Libya and Egypt, augmented by Khadafy's disagreement with the Middle East peace policies of Egyptian President Anwar Sadat.

Egyptian foreign minister Ismail Fahmi said Sunday that Sadat had ordered his armed forces on alert to aid Numeiry, if necessary, when the fighting broke out early Friday as the Sudanese leader arrived home from a three-week official trip to the United States and France.

Ingrao gives first speech

Governmental sparring continued by Italians

ROME (UPI) — Italy's new chamber of deputies Monday elected Communist lawyer Pietro Ingrao as its president, giving the West's largest Communist party its first presidency of an Italian house of parliament in 28 years.

Ingrao received 488 votes. There were 117 abstentions and eight spoiled ballots. He needed 420 votes for a first-ballot victory.

The senate was also voting for its new president. The Christian Democrats nominated anti-Communist hardliner Amintore Fanfani as their choice for the senate leadership job.

Parliament was meeting for the first time since the June 20-21 national elections in which the Christian democrats barely held on to their status as the nation's largest party, despite strong Communist gains.

Ingrao's election was a foregone conclusion.

The decision to name a Communist as president of the chamber and a Christian Democrat as president of the senate was made Saturday when Christian Democrats, Communists and four other major non-fascist parties met in a formal policy session for the first time in 29 years.

Conceding the chamber presidency was the first Christian Democratic compromise with the Communists, who have been demanding a formal role in the government. The last Communist president of a house of parliament was Umberto Terracini, who presided over the 1947-48 constituent assembly.

The Christian Democrats were forced into the concession by the strong Communist showing in the election. The Communists gained seven per cent in the balloting, winning 228 chamber seats to the Christian Democrats' 262.

Politicians said that after the elections of presidents for the chamber and senate, the first order of business would be the beginning of negotiations on the formation of the next government, probably later this week.

Though the Christian Democrats conceded the chamber presidency to the Communists, they have said they would not take the Communists into a governing coalition.

Overthrow try 'mad, senseless'

PORT LOUIS, Mauritius (UPI) — President Jaafar Numeiry of Sudan bitterly denounced Libya at the final session of the Organization of African Unity summit early Tuesday for masterminding a "mad and senseless" coup attempt in Khartoum last week.

Numeiry made a special trip to this Indian Ocean island to give the African leaders his description of Friday's abortive coup attempt and urged the OAU to bring Libya "to its senses."

Libyan spokesman Ali Toureki told a closed-door final meeting his country was not involved in the plot, and in turn, accused Numeiry of "collusion with the United States both in Lebanon and against the Palestinian people."

The angry exchange highlighted one of the most divisive summit meetings in OAU history.

The summit focused on the deep differences among many of the 48 member states and accomplished few constructive measures.

Numeiry accused Libya of a "premeditated and carefully planned plot to overthrow" his government with a band of 1,000 mercenaries and "treacherous citizens" armed with "heavy mortars, anti-aircraft guns, anti-tank rockets" and a fleet of heavy trucks.

Numeiry added: "Need I point out that the only country with the resources to undertake such a costly expedition across the desert can only be Libya."

He urged the summit to "take whatever decision you consider appropriate in your wisdom to bring a member state to its senses."

Earlier, the OAU unanimously condemned the Israeli raid on Entebbe airport in Uganda and called for an urgent session of the UN Security Council to take "measures against Israel."

Ex-teacher will lead Mexico

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Jose Lopez Portillo, a former schoolteacher, has been elected Mexico's next president by the overwhelming majority the government party's candidate always gets.

Lopez Portillo, 56-year-old candidate of the Institutional Revolutionary Party was opposed by only two weak write-in candidates in the voting Sunday. Early unofficial returns gave him an insurmountable lead over Communist Valentin Campa and feminist Marina Gonzalez del Boy.

On Dec. 1, Lopez Portillo will become Mexico's 37th president, continuing nearly half a century of PRI dominance.

Official returns will not be tabulated until the middle of the week. But the early returns indicated that Lopez Portillo's 10-month campaign during which he crisscrossed the country was a success because the voter turnout was heavier than government opponents predicted.

Lopez Portillo was picked for the presidency by outgoing President Luis Echeverria, a boyhood friend, and a small handful of party leaders.

7 gunmen killed in Argentina

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (UPI) — Seven left-wing gunmen were killed by security forces in four separate clashes over the weekend, the army announced Monday.

In one incident, police shot and killed one of three guerrillas in a car that ran down two children. Two others in the car escaped.

Roman Catholic officials withheld comment on the Sunday slaying of three priests and two seminarians by unidentified terrorists.

A spokesman at San Maron High School, where one of the murdered men was a director, said the school received an anonymous bomb threat from the leftist Montonero guerrillas. But the school had already been closed in order to allow students to attend the funeral of the director, Angel Barbeito.

British stay in Ulster 'as long as needed'

BELFAST (UPI) — British Prime Minister James Callaghan flew to Northern Ireland Monday for an unannounced visit to the violence-wracked province and reiterated British pledges not to pull out militarily or economically.

It was his first visit to Ulster since taking over as prime minister three months ago. There was no advance announcement and heavy security measures were enforced.

"British troops will remain so long as is necessary," he promised at a lunch for government workers and security force chiefs. "There will be no premature withdrawal of army units."

He promised there also will be no British economic pullout from the province where more than one tenth of the work force is jobless.

"Do not listen to foolish talk of economic withdrawal," he said. "It is totally untrue."

It was the first visit by a British prime minister to Ulster since Harold Wilson's trip more than six months ago.

Callaghan's NO. 10 Downing Street office in London called it a "routine" visit and said he planned to stay only one day.

But a new explosion of violence and killing gave the visit particular significance.

A British soldier died Saturday of a sniper's bullet in Londonderry a week after his arrival on duty in the province.

His death followed four others in a pub massacre near Templepatrick, 35 miles north of Belfast, Friday night. Masked men forced their way into a Catholic-owned inn and sprayed patrons indiscriminately with machinegun fire.

Three of the dead were Protestants and the fourth was a Catholic. Police said the attack apparently was a reprisal for one on a Protestant-owned bar earlier last week.

Spanish liberals threaten boycott

MADRID, Spain (UPI) — The liberals of Spain's first post-Franco government Monday threatened a wholesale boycott of the cabinet of King Juan Carlos' newly-appointed Prime Minister Adolfo Suarez Gonzalez.

Suarez, formerly the general secretary of the Franco system state party, was sworn in Monday afternoon at the king's Zarzuela Palace.

He gave no official indication he intended to try to keep the major architects of Spain's step-by-step democratization plan. The 43-year-old establishment politician conferred Monday with the Franco-era holdover he replaced, Carlos Arias Navarro, and with his advisers.

Politicians and government officials close to former interior minister Manuel Fraga Iribarne and former foreign minister Jose Maria Areilza insisted that under no conditions would the two participate in the new government. The two men themselves made no personal statement, however.

Fraga's brother-in-law, former education minister Carlos Robles Piquer, and Information Minister Adolfo Martin-Gamero, whose regime gave the press a new freedom, are also out of the new government, the sources said.

The most grievous loss

THE DRAMATIC ISRAELI air commando rescue of more than 100 hostages held by Palestinian terrorists in Uganda must rank among the most brilliant and courageous military actions the world has ever seen. The bravery, the determination, the audacity and the ingenuity displayed by a handful of Israeli troops against almost impossible odds deserves the praise of every man who has an ounce of red blood still coursing through his body.

At a time in history when retreat and backtracking in the face of international terrorism and blackmail is the norm, when the so-called leaders of the free world compromise their principles and ideals, when criminals and murderers are honored and the value of human life is held in small regard, the Israelis acted—and acted well.

The Israelis may well be proud of their accomplishment. Their mission was successful, with the rescuers and rescued suffering minimal casualties.

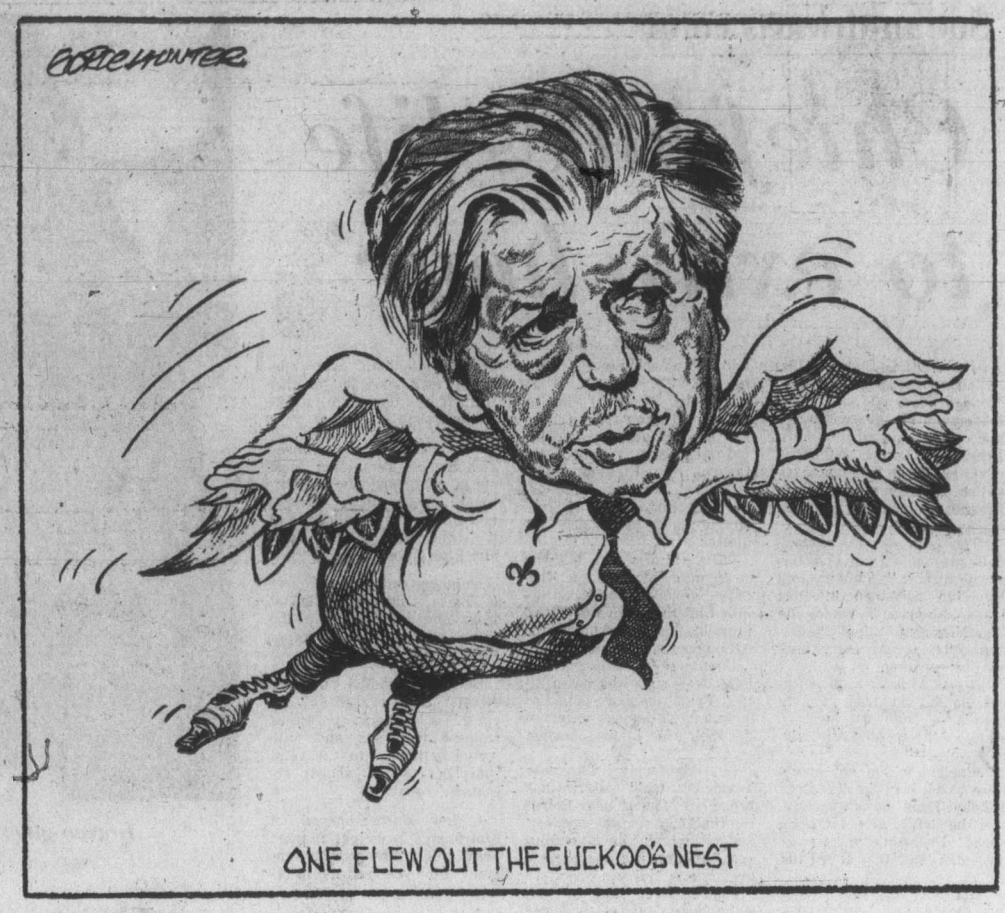
For every victory, of course, there is a defeat. In this case there were several. Ugandan dictator Idi Amin, who actively co-operated with the Arab hijackers, had his air force destroyed and a large number of his soldiers killed and wounded. The terrorists were killed to a man.

The most grievous loss suffered, however, occurred long after the battle was over when United Nations Secretary General Kurt Waldheim chose to call the heroic Israeli action "a flagrant violation of the sovereignty of a member of the United Nations . . ."

Strong words from a man pledged to uphold international law and order. Strong words from a man who has yet to utter a condemnatory word against the Palestinian terrorists and their continual violations of national and human rights.

Nor at this time should it be forgotten that it was this same man who allowed the leader of the Arab murderers the right to enter the General Assembly of the United Nations.

Mr. Waldheim's words will not only bring the United Nations into disrepute but could well herald the beginning of the end of it as a viable international organization.



B.C. financing

JUST BEFORE the provincial legislature adjourned, the former NDP finance minister, David Stupich, had a jab at the government's plan to allow eastern financial interests to acquire three new B.C. ferries, which will be leased by the ferry system for 18 years and then bought back. Through a loophole, the lease arrangement is expected to mean a substantial saving in federal taxes. Nevertheless, Mr. Stupich contended that it would double, in effect, the capital cost of the ferries.

What the government was doing, he said, was abandoning in a sneaky way its promised no-debt, pay-as-you-go policy; it had "ditched that policy in the hopes of confusing the people with spurious comparisons with the NDP government's performance in delivering programs within relatively-balanced budgets."

We have reservations about this description of the last NDP budget, in particular, but it is true that the Social Credit government has made some changes which will make accurate comparisons more difficult. And if Mr. Stupich hadn't been limited to debating ferry legislation, he might better have cited the borrowing of $181 million from the Insurance Corporation of B.C. earlier this year.

This $181 million, readers may recall, had just been granted by the government to the ICBC so that it could pay its debts, but the corporation really did not need the money at once because the new car insurance premiums were flooding in at the time. The government borrowed it back at 10 per cent interest.

Now, according to Finance Minister Evan Wolfe, the government has borrowed $50 million from a syndicate of banks at 9½ per cent and paid off that much of its loan from ICBC, which hopes to invest it at better than 10 per cent.

Still the government remains $181 million in debt through the multi-shuffle.

And still this rankles when one recalls some of Mr. Wolfe's budget-speech words:

"Mr. Speaker, under a pay-as-you-go financial policy the first Social Credit administration in British Columbia established the province on a sound financial footing that was the envy of many other jurisdictions. Tax rates were among the lowest in Canada and, along with that administration's economic development policies, the province experienced a rate of growth exceeding that of every other province.

"The cost of borrowing is generally well recognized. Most home-owners know that a 20-year mortgage at 10 per cent interest costs over double the original amount, and on a 30-year mortgage the amount repaid is over three times what is borrowed.

"These facts offer sound support to the financing of all expenditures from current income if the economy has matured to the degree to support such a policy. . . ."

"To borrow is the easy way out, but against that is the burden it creates for future generations . . . This government believes the economy is capable of supporting a pay-as-you-go policy for provincial government financing . . ."

Ottawa Offbeat

Like with Murray McBride

By RICHARD JACKSON

Whatever you say about the federal Liberals, you've got to say that they look after their own.

Under all and almost any circumstances they stand by their troops.

And it could be one of the reasons, perhaps the most important of several, that they hold, and so very, very seldom surrender the key to federal power.

That key opens two interlocking doors, one to the all-important power of federal office, the other to the national treasury.

For when your party is in power, it has the monopoly on the dispensing of favor and privileges to friends and supporters, and the denying of what are called "the fruits of office" to its opponents and non-believers in its self-assumed divine right of rule.

If there is even one former Liberal MP who lost out in the 1972 or '74 elections, it has escaped public notice.

They have been rewarded with appointments to the public payroll.

It's all part of the political exercise of patronage — jobs, contracts, business orders, legal, medical and other professional appointments for the party faithful — practised by all parties, none of them, though, with the brassy dedication of the long-ruling Liberals.

Nothing, it seems, may be allowed to stand in the way of the financial safe-guarding — at public expense — of a Liberal down on his political luck.

Like with Murray McBride, just recently appointed vice-chairman of the federal Farm Credit Corporation, a crown agency.

The job is worth between $31,500 and $41,500 annually.

So who is Murray McBride that he should leap-frog into what certainly will be the $41,500 — with annual increments increasing it — vice-chairmanship of the FFC?

He is the former Liberal MP for the nearby riding of Lanark - Renfrew - Carleton, first elected in 1968 and defeated in 1972.

Only four years an MP, so not long enough to qualify for that parliamentary pension which starts at about $4,000 after only six years in the Commons.

Tough luck for Mr. McBride. But not to worry.

He was at once appointed a cabinet executive assistant at maybe $30,000.

He was serving former Consumer Affairs Minister Andre Ouellet, and was again out of a job recently when his ministerial boss resigned as a result of involvement in the Dial-a-Judge affair.

But still not to worry. They fixed up Murray McBride with the Farm Credit appointment which has been attacked in the Commons as "grossest patronage," by outraged Conservative MP John Wise of Elgin, and "condemned" publicly by others including Alberta Tory MP Jack Horner.

There was nothing surprising that the Liberals should look after their own, except that this was a rather unusual case.

For Murray McBride, only 10 days after his '72 election defeat, publicly proclaimed he was "ashamed of being an English-Canadian," because it had been the bigotry of the majority of his constituents, he said, the racist Anglos, that had beaten him.

Eleven days after his loss, he appeared on the front page of The Ottawa Citizen saying he was ready to "apologize" to Prime Minister Trudeau for the unforgivable conduct of his constituents.

He was so emotionally worked up that he set it all down in his own hand.

"My real concern," he wrote, "is that the day following the election there was a real sense of joy among some people that the 'French takeover' had been stopped.

"This is really the sad part of it. The Liberals failed to appeal to the best instinct of English Canada and let the latent anti-French prejudice carry the day.

"As never before the issue is national unity with the Separatists not all in Quebec."

It was he wrote, "bigotry pure and simple.

"Raw racial prejudice seeped up from the press to the public and perhaps there was leakage down from the public to the press. It was bare-footed hatred, fear and animosity."

Well, after that salute to his "bigoted" constituents, he scarcely could be expected to try the riding in the 1974 election. Nor did he. Instead, there were government appointments.

But how are the farmers of Lanark-Renfrew-Carleton, of other Ontario, Maritime, Western ridings — all English — going to warm to Mr. McBride when they know how he feels about them?

Not to worry. The Liberals don't. They just look after their own.

Britain's leaking government

By ADAM RAPHAEL
from London

The British government, which likes to conduct its affairs in secrecy, is being plagued by leaks. In the past month, a series of politically damaging disclosures have embarrassed ministers.

First there was the row over the premature naming of several of the more contentious show business and business characters from Sir Harold Wilson's retiring honors list. Then a highly sensitive Foreign Office report on immigration was sent to Enoch Powell, who made full use of its claim that there was an infinite pool of black Commonwealth citizens waiting to come to Britain.

"Can you tell me where they're having the leak conference."

The latest leak enabled the weekly magazine New Society to quote secret cabinet documents in tracing the government's volte-face on a scheme for child benefits and was perhaps the most damaging of all. If the excerpts are to be believed — and it seems they are — Chancellor of the Exchequer Denis Healey misled his colleagues about trade union reaction to withdrawal of the scheme, which would have benefited the poorest children.

Prime Minister James Callaghan has now ordered a major investigation by Sir Douglas Allen, the head of the civil service, to trace the leak's source. But judging by the results of past such inquiries, it is unlikely to find the actual offender and its purpose seems more designed to frighten those who might think of similar action in future.

Most leaks of cabinet discussions have in the past come from ministers who, when fighting rearguard battles against colleagues, decide that a useful tactic is to spread knowledge of their good fight by tipping off a friendly political correspondent. That has always been a part of the system and provided it was done discreetly and not too explicitly was usually tolerated.

Callaghan himself confessed five years ago to an official committee of inquiry that he was not above such tactics in extreme circumstances. He went on to quote with approval the advice of the former Labor prime minister, Clement Attlee, who once told him: "Never resign, always wait until you are thrown out."

It is, of course, only too easy to be in favor of open government when you are in Opposition; less so when you are trying to maintain the fiction of a united cabinet. On this occasion, the government's embarrassment has not been helped by one of its own junior ministers, William Price, who in an extraordinary speech recently appeared to accuse his ministerial colleagues for being responsible for most of the current leaks.

"I have come to the conclusion that there are more singers in Whitehall than in the whole of the Rhondda Valley," said Price, who is in charge of co-ordinating government information. "This isn't open government and it isn't the indiscreet dropping of a word to informed journalists. It is the conscious and premeditated leakage of top-level discussions and decisions for the most doubtful reasons."

Undoubtedly one of the sources for the recent crop of leaks is the new wave of political advisers who have been recruited by ministers from outside the normal ranks of the civil service to help and advise them on policy. Whereas career civil servants have little reason to help inquiring reporters, the new breed of politically aware, ambitious young men who surround ministers are much more likely to be of help. Often, of course, they are used as a suitable conduit by ministers to spread their side of an argument.

Another difficulty in keeping the lid on Whitehall is the confusion surrounding the Official Secrets Act. At present any unauthorized disclosure, even the name of the prime minister's barber, is in theory liable to lead to a prosecution of both the publisher of the information and his source. But the last prosecution several years ago of the Sunday Telegraph ended in a shaming acquittal and since then the section of the act dealing with this sort of case has been in disuse.

The Franks Committee has recommended that it should be replaced by a much more limited measure which would use criminal penalties as a sanction for only the most sensitive information such as budget and defence secrets. The government is committed to introducing new legislation but sharp disagreement between Callaghan and Home Secretary Roy Jenkins over details of the new law has resulted in the old act remaining in limbo. The result is that it is certain that none of the recent leakers, or those who printed their disclosures need fear prosecution.

The Whitehall machine goes through its routine, traditional inquiries, ministers shake their heads, and permanent secretaries complain that things are not what they were. But the demand for more open government is growing and is unlikely to be stopped whatever the threat or whatever the sanction.

A labor-socialist's view

'Productivity is the key'

By PAUL HELLYER
from Ottawa

Baron George Alfred George-Brown, former secretary of state for foreign affairs, is one of Britain's most flamboyant and colorful politicians. He uses gut language that people can understand. A joyful party-goer who has been the butt of many jokes, he remains a controversial grass-roots, common-sense politician.

Not long ago he resigned from the ruling Labor Party, so when I was in London, at Easter, I asked him the reasons why and what his crystal ball indicated for the future.

Yes, he told me, Britain was in trouble. The mistake — if there was a starting point in recent history — could be attributed to Harold Wilson's decision not to float the British pound in the middle of 1966 in conjunction with a decision to gear for expansion and productivity. The pound was devalued in 1967 — but, "by then, the momentum was lost".

"Productivity is the key," he said, "and that is affected by high taxes and other factors. The problem for us is to earn the bloody money: Once you have earned it, how you distribute it is your choice."

Brown didn't think the Labor Party's basic aims had changed over the years, "but the means are wrong. You can be a socialist labor party and still let small business grow and farms prosper." Even entrepreneurs that do accumulate enough money to start a small business are often put off by the red tape.

"Once you desert what we came into being to sustain, once you desert the role of the individual, you get a corporate state where the unions, the corporations and the bureaucrats fix it to suit themselves.

"Up with that I will not put," he exclaimed: "I wasn't brought up for that. I was brought up for individuals. Once all these bloody power blocks come together, they create a horrible situation."

I couldn't believe my ears. Brown had worn the label of a labor socialist all his life but he talked like a nineteenth century liberal. He spoke of the big bureaucracy the same way Ingmar Bergman did when he turned his back on his native Sweden.

What can be done to turn the thing around, I asked?

"That I don't know: I honestly don't know. A lot of us are talking about it. We are living in a day of mediocrity. The time when people like me could come up is gone."

Reflecting on the Canadian trend to follow similar lines, Lord Brown attributed our troubles to the "East Coast Mafia" which he described a moment later as the "Montreal Mafia (intellectuals) who have never been in Regina, never been in Manitoba, don't know the country and don't know how to make a living."

Brown did support the idea of an incomes policy.

"Modern industrial society cannot work without one. The only choice you have is a non-scientific one (disorganized) or an organized one."

Before parting, I asked him about his reflections on the Solzhenitsyn speech which had preceded his resignation. Had the Russian philosopher been justified in his harsh judgment of the United Kingdom?

"Yes," he replied, "yes. We have gone daft. This man has woken us up."

Was Brown concerned about Russian imperialism?

"Yes — I am so happy you used that word — very few reporters do use that word. It was the same in Russia before 1917-18 and after. Nothing changed."

What about the future of George Brown?

"Politically, nothing," he replied. "I shall go on earning a living just like you."

Is there anything in your career you would do differently if you were doing it again?

"Nothing I would do differently. God made me the way he did. If he had wanted me to be different — it would have been."

Today in History

By The Canadian Press

Jan Huss, Bohemian national leader and religious reformer, was burned at the stake for heresy 561 years ago today — in 1415 — and his ashes were dispersed in the River Rhine. He had come to the Council of Constance on a safe-conduct promise from the Holy Roman Emperor. This betrayal, combined with religious and political reasons, led to the Hussite Wars of 1420 to 1433. Bohemia tried to win independence and her neighboring states were urged to crusade against the Hussites as heretics.

1776 — A New York mob, hearing the news of the Declaration of Independence, melted the statue of George III for 42,000 bullets.

1907 — Brooklands Motor Racecourse opened in England.

1916 — Lloyd George became Britain's minister of war.

1959 — Chicago gave Queen Elizabeth a tumultuous welcome.

1964 — Nyasaland won her independence as Malawi.

"To think I shelled real peas for them!"

Erma Bombeck

This thing with Congressman Hays, who allegedly hired a secretary who couldn't type or answer the phone, has really opened up a can of worms.

Some men are so devious. One guy told his wife he hired a secretary who was handicapped. It turned out she was married.

A group of us were working on an embroidered sampler the other afternoon and were talking about our husbands' secretaries.

"Come to think of it," said Jan, "John's secretary doesn't type, take dictation, answer the phone or file."

"Why not?" we asked.

"Don't be ridiculous!" she said. "She doesn't speak English. She's French."

"That sounds reasonable. A man needs to expand his mind," we nodded.

"Joe's secretary is bright enough," said Marci. "In fact I helped him select her."

"That's smart," we said.

"Only one thing bothers me. On her application under 'sex' she wrote in 'yes.' "

"A man needs a secretary with a good sense of humor," we nodded.

"Ken's secretary is a real stitch," said Margaret, "I don't have to worry about her. She really keeps Ken loose all the time."

"Like how?"

"Like they assigned her to the secretary pool and she reported wearing a bathing suit."

"A man needs someone around who can relieve tensions once in a while," we nodded.

"Well, I trust my husband implicitly," said Judy, dialing her husband's office number. Speaking into the phone she said, "Hello, darling. Miss you. Come home early. I'm at Erma's and we just had the most stimulating discussion. Why don't you call me at home at three?"

"You got straight through to your husband without going through a secretary?" we asked.

"Oh she doesn't answer the phone," said Judy. "I was recording my message on tape."

"Maybe they're at lunch," we suggested.

"She doesn't come in that early," said Judy.

We all worked in silence on our sampler which read, "NO MAN STANDS SO TALL AS WHEN HE STOOPS TO HIRE A HOMELY SECRETARY."

Now Marshall Islands seeking independence

By GEORGE KITCHEN of Canadian Press from the United Nations

The people of yet another of the world's tinier nations are knocking at the door of the United Nations, seeking their independence and eventual UN membership.

This latest group is from the Marshalls, that storied, idyllic group of Pacific islands of volcanic origin, luxuriant vegetation and lazy lagoons — but little else. Their exports and means of support are meagre: Copra, trochus shells, fish and fish products, handicrafts and some vegetables.

The Marshall Islands are part of the Trust Territory of the Pacific Islands, the last of the 11 trusteeships set up by the UN after the Second World War. The United States, which captured the islands from the Japanese in bitter fighting in that war, has administered them for the UN since 1947.

A delegation from the Marshall Islands appeared before the UN trusteeship council this week to ask for immediate separation of their islands from the trust of the trusteeship territory, which also includes the Mariana Islands and the Caroline Islands.

The three groups of islands make up the major archipelagoes of the Pacific and are known in the UN lexicon as Micronesia.

The best known of the Marshall Islands are the atolls of Bikini and Enewetak, where the U.S. conducted atmospheric and other atomic tests in the 1950s and early 1960s, and Kwajalein atoll, still the target of American ICBMs fired weekly from Vandenberg Air Force Base in California, 5,400 miles away.

That is one reason why the Marshallese delegation wants out. They say the principal use the U.S. has made of the Marshalls has been to test new military technology. They charge that, as a result, more than a third of the people of the islands have been dislocated from their homes, most of them without compensation.

The trusteeship council is studying the American administration of the territories. The U.S. trusteeship continues until 1981.

The Marshalls, with a population of approximately 25,000 spread over 26 inhabited islands and atolls, occupy more than 750,000 square miles of the west-central Pacific, north of the equator. The entire trusteeship, including the Marshalls, the Carolines and the Marianas, covers more than three million square miles of ocean, with a population of 115,000.

American military bases in the trusteeship territory give the islands great strategic value and the United States already has moved to continue its presence in the area after its trusteeship ends in 1981.

The Marianas voted last year to become a commonwealth of the U.S. This would give the islands U.S. aid and other assistance in return for military bases. Tentative agreement also has been reached on a U.S. plan for self-government for the Carolines and the Marshalls, with the U.S. handling defence and foreign affairs.

The Marshallese delegation told trusteeship council the American plan is calculated to convert the trusteeship into a military colony, under which the Marshallese say they fear they will become second-class citizens of their own lands and waters.

Under the U.S.-proposed Compact of Free Association, the Marshalls would be obligated to continue to provide some lands until the year 2044, even if the compact is rejected by Marshallese voters. The compact merely has to win an overall majority in the trust territory and approval in four of the six districts in the territory.

Local 502 checks in

With reference to a letter from Owen Moore in your issue of June 16, pertaining to the recent vote by the BCGEU members to affiliate to NUPGE, the union members of Local 502 wish to refute the misleading statements made in this letter.

Insofar as Local 502 is concerned we wish to make it clear that:

Proper procedures were followed.

Ballots were not received too late.

Full discussion in a democratic manner was carried out on the issue.

Ballots were returned prior to the deadline.

Mr. Moore is soliciting ideas from the disappointed. A good idea for them would be to get constructively involved in their locals. Local 502 extends from Duncan to Port Hardy. We are spread out pretty far and wide, so after all if we small town folk up here can get our act together what's with the capital city? Perhaps they are too busy looking for windmills to take a run at.

VAL PELLETIER,
Chairman, Local 502
Nanaimo.

Visits

This letter is addressed to the associate deputy minister for corrections:

We feel that we should bring to your attention the abuse that is being heaped on people visiting inmates in the Vancouver Island Regional Correctional Centre on Wilkinson Road in Victoria.

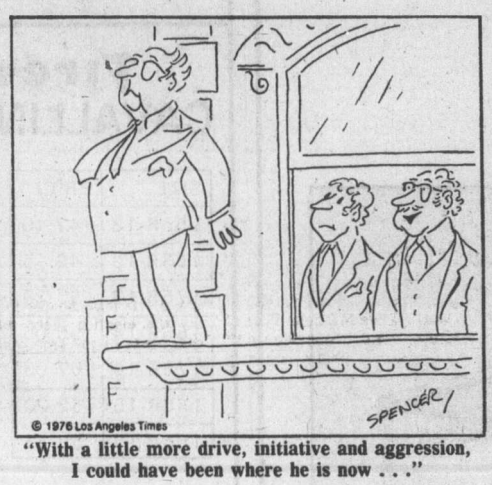
On June 26th, 1976, we visited a friend who is at present incarcerated in this institution. But, before we were allowed the privilege we were subjected to verbal abuse in the form of coarse language in the explanation of rules pertaining to visiting hours and conditions.

We feel that if we were subject to this, others must be subject to it also. We are enclosing copies of this letter to our member of the Legislative Assembly, Leader of the Opposition and media, to draw attention to this matter. We sincerely hope that treatment improves in the future after our complaint.

MS. ANNE OSBORNE,
MS. BEVERLEY PERRY.

Fish threat

Because I was appointed (by the Chinese Maritime Custom Service) to become a lighthouse mechnic on the entire China coast for some 22 years, fate arranged for me to become a personal witness of the irreparable damage the armed Japanese fishing fleets did along the entire Chinese coast. This was during the period of Chinese-Japanese hostilities.



"With a little more drive, initiative and aggression, I could have been where he is now . . ."

In short, the armed Japanese fishing fleets raped the entire China coast of everything that could be raped from its coastal waters from top to bottom. And the Japanese control and use of the China seaports greatly assisted them in their calamitous operation.

As an insignificant pawn, my protests became a voice in the wilderness at that time, but I am happy I protested.

Therefore, as history is likely to repeat itself on our B.C. coastline by the Russians and Japanese, etc., etc., is the reason I ask our B.C. and federal governments to seriously evaluate the protests and statements presented by Bob Hunter, president of the Greenpeace Foundation. Especially the view (which in my case is based on personal experience) that to be a communist in Canada — your first allegiance has to be towards Russia, not Canada.

Disclosure

Your editorial comments under the heading Keeping Financial Score on Saturday, June 26, 1976, referred to our government's plan to produce quarterly financial reports for the first time in British Columbia, and you indicated the need to include quarterly financial information on Crown corporations.

I certainly agree with this idea and in a public statement made recently I announced that as additional information we plan to include a brief financial statement covering several of our Crown corporations. These statements will be a part of our quarterly report and will include information on the Insurance Corporation of British Columbia.

I certainly agree with your comments about the need for public disclosure on these matters.

EVAN M. WOLFE,
Minister of Finance.

Pen pals

May I have the use of a few lines of your newspaper to reply to Mr. John Fryer regarding his review on my comments about the BCGEU?

Mr. Fryer has missed his calling. He would be much more suited as a comedian. The only thing that would be wrong with his act is the repetition. He appears incapable of changing his script.

Mr. Fryer is also incapable of being honest with the public, or is he afraid? He continually attempts to create the illusion that the present union conflict is a localized issue perpetrated by non-union government employees.

Mr. Fryer also appears to have difficulty with his hearing, for it would be only the most deaf who could not hear th outcries that have been reverberating in BCGEU union halls at recent union meetings and meetings set up by the union executive to investigate voting procedure shortcomings.

Mr. Fryer also cannot comprehend that these outcries and the thousands of names on petitions are from union members, not Rand Formula people.

Now that Mr. Fryer and I have become "Pen Pals" I think we should be less formal. Dal is fine with me, and being from the old school and all that rot, old chap, I would like to call you John Boy. It has that ring of the stuff men used to be made of.

There is a saying that there is a correct tool for every job. Well John Boy, I think my cracked crystal ball you say I use, is very suited under the circumstances.

Ferries

It is ironic that the provincial government increased the ferry rates to such magnitude that it is keeping the usual influx of tourists from visiting our beautiful island. Now it is trying to appease by spending $100,000 in an advertising campaign (as announced in the Colonist, June 26) to attract tourists to come here. For that kind of money they could have offered them a bonus on the ferry crossing which would be a much more palatable inducement. A cheaper return-fare rate should be allowed, for once on the Island, one obviously has to make a return journey.

We had friends visiting us in their motor-home vehicle. It cost them $25 each way to cross on the ferry (two people). They could only stay three days. $50 is a lot of money for so short a time. Why could visitors not be offered a return fare reduction?

Taxes

Since moving to my home on Falkland Road four years ago, my taxes have tripled. I realize wages and inflation are the prime cause.

What I am objecting to quite strenuously is the way in which my tax money is being spent.

The proposed sea wall is ridiculous and unnecessary. As a dog walker on Shoal Bay for eight years I have yet to see anyone walking or sunning on that unfortunate little concrete strip already there. It is always covered with sand, stones and logs. There is no erosion where the bank is covered with shrubs and wild flowers and even the enormous logs do not wash away in fierce winter storms.

Those on council who have seen the proposed site for the sorely needed pump station can only be horrified. Do have a second look and envision the ugliness on that particular point.

Do we really need to spend half a million dollars for covered tennis courts at this time of so called "restraint?" I think not.

Do the ratepayers in Oak Bay realize what casual summer labor is paid? I understand it will be $6.24 an hour starting July 1. Fifty dollars a day for cutting grass! With wages like that why does Oak Bay look so seedy and unkempt this year? Could it be that the men often start to pack up at 3:45 for 4:30 closing? As a taxpayer, therefore an employer, I have every right to complain to them, to the boss on hand and the Oak Bay Council when I see this happening.

I am weary of being one of the silent majority — unless we all speak up our taxes will be tripled again by 1980.

Vengeful

I find it hard to believe that there are one hundred and thirty-three persons in Canada who are so vengeful that they would sooner torture a mad dog than put it out of its misery; who would lock it up in a cage for 15 to 25 years, perhaps to watch it die in bondage.

Delay hit

An open letter to Labor Minister Allan Williams from the Status of Women Action Group:

We are writing to express our conern over delay in setting up a Board of Inquiry for the case of Dr. Jonna Bruhn-Mou under the Human Rights Act.

Many individuals and groups throughout the province worked hard to bring about the enactment of an effective code, broad in scope and strong in enforcement, which would properly reflect a deep belief in basic human rights in this province. It has been as a result of an active educational program as well as aggressive enforcement measures by the Human Rights Branch that more people are aware of their human rights and that employers, etc., can no longer discriminate freely, disregarding any sense of social justice.

By your lack of action it appears that you, as minister, have no respect for the tenets of the Human Rights Code, and are well on the way to rendering the code useless as a tool for protecting the human rights of the people in this province. If the government shows no respect for upholding the law, it is not likely that others will feel obliged to obey it in their policies and actions.

To date, the number of complaints has risen sharply over those of last year. However, there have been only two or perhaps three Boards of Inquiry actually set, and these long after they had been approved by former labor minister King.

Dr. Jonna Bruhn-Mou is a qualified dentist from Denmark. Her degrees are recognized by the United Kingdom, Australia and Manitoba, yet she was denied the opportunity even to sit the exams of the B.C. College of Dental Surgeons. Her complaint to the Human Rights Branch was investigated and, presumably, they felt there was sufficeint cause to request a Board of Inquiry. This board was approved by former minister King, yet since December no further action has been taken. Had the board been duly set up, and had she won her case, Dr. Mou could have sat the B.C. exams this month. The effect of your inaction is to rule against Dr. Mou without recourse to the properly constituted procedures for resolving conflicts under the code.

There can be little justification for not letting the law run its course. Presumably, the Boards of Inquiry will make fair, impartial and just decisions. To deny Dr. Mou and the others who are waiting their rights a hearing is to deny them their rights to a resolution of their cases under the law.

We would hope that any government would vigorously champion the cause of equal rights for all under its jurisdiction and enthusiastically enforce the code which embodies these rights. We urge you to act quickly to set up Boards of Inquiry for all cases awaiting them.

MIMI ROBERTSON,
President,,
Victoria.

Evers' knuckles rapped over welfare suggestion

The Union of B.C. Municipalities president Muni Evers has dropped a hint to Human Resources Minister William Vander Zalm that small communities should help pay welfare costs for the first time.

And Tahsis is angry.

Not only do representatives of the west coast Vancouver Island community think the action was taken without full UBCM approval, but they contend that welfare money is rarely handed out in small communities.

In a letter received by Saanich council Monday, Tahsis protested Evers' recent letter to Vander Zalm stating that communities with fewer than 2,500 people don't contribute.

Those are communities that don't pay a per capita sum toward 10 per cent of provincial welfare costs.

New Westminster Mayor Evers, interviewed by the Colonist Monday by phone insisted he was not advising the minister to start changing the smaller communities.

"The letter just states the facts," he said, adding, however: "If you're going to charge everyone, charge everyone."

The per capita charge referred to, that in total pays 10 per cent of the bill, goes along with a 50 per cent federal welfare payment and 40 per cent provincial payment.

Evers said he wrote the letter to the minister without first going to either UBCM executive members or regular convention delegates.

"I speak for the UBCM," he said, adding, "I'm bringing it up to the executive on Thursday," That meeting is at the Richmond Hyatt Hotel."

The letter from Tahsis, which was sent to Evers as well as other municipalities, is the only response Evers received from his action, he said, adding that letter "doesn't make complete sense."

The letter says Evers should not have taken the action because it would not be agreed upon by half the UBCM delegates. More than half are from communities of fewer than 2,500.

"It may interest Mayor Evers to find out that in some isolated communities the question of welfare seldom, if ever, arises since the only people who will live in such communities are workers not normally eligible for welfare," it adds.

"In the opinion of my council, this letter (from Evers to Vander Zalm) is a grave abuse of the president's position."

Tudor Road widening 'referred'

The issue of possible widening of Tudor Road at Ten Mile Point has been bounced like a ball from Saanich council once again.

Aldermen turned the issue over to a council committee Monday for a report on road-widening costs after defeating Ald. Sandy Noel's motion that the street improvement go to a public referendum.

The issue has been raised several times recently and involves a footpath some residents want to see carved through a wooded area near the narrow road.

The area includes about 70 acres that might house 650 new residents within a few years if Broadmead Developers get the okay for a project that has not yet come to council.

Man serious after fall from ladder

A Victoria man was listed in serious condition late Monday night following an afternoon accident outside his home.

Davis Carey, 71, of 216 Romney underwent surgery after falling off a ladder.

Victoria city police said a witness saw Carey standing on an aluminum ladder at about 2:20 p.m. using an electric chain saw on a tree limb.

The witness told police Carey toppled off the ladder after the limb fell.

He was taken to Royal Jubilee Hospital with head lacerations but lapsed into unconsciousness about an hour after the mishap.

More delay in zoning

After a year of work and three public meetings, some Central Saanich aldermen admitted Monday that they are not familiar enough with their new zoning bylaw to discuss a final reading.

Ald. Don MacLaurin moved that discussion and final reading of the zoning bylaw be postponed so council could look through a report on the public hearing held last week.

He said he had several points he wanted to discuss, such as whether the bylaw should be geared to metric or imperial measurements.

A special meeting, scheduled for next Monday at 7:30, was accepted unanimously by council, but not until Ald. Dave Hill objected.

He pointed out that council had already spent $20,000 on a consultant, held three public meetings, published three newsletters, and discussed the bylaw by point in about 20 meetings.

The public hearing was held so council members could listen to residents, and aldermen should have taken notes on what was said, Hill added. He said the clerk's report on the public hearing seemed to be the same as his own notes.

Now the council was near "the crunch, we're afraid to make a decision," he charged. He asked that anyone who saw major problems in the bylaw bring them out at once, but his challenge wasn't taken up.

Ald. George MacFarlane said he had objected to the first two readings of the bylaw because the document was not in a readable form, but he went along because the readings were needed to enact a building freeze.

Then he voted for third reading so the bylaw could go to public hearing and full debate, he said. Now he wanted to read the points brought up at public hearing, he said.

Aldermen Frank Waring and Percy Lazarz were in favor of a special meeting to give them more time to consider points made at the hearing.

Saanich pushes Blanshard extension

Road link before hospital

By ELEANOR BOYLE
Colonist Reporter

How about a Blanshard Street extension winding out toward a new hospital at Douglas and McKenzie?

That's the suggestion Saanich council will place before the provincial government which appears to be ready to funnel cash into Trans-Canada Highway upgrading before casting it in the direction of the long-talked-of Blanshard extension.

The upgraded highway—also a dream since the province hasn't allocated a penny for it this year—heads toward the recently - approved new Victoria General Hospital site on Helmcken Road.

But Saanich council denounced both the Helmcken site and the highway upgrading priority Monday.

Aldermen envisaged Saanich taxpayers shelling out a lot of money in future for improvement of services around a Helmcken hospital that would necessitate upgrading of Wilkinson Road among others, Ald. Sandy Noel said.

And Saanich simply hasn't allocated any funds for road upgrading in that area in the foreseeable future, he said.

Some road improvement bills would be paid by the provincial highways department "as an improvement to providing access to a public institution," according to a Capital Region hospital report.

That June, 1976, report, however, names only streets in the immediate vicinity of the proposed hospital.

Saanich is worried about other streets nearby.

Its council members are also worried about fire protection. Ald. Fred Severson said there's little fire protection in the Helmcken Road district and Saanich would have to shoulder the responsibility.

Capital Region engineers cited payment of "the cost to provide proper water distribution" as the only problem.

Saanich Mayor Ed Lum has said Highways Minister Alex Fraser has made it clear the Trans-Canada has priority over the Blanshard extension which has been under study for 15 years.

Lum contends the Blanshard extension would ease Douglas Street traffic by 40 per cent.

The Saanich message to the province was summed up by Noel who wanted to "make it clear to provincial government that Saanich doesn't have money for upgrading of roads to put the hospital in the wrong place."

Policy words not society's

The president of University of Victoria's Alma Mater Society has dissociated himself and the society from public remarks made by two of the society's officers.

Alistair Palmer said statements by vice-president Brian Gardiner and academic affairs chairman John Luton published June 26 by both Victoria daily newspapers were "unconstitutional and incorrect."

Gardiner and Luton blamed the provincial and federal governments for the bleak employment picture in Victoria and urged UVic students to mount a letter-writing campaign to MLAs and MPs.

The students blamed the provincial government for "severely crippling the Island tourist industry" and cited increases in B.C. Ferries fares and Insurance Corporation of B.C. rates.

The federal government was criticized for cutbacks in Local Initiatives Program and Opportunities for Youth as well as tightened regulations for unemployment insurance benefits.

Contacted in his office Monday, Palmer said he was the constituted spokesman of the society and any policy statements, unless otherwise directed by the society council, would be made through the president's office.

Palmer noted that both Gardiner and Luton are members of the NDP club at UVic and are employed with the provincial government. He also said he believed the two were hired through Canada Manpower's Work in Government program for students.

He described the two as being in positions of conflict of interest and said they were using their AMS positions to "promote their own beliefs and party interests."

"There is without a doubt a lot of animosity on my council and I have tried to cope with it in a reasonable fashion, but they've stretched me to my limit."

Victorians win revolver shoot

Robert Stephen and Art Tomsett, two of the three Victorians who recently won places on the seven-member B.C. handgun-competition team, took main honors at the two-day, 57th annual Victoria City Police Revolver Club shoot during the weekend.

Stephen, a constable, won all three aggregate awards open only to members of the Victoria force while Tomsett scored a similar sweep in match aggregate events. The three aggregates in each case were for centre fire, .22 calibre fire and grand totals.

Tomsett came first in six open events while Stephen was first in two and Quinton Mar, the third Victorian on the handgun team, took three. Winners of one open event each were Joe Wulfekuhle of the Washington national guard, George Eaton of Vancouver and Jerome Harrison of Nanaimo.

Other winners were Art Young of Esquimalt, mayors' match; Victoria Inspector Angus Stewart, commissioned officers; U.S. visitor Trudy Danard, women; Steve Champion, Victoria police novice and service gun; Victoria police, .22 calibre team match, and Vancouver police, centre fire team.

Hearing starts in deaths

DUNCAN — A preliminary hearing began in provincial court here Monday for a 26-year-old American, James Rodriguez Melendez, who is charged in connection with a double slaying near Duncan last October.

Victoria lawyer Michael Hutchison, defending the accused, asked immediately for a ban to be placed on any publication of the proceedings and this was granted by Provincial Court Judge Lance Heard.

Melendez, a former resident of Duncan, was extradited from the United States in March after he had been charged with two counts of non-capital murder in connection with the deaths of James Oldfield, 29, and Mrs. Pamela Jones, 22, both of Duncan.

Their bodies were found last Nov. 16 near the North Cowichan municipal dump.

Five days have been set aside in the Duncan provincial court for the preliminary hearing, where as many as 40 witnesses are expected to be asked to testify.

Aircraft inspectors hike cut stays

OTTAWA (CP) — The Anti-Inflation Board announced Monday it will not change a previous decision reducing pay increases offered aircraft safety inspectors employed by the federal government.

In another announcement, the board ordered cuts in pay increases in contracts between Ottawa board of education and 2,000 elementary school teachers and maintenance personnel.

About 330 workers, who inspect aircraft safety equipment and test pilots and who are represented in contract talks by the Professional Institute of the Public Service of Canada, are deliberating on what future action to take, a spokesman said.

The Anti-Inflation Board said it found no basis for special consideration which would permit inspectors' annual pay increases to exceed $2,400 — the maximum allowable under Canada's selective wage controls.

This decision rejected a May arbitration report by Mr. Justice Emmett Hall, who called for salary increases of 19.6 per cent and 9.4 per cent under a contract retroactive to July 28, 1975. This would have resulted in average pay increases of $3,700 in the first year and $2,218 in the second year, without taking pensions into account.

Inspectors went on strike June 25 when the original board decision was announced. Since June 28, the union has reduced this to a selective strike of about 60 inspectors at Montreal, Toronto, Ottawa and Vancouver.

A contract covering the first eight months of 1976 had provided a pay increase of 23 per cent for 1,284 elementary teachers, but the board said this should be reduced to 10 per cent.

The board said the teachers were strictly eligible for only 5.33 per cent over the eight months, but that the greater amount was in recognition of historical relationships — with Ottawa secondary school teachers and teachers at nearby school boards — "to the extent reconcilable with the objectives of the anti-inflation program."

A 13-month contract, retroactive to Jan. 1, 1976, had provided 885 maintenance workers with a wage increase of 10.88 per cent, but the board said this should be reduced to eight per cent over the first 12 months.

The board said it made no comment on what should be done with the last month of the contract, but advised the parties that the group was entitled to a maximum increase of six per cent for the 12 months starting Jan. 1, 1977.

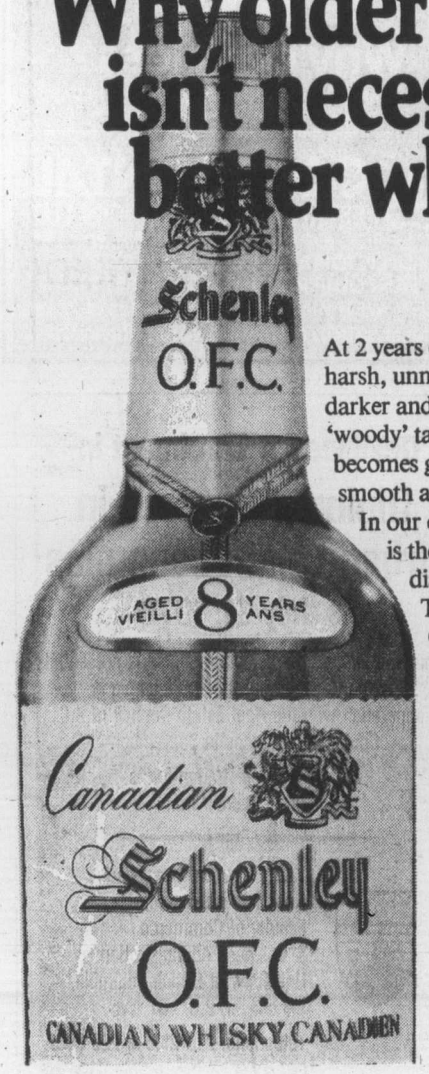
Why older whisky isn't necessarily better whisky.



At 2 years old Canadian whisky is pale, harsh, unmatured—and around 12 it's darker and beginning to take on a heavy 'woody' taste. In between this time, it becomes golden, mellow, smooth and full-bodied. In our opinion OFC is the prime Canadian whisky. That's why OFC is 8 years old and only 8 years old. The prime time for taste, try it.

But reactor loss slashed, Argentine says

Canada still out a bundle

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian government will still lose $24.5 million on the sale of a nuclear reactor to Argentina despite renegotiation of a sales contract, the head of the Argentinian nuclear agency indicated Monday.

Carlos Castromadero, here for talks on possible sale of a second reactor, released figures that show negotiators have reduced Canada's loss on the first sale by $71.5 million.

Officials of Atomic Energy of Canada Ltd. told a Commons committee last fall that the government could lose $96 million in the deal with Argentina, but the terms of the contract were being revised.

AECL president John Foster, who escorted Castromadero to the airport following his news conference, declined comment on the figures released.

He said the renegotiated contract still needed ratification by the governments involved and he could say nothing until then.

The original contract set the price for the Canadian portion of the 600-megawatt reactor at about $111 million, with a provision for inflation set with a ceiling of 24 per cent. But inflation went beyond that, raising the price to $207 million and leaving the gvernment facing a loss of $96 million.

Castromadero said the price for the Canadian part of the reactor had been increased to $112.1 million from $78 million for goods and services, to $67 million from $30.1 million for heavy water and to $13.6 million from $2.7 million for uranium fuel.

That brings the total price Argentina will pay for exports from Canada to $182.7 million, reducing Canada's loss by $71.5 million but still not covering the total cost.

Castromadero, a navy captain who now heads his country's nuclear program, said he met with officials of AECL for preliminary talks on purchase of a second 600-megawatt reactor.

But he said the federal government said it would not go ahead with any new sales until the economy in Argentina has stabilized.

Inflation in Argentina, which ran between 300 and 400 per cent last year, dropped to three per cent last month following a military coup earlier this year.

Figures coming today

OTTAWA (CP) — Provincial financial ministers will be presented with elaborate figures today to show why the federal government wants to change existing tax-raising and spending arrangements, Finance Minister Donald Macdonald said Monday.

The finance ministers are to meet for two days to discuss federal proposals to substitute current dollar-matching arrangements for health and education costs with a system of cash payments and grants.

The proposal was put to provicial premiers by Prime Minister Trudeau at a conference here three weeks ago. But no figures were presented, then to show the effects of Ottawa's proposal on provincial revenues.

Ottawa's proposal basically was to give the provinces more power to raise taxes on their own to cover these social programs, and to supplement this transfer of tax points with cash payments from the federal treasury.

Ed Broadbent, New Democratic party leader, asked Macdonald in the Commons Monday if there are further measures still to be announced that would assure some provinces with smaller tax bases that they will not lose revenue.

Macdonald said that Ottawa recognized some provinces have less tax-raising capacity. For that reason, the federal government proposed to continue cash grants for them until such time as they could be replaced with equal per capita grants, he added.

The finance minister said elaborate figures have been prepared to show the effect upon the provinces of the proposed federal changes. The figures cover a range of possibilities from total transfer of tax points to the provinces to cover social program costs to total cash payments.

Ottawa sitting on seabed issue

OTTAWA (CP) — The justice department will spend the rest of the summer studying a British Columbia court decision that gave the provincial government ownership of the sea bottom between the mainland and Vancouver Island.

A spokesman for federal Justice Minister Ron Basford said Monday the department has begun studying the B.C. Court of Appeal decision, handed down last week, to decide whether to appeal the ruling to the Supreme Court of Canada.

But it cannot apply for a hearing until the high court ends its summer recess in September.

During the B.C. hearing, the federal government argued the seabed should fall within its jurisdiction. The court ruled 3 to 2 in favor of the province.

A 1967 Supreme Court decision gave the federal government ownership of the continental shelf seabed from the lowwater mark out.

Sources in Ottawa said the court probably found in B.C.'s favor because the 1967 decision awarded the continental shelf to the federal government on the basis that it was beyond the three-mile limit that traditionally had been the national boundary.

Cindy leaves strait swim for present

Long-distance swimmer Cindy Nicholas of Toronto has decided not to test herself against the Strait of Juan de Fuca this year.

But the 16-year-old hopes to challenge the strait next year.

Oak Bay Marina's Robert Wright said the swimmer first wants to take another crack at the English Channel record. She has already crossed the channel, and came close to the record.

Wright has supplied the Toronto girl with air and water temperatures statistics of the strait.

Many have tried, but only three swimmers — Bert Thomas, Marilyn Bell, and Cliff Lumsden — have successfully crossed the strait.

Pick-off attempt too late

Valerie O'Brien of Gordon Head is safe as Dawson Creek's Kari Hunter pulls in pick-off attempt during B.C. girls Little League softball championships Monday at Majestic Park. Miss O'Brien pitched Gordon Head to a 12-8 win in the 13-15 year-old division while her sister Sandy hurled a one-hitter as Gordon Head won the 12-and-under division game, 7-1. The tournament resumes today with Gordon Head and Dawson Creek meeting in the 13-15 final at 4 p.m. and Lake Hill and Dawson Creek meeting in the loser's bracket final of the 12-and-under division at 6:30 p.m.

Major-league crowds show giant increase

Major league baseball has a lot of things to settle in court but it appears to be heading for a record attendance year.

A few clubs are having trouble attracting enough fans to meet expenses, but the over-all picture is excellent and the gain over last season is nearing two million fans.

Cleveland Indians set a club record on Sunday when 62,504 fans turned out for the last game of a four-game series with New York Yankees, and Monday night there were 48,467 in the Atlanta crowd which watched the Braves respond with an 8-6 win over Pittsburgh Pirates. And 60,942 fans greeted Philadelphia Phillies on their return from a road trip.

The Indians, who drew fewer than a million fans last season, are second in the American League East but they were seven games behind the Yankees when the series started. They started with a victory, and that helped considerably in bringing out 186,300 fans for the four-game set.

That was more than 40,000 above the former four-game high of 145,825, set in a 1948 series against the Yankees. The crowds of 64,529 on Saturday and the 62,504 on Sunday were the two largest gatherings in the major leagues this year, and they put the Indians 98,505 fans ahead of last season's attendance pace.

Atlanta, a troubled franchise last year with a season's total of only 534,672 fans, is under new, aggressive ownership but the efforts of the Braves hardly rate Monday night crowds of almost 50,000 and the biggest percentage gain in either league to this point of the season. The Braves had won three of their last four games, but even with Monday's win were five games below .500 and 11½ games out of the division lead.

And there was no gain Monday as Cincinnati Reds and Los Angeles Dodgers continued to run one-two in the National League West. The Reds breezed past Montreal Expos, 11-2, with Joe Morgan hitting a grand-slam homer and batting in five runs. The Dodgers got two-hit pitching from Burt Hooton and home runs from Steve Garvey and Bill Russell in besting the Phillies, 6-0.

Division leads remained unchanged in the American League, where the Yankees lost and Kansas City Royals won.

The Yankees, who stretched their lead to nine games Sunday with a third straight win against the second-place Indians, were beaten Monday, 2-1, by the Royals. The losers got 11 hits and the Royals used three relief pitchers in a successful struggle to protect their 2-0 first-inning lead.

But the Indians also lost, taking an 8-1 drubbing from Califorina's lowly Angels and winding up with Boston Red Sox as co-holders of second place. The Red Sox finally balanced their record by clobbering Chicago White Sox, 11-2.

Texas Rangers stayed within three and a half lengths of the Royals, scoring four times in the seventh inning to outlast Detroit Tigers 8-6.

Shamrocks gain point

Victoria Shamrocks, the only club yet to have clinched a Western Lacrosse Association playoff spot, picked up a point over the weekend and are now leading by five points.

The point came on a ruling of their protest of last Wednesday's 12-13 overtime loss to New Westminster Salmonbellies. Shamrocks claimed that the New Westminster club scored two illegal goals because of a penalty mixup which allowed a New Westminster player to return to the floor before his penalty time had been fully served.

Commissioner Roy Burton found this to be so in his check of game records, and he also discovered that the Shamrocks had scored an illegal goal. That brought his ruling that the game be declared a tie at 11-11, the score at the end of regulation time.

That gave the Shamrocks a 12-4-1 record and left Salmonbellies at 6-9-1 and only one point ahead of the fourth-place Nanaimo Timbermen. However, Burton said, the game will be replayed if the failure to produce a decision has a bearing on deciding the playoff clubs.

Burton, carrying on his effort to cut down on fighting, also levied what he termed "major" fines against Nanaimo Timbermen and Vancouver Burrards for a bench-clearing scrap in Vancouver last Tuesday. And Ward Sanderson of Burrards, who also received a warning that any further offences would bring stiffer penalties, received a two-game suspension for his part in a fight with Jim Lynch.

Sanderson will sit out the July 18 game against Timbermen and the July 31 game against Coquitlam Adanacs.

Burton also said that no blame was attached to the Shamrocks for their late arrival for the Saturday game in Coquitlam. It came about because air transportation was late and Burton said that he had received an apology from Harrison Air Lines.

Next game — Tonight, Coquitlam at Victoria.

Still 10 games from the end of their schedule and only three points out front, Victoria McDonalds can't afford to take it easy in tonght's Western Canada Major Junior Lacrosse League game.

It's at Esquimalt Sports Centre against Coquitlam J-Hawks, and the opportunity is there for the league leaders to profit individually and as a team.

J-Hawks can ill afford to lose tonight. They are only three points ahead of Richmond and after tonight's game will be two games closer to the end of their schedule than the fifth-place Roadrunners.

But the Coquitlam team seems made to order for the Kevin Alexander-Bob Cool combination. J-Hawks have allowed 324 goals in their first 18 games, a statistic which indicates Alexander and Cool should add to their outstanding records.

Alexander, shooting for the Canadian junior record of 207 points he set last year, has 153 points. That puts him 19 points ahead of his linemate, but Cool is 31 points ahead of third-place Dan Wilson.

On Sunday, Burnaby Cablevision closed in on McDonalds again by overpowering the J-Hawks, 24-15. John Krgovich had four goals and five assists and Kelly McLeneghen four goals and three assists for the winners. Norm Luedzler scored five times for J-Hawks.

Price nabs points lead

Jim Caudwell won the main event duel Monday at Western Speedway and Bill Price earned enough points to jump into first place in the super-stock points race.

Price took second place in the main event and first place in the trophy dash to boost his points total to 786, while former leader Bob Collins timed in with the fastest time of 19.03 before the crowd of 1080 at the Langford oval but developed head problems on his 1959 Thunderbird and was unable to race. He now has 710 points.

Caudwell, who won the first main event of his career earlier this season, led for the first nine and the last 13 laps of the 35-lap main event.

Price, who led from the 10th to the 22nd lap, stayed close to Caudwell all the way despite developing a miss in his 1964 Chevelle.

Tony Oxley won the accident-filled first heat. Only five of the 11 starters finished the race which was stopped four times by red flags.

Ernie Schoor finished first but was disqualified for having illegal tires.

Mike Tuck drove his own car to victory in the hobby-stock main event. Gordie Hildebrandt, who usually pilots the 1964 Chevelle was unable to compete so Tuck, who has some driving experience, took the wheel.

Points leader Bill Hitchcox was sidelined twice by Warner Johnstone in the hobby-stock main and Johnstone was black-flagged after the second infraction.

Softball roundup

Protests piling up

It was a big night for protests on the Greater Victoria softball circuit Monday.

MacDonalds Furniture Juniors lodged a protest over their 3-0 defeat at the hands of Hygrade Radio in a Victoria junior women's playoff game at Hyacinth Park.

And in a Sidney Men's Association League game at Sancha Park Sidney Hotel protested a 5-2 loss to Harvey's Sporting Goods.

Hygrade held a 3-0 lead going into the seventh inning when the coach brought in a player which had appeared in only two league games. Under senior women's rules a player must have appeared in a minimum of three league games to be eligible to play in the playoffs.

A league spokesman said Monday that she wasn't sure if the rule applied to juniors and a ruling had not been made.

At Sidney, Brian Vanderkratch pitched victory and Arv Hawkins and Terry Nunn hit solo home runs for Harveys.

Sidney Hotel protested the decision because the umpires allowed a run that scored on an inning-ending double play to stand.

The league has yet to decide on a protest from a Sunday game in which KOA edged Travelodge, 4-3. In that game Travelodge protested because a run that scored was disallowed. With runners on first and second the batter singled. The runner on second came home to score but the runner coming from first base was thrown out at third base. Travelodge felt the run scored before the out but the umpires disagreed.

Meanwhile, Nanaimo A and B Construction won the first annual Wally Yeamens women's tournament Sunday by defeating GSV Combos 8-5 and 6-2 in the championship round.

Laurie Grimston of Stockers North Americans won the batting title with a .500 average.

In the Stuffy McGinnis Men's League Tournament at Central Park, Ingraham Hotel won top honors with a 6-3 triumph over Port Alberni Beaufort Hotel in the final.

Mel Nelson pitched the final victory for Ingraham and was chosen the outstanding pitcher for his 2-0 record, his 1.08 earned-run-average and 17 strikeouts in 13 innings.

At Heywood Park, Century Inn won the Heywood Avenue Men's League Tournament by defeating London Boxing Club, 8-5, and finishing with a 4-1 record in the round-robin affair.

Aynsley lifts Als

OTTAWA (CP) — An eight-yard pass to receiver Brock Aynsley from rookie quarterback Joe Barnes boosted Montreal Alouettes to a 26-22 win over Ottawa Rough Riders in a closely fought Canadian Football League exhibition game Monday.

Aynsley's score came at 10:35 of the fourth quarter and was set up by halfback Glen Leach's recovery of an Ottawa fumble on a punt return, giving Montreal first down on the Ottawa 18-yard line.

A holding penalty moved the ball to the eight from where Barnes found Ainsley wide open in the left corner of the end zone.

The Alouettes got two touchdowns from running back Ian Mofford and one from tight end Peter Dalla Riva. Don Sweet kicked two converts while Barnes failed on two-point conversion attempts on the other touchdowns.

Ottawa scoring was led by Gerry Organ, who kicked five field goals and converted a touchdown by wide receiver Moody Jackson in the second quarter.

Hobbs posts upset

Art Hobbs of Victoria pulled a major upset in the first day of play in the Pacific Regional Junior Tennis Tournament here Monday.

After downing Doug Halliday of Vancouver, 5-7, 6-0, 6-2, in the morning, Hobbs came back to upset third-seeded Tony Schiwaci of Hawaii, 6-4, 2-6, 7-6 in the afternoon.

Hobbs advances to the quarter-finals of the under-18 singles where he'll meet David Trendal of Phoenix today. Trendal upset seventh-seeded Mike Sayce of Vancouver.

Scott Braley of Victoria also advanced and will meet top-seeded Steve Volrich of Vancouver in a quarter-final match today.

In the girls under-18 division, Victorians Brenda Cameron, Nina Bland and Lori Barlow scored victories and advanced to today's semi-finals.

Miss Cameron plays Miss Barlow while Miss Bland plays Gayle Dobson of Vancouver.

Top-seeded Jennifer Bland advanced to the semi-finals of the under-16 division while Andrie Levey is in the quarter-finals, Val Brice is in the semi-finals of the girls under-14 division.

Cale pushing NASCAR leader

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Victory in Sunday's Firecracker 400 increased Cale Yarborough to the No. two spot in this year's National Association of Stock Car Auto Racing money-winning competition.

Yarborough's edged ahead of Richard Petty and, with $169,080 to his credit, was pushing David Pearson for the lead. Pearson has won $179,680, including second-place money in the Firecracker 400.

Petty is third with $167,715, followed by Benny Parsons, $129,945, and Bobby Allison, $109,705.

Yarborough posted an eight-second victory over Pearson and Allison.

Only two caution periods slowed the race. One was with 26 laps to go when Janet Guthrie spun in the fourth turn. The other was for a seven-car tangle in the early going that started with a blown engine in Buddy Baker's Ford.

Huge trout near record

FLIN FLON (CP) — Joe Fitzpatrick, 64, of Flin Flon caught a 42-pound, 12-ounce trout Sunday to win the $1,000 top prize at the 26th annual Flin Flon Trout Festival.

The fish, 44 inches long and 28 inches in girth, was caught in about 100 feet of water in Lake Athapapuskow. It took 20 minutes to land and is the second-largest ever entered in the festival.

In 1971, Ted Mackonka of Flin Flon landed a 44-pound trout.

The $250 prize for the biggest northern pike went to Jean Danielson, 24, of Cranberry Portage, Man., who landed the 26-pound five-ounce pike in Lake Athapapuskow.

Alcos win tourney

Alcos won the Victoria and District Cricket Association's annual six-a-side tournament Sunday at Beacon Hill Park.

Winners of the John Ross Robertson Trophy match with Caribe of Calgary on Saturday, the Alcos won six-a-side honors for the second straight year beating Albion "A", 42-41 in the final.

In the tournament, each club received five overs for an inning with a total of 30 balls.

Steve Hanson, who batted for 33 runs against Caribe, scored 34 not out against Albion.

Albion "B" defeated Saanich, 41-34, in the consolation final.

Golf officers named

Victoria City and District branch of the Canadian Ladies Golf Association recently held executive elections.

Margaret Todd of Victoria Golf Club was elected chairman of junior development. Eileen Anderson of Royal Colwood was elected chairman-course rating and Muriel McPherson of Glen Meadows was elected treasurer.

Remaining on the executive for a second year are: June Lovitt of Uplands (chairman); Peggy Matthews, of Gorge Vale (handicaps); Sydney Boyd, Victoria (teams); Florence Hives of Cedar Hill (secretary).

B.C. in soccer final

TORONTO (CP) — Denmark defeated Canada 1-0 Sunday to win a 12-country invitational juvenile soccer tournament.

It was the first loss for the Canadian team, represented by the Kerrisdale Legion team from Vancouver. Kerrisdale won all four games in the round-robin portion of the tournament.

Kerrisdale beat Wexford, a Toronto team, to advance to the final, while Denmark beat a team from Dallas in the semi-final.

Muncey wins regatta

MADISON, Ind. (AP) — Bill Muncey, driving the smooth Atlas Van Lines, won the 28th Madison Regatta and the Indiana Governor's Cup for unlimited hydroplanes Sunday.

More than 100,000 persons lined both the Indiana and Kentucky banks of the Ohio River for the race which kept Atlas firmly atop the American Power Boat Association season point standings.

It was the second victory in four races for the boat, which won the first race at Miami and finished second both at Washington, D.C., and in the Gold Cup race at Detroit last Sunday.

Miss U.S., driven by Tom D'Eath of Detroit, won the Gold Cup and finished second to Atlas here.

Muncey, 47, now has 34 career victories — more than any other driver — and has five wins at Madison to go with his four national championships.

Kern regains touch and Bates triumph

SEATTLE — Stan Kern was in peak form early Monday morning as he hurled Victoria Bates to victory in the annual Heidelberg Invitational Fastball Tournament.

The big righthander, who had been struggling in recent weeks, fired a two-hitter in the championship game as Bates scored a 1-0 decision over Seattle Pay 'N' Pak.

Kern pitched three wins in the tournament, two on Sunday, he struck out nine batters in the final and was named most valuable pitcher.

The two-hitter was his best performance since he threw a two-hitter against Fraser Valley in a Pacific Coast Fastball League game on May 2.

He was below par in recent series with Vancouver Magicians and Reading, Pa. He failed to win a game in either series and Bates lost both by three games to one.

Bates run came in the fourth inning when Mike Taaffe was hit by a pitch, advanced on a sacrifice by John Green and scored on a single by Pete Songhurst, in the action which ended at 2:30 a.m.

Bates had dropped a 4-3 decision to Pay 'N' Pak in the winners bracket final but earned a berth in the championship game by beating Seattle Peterbilt, 6-3, in an error-filled contest.

Centrefielder Ken Bate led the tournament in hitting with a .530 average, Kern had an earned-run-average of 0.00 and catcher Bob Burrows hit two home runs.

Kern, Bate, shortstop Bob Holness and outfielder Harvey Stevenson were chosen to the all-star team.

The Bates next home doubleheader is July 13 when they meet a New Zealand team, which includes national team pitching star Kevin Herlihy, at Royal Athletic Park.

Tickets for the New Zealand doubleheader are on sale at Memorial Arena box office.

Robb hangs on at Cowichan

Doug Robb blew to a 74 Sunday but managed to hang on and capture championship honors in the 24th annual Cowichan Open at Cowichan Golf Club.

The Abbotsford professional carded a 67 in the opening round of the 36-hole tournament Saturday. His 141-total gave him a one-stroke victory over Victoria amateurs Dave Mick and Jim Rutledge and a three-stroke triumph over Uplands pro Brian Carbery.

Robb earned $600, Carbery took home $400 and defending champion Bill Wakeham of Cowichan earned $300.

Mick had the low round Sunday, 69, while Rutledge shot 70-72—142 to tie for amateur honors.

Ken Floyd of Powell River scored 72-73—145 for third low amateur and B.C. amateur champion Doug Roxburgh scored 72-74—146.

John Russell of Vancouver tied for third with Floyd and won the handicap title with 145-14—131. Jack Cranston was second low net and Ralph Thorne was third low net.

Leading professionals and their winnings:

Doug Robb ($600)	67-74—141
Bryan Carbery ($400)	72-72—144

Next game: Tonight — Senior Babe Ruth All-Stars vs. Greaves Movers, Lambrick Park.

Rick Cook maintained his unbeaten record Monday pitching a five-hitter for his fourth win as Gorge Hotel edged Kubiceks Home Service, 3-1, in a Senior Amateur League baseball game at Lambrick Park.

Garnet Moen led the league-leaders attack going two for four at the plate and scoring the winning run, on a two-run single by Bob Mabee in the sixth inning.

On Sunday a Victoria team made up of players from throughout the league swept a doubleheader from Vancouver Puccinis at Capilano Stadium in Vancouver.

Catcher Rick Mark, a former Metro League player, had four hits and drove in five runs as Victoria thumped the Metro League squad, 10-3 and 10-5.

Moen added three hits and drove in two runs and Danny Rogers slugged a three-run homer in the second game.

All-Stars win series

Victoria Firefighters All-stars completed their exhibition Senior Babe Ruth baseball series with Nanaimo All-Stars by sweeping a doubleheader Sunday at Bullen Park.

Nanaimo outhit Victoria in both games but the Firefighters took advantage of five-bases-on-balls and a hit batter to score five first inning runs and a 5-3 win in the opener and they scored a 4-1 decision in the second game.

Nanaimo starter Steve Dalman was relieved by Don Slaughter in the first inning of the opener and Victoria managed only two hits off the combination.

Rob Stenseth gave up seven hits in earning the victory.

Reg King pitched the Victoria victory in the second game and he and Mark Lawless had two hits and drove in one run each, to give Victoria a 3-1 victory in the four-game series.

Saturday, Nanaimo won the opener, 5-4, but lost the second game, 4-1.

Kindred wins playoff in Quebec tournament

SOREL (CP) — Defending champion John Kindred of Sarasota, Fla., sank a 12-foot birdie putt in the first hole of a sudden-death playoff to defeat Roger Klatt of Edmonton and walk off with the Quebec Open golf championship Sunday.

Kindred, 33, and a former junior hockey player from Peterborough, Ont., previously won the title at Ottawa's Rivermead Golf Club in 1975.

Kindred's birdie came on the par-five, 501-yard 12th hole of the Dunes Golf Club. He sank his final shot with Klatt counting four and lying 18 inches from the hole.

Both had completed the 54-hole regulation rounds with four-under-par 212 totals. The playoff was forced when Kindred birdied the 496-yard, par-five 18th, while Klatt shot a par.

George Knudson, who won the Ontario and Atlantic Opens, finished tied for third place in his bid for a third successive win. Also at 213 was Dave Barr of Kelowna, who led the B.C. contingent. Bob Beauchemin, one of the two Victoria pros entered, finished at 217 and won $243.

John Morgan had a last-round 78 and finished out of the money at 224.

Race sweep

INGLEWOOD (AP) — Trainer Charles Whittingham scored a one-two-three sweep of the featured $81,950 American Handicap at Hollywood Park on Sunday as King Pellinore with Bill Shoemaker aboard captured a 3-4 length victory over stablemate Riot In Paris.

Caucasus, another Whittingham horse, finished third. The heavily favored entry paid $3.20, $2.40 and $2.10 across the board.

Sandra Palmer

Sandra by one

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP) — Sandra Palmer rammed in 12-foot birdie putts on the 11th and 16th holes and fired an even par-71 on the final round Sunday to capture a $50,000 Ladies Professional Golf Association tournament.

Mrs. Palmer, the player of the year in 1975, won first prize money of $7,000 in taking her first tour victory this year. Her three-round total of four-under-par 209 was one stroke better than JoAnne Carner and late-charging Laura Baugh.

Judy Rankin, bidding to become the first player ever to win $100,000 in a single season on the LPGA tour, failed when she finished with a one-under par total of 212 to tie for fourth place.

Sandra Post and Jocelyn Bourassa, the two Canadians playing regularly on the tour, each finished with 220 totals and took home $462.50.

Hill breezes to win

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Dave Hill mounted a five-stroke lead after 12 holes, then finished with a steady three-under-par 69 to hold off mild rallies by Johnny Jacobs and Ed Sneed and win the $130,000 Greater Milwaukee Open golf tournament Sunday.

Hill, leading by four strokes over Homero Blancas after three rounds, finished with an 18-under total of 270 to earn a first prize of $26,000. Jacobs shot a final-round 67 for a 273, while Sneed finished at 70 for 276.

Sneed wound up tied with Dave Eichleberger, who surge from nowhere with a final-round 69, tying the single-round competitive course record set in the second round of the 1973 Greater Milwaukee Open by eventual champion Dave Stickdon.

Hill, 39, was a model of consistency throughout the tournament, having shot earlier rounds of 66, 67 and 68 over the 7010-yard, par 72 Tuckaway Country club course. The veteran from Denver had only four bogies on the 72 holes.

It was his 13th victory in 18 years on the tour and his first since last year's Sahara Invitation. The first-place cheque increased his 1976 earnings to $70,195. His career earnings now stand at $992,429, 12th on the Professional Golfers Association all-time list.

Brentwood triumphs

Brentwood College rowers, prepping for the Canadian trials for the World Youth rowing championships in Austria next month, scored twice on Sunday in the St. Catharines Rowing Club Invitational Regatta.

The Mill Bay school scored in the youth pairs, winning by about 100 metres, and its coxed fours won by three lengths.

Also in St. Catharines for the trials, which are scheduled to start on Friday, are two eights, a coxless four and a coxed pair from Brentwood College.

Gold prospects bright for U.S. male swimmers

NEW YORK (AP) — The United States men's swimming team, even without Mark Spitz and his seven gold medals, will be an awesome contingent and, conceivably, could win all 13 of its events at the Olympic Games in Montreal.

Four years ago in Munich, Spitz won four individual races and sparked three American relay teams to victory. All seven performances established world records.

Doc Counsilman, Spitz's college coach at Indiana University and now the men's Olympic swimming head coach, says there never will be another swimmer as dominating as Spitz. He also says there never may be a more dominating American swim team than his 27-man squad.

"I feel that this is probably the best international team we've ever had," said Counsilman, in Canton, Ohio, where the male swimmers are training. "We have a potential winner in every event.

"In the past, we've had a few superstars. Now we have much greater depth. There isn't a single event in which we won't be contenders."

There are seven world record holders on the men's team. Three of them — Bruce Furniss, Brian Goodell and John Hencken — are double world record holders. Spitz, whose 100-metre butterfly mark is the only one of his four individual records to survive since 1972, is the only American man who owns a world record but is not competing.

Counsilman says the deletion of two events and superior depth ensures against a Spitz-type domination again. The closest in Montreal could be John Naber, world record holder in the 200-metre backstroke. The six-foot-six senior from the University of Southern California qualified at the American Olympic trials in both the 100 and 200 backstrokes and the 200 freestyle. He also will swim in both relays.

The American men have dominated swimming since the 1960s. They won 10 gold medals in Mexico City in 1968. Four years ago, the men took victories in nine events.

The Americans are particularly strong in the four freestyle events and the 800-metre freestyle relay. Counsilman says it is "just chance" that the United States' best bids for 1-2-3 sweeps are in the freestyles, especially the 100 and 200 metres.

Naber poses a barrier to East Germany's Roland Matthes in both backstrokes. Matthes, the world record holder in the 100 metres, won both Olympic backstroke events in 1968 and 1972, but Counsilman thinks Matthes has lost his enthusiasm for swimming and predicts a possible American sweep in both races.

Roger Pytell of East Germany smashed Spitz's 200 butterfly record less than two months ago. But Counsilman says both butterfly races are tossups.

Tom Gompf, coach of the diving team, thinks his men can win gold medals in both of their events.

Greg Louganis, 16, qualified first in both the three-metre springboard and the 10-metre platform events at the Olympic trials and could pose a strong threat to Italian star Klaus DiBiasi's bid for a third straight Olympic title in the platform.

Track director accepts post with Welsh Sports Council

CARDIFF (Reuter) — Lynn Davies, the Canadian Track and Field Association's first technical director who will leave his present job Sept. 30, has been appointed technical officer with the Sports Council for Wales, it was announced Monday.

Davies had annouced he would not seek a renewal of his three-year contract.

He won a gold medal for Great Britain in the long jump at the 1964 Olympics in Tokyo and also won golds in the 1966 European championships and 1966 and 1970 Commonwealth Games.

Lt.-Col. Harry Llewellyn, chairman of the Welsh council, said Davies will take up his appointment Nov. 1.

"It is expected that he will have special responsibilities for working closely with those governing bodies involved in the next Commonwealth Games in Edmonton in 1978."

Davies had been offered the job in his homeland last year but turned it down because he said he felt an obligation to Canadian athletics to stay on until after the Montreal Olympics.

SARNIA, Ont. (CP) — Ken Maaten, 22, of Sarnia was named to Canada's modern pentathlon team for the Montreal Olympics Monday replacing 16-year-old Alain Williams of Brossard, Que.

Williams was dropped Friday night because of a broken leg suffered during an unsupervised equestrian training session.

Other members of the team are John Hawes of Montreal, Jack Alexander of Detroit and George Skene of Sarnia.

Modern pentathlon is a five-sport discipline that includes swimming, running, horseback riding, swordsmanship and pistol shooting.

HAMILTON (CP) — Pat Macdonald Tatham of Hamilton, a forward on Canada's national basketball team, will not participate in the Olympics. She is pregnant.

LONDON (Reuter) — Princess Anne, daughter of Queen Elizabeth, became the first member of the British Royal Family to win a place at an Olympic Games when she was selected Sunday to the three-day event equestrian team for Montreal.

But her husband, Captain Mark Phillips, who represented Britain at the 1972 Munich Olympics, was named only as a reserve.

Princess Anne, 25, will ride Goodwill, her mount in the European championships.

The other members of the three-day event team are European champion Lucinda Prior-Palmer on Be Fair, Richard Meade on Jacob Jones, and Hugh Thomas on Polyamar.

Meade won the individual equestrian gold medal at the Munich Olympics.

HELSINKI (Reuter) — Lasse Viren, the Finnish distance star who won the 5000 and 10,000 metres at the Munich Olympics four years ago, has been nominated for these two events and also the marathon at the Montreal Games.

In the Finish track and field team, announced Monday, Viren is in the 5000 metres along with Pekka Paeivaerinta and Lasse Orimus, the 10,000 metres with Paeivaerinta and Martti Vainio and the marathon with Haakon Spik and Jukka Toivla.

Viren holds the Finnish records for 5000 metres at 13 minutes 16.4 seconds and 10,000 metres at 27:38.4. His best times for the events this season are 13:24.78 and 27:43.0.

Finland's powerful trio for the men's javelin is Seppo Hovinen, who has made the best throw in the world this season at 93.54 metres, European champion Hannu Siitonen, who set the Finnish record at 93.90 metres in 1973, and Jorma Jaakola.

Kiwi track stars sparkle

STOCKHOLM (AP) — Dick Quax missed the world 5000-metre mark by one-tenth of a second and John Walker was two seconds off the 1,500-metre record in a strong display of running by the New Zealanders at an international pre-Olympic track meet Monday.

Quax, 27, was timed in 13:13.1 in a race which produced five national records.

Walker, 24, the mile king who shattered the world 2,000-metre mark in Oslo last Wednesday, earlier had recorded the world's best time this year in the metric mile, 3:34.2.

Both times bettered the previous track records at Stockholm's Olympic Stadium.

Emiel Puttemans of Belguim holds the world 5,000-metre mark of 13:13.0, set four years ago. Filbert Bayi of Tanzania set the 1,500-metre standard of 3:32.2 two years ago.

Quax took the lead at the 1,500-metre mark and never lost it, despite a fantastic kick which started with 300 metres to go by West German Klaus-Peter Hildenbrand of West Germany.

The popular Walker, cheered throughout the 1500-metre race by more than 14,000 fans, said he could have run faster and probably shattered Bayi's mark.

"But I didn't have the incentive," said the six-foot-one, 185-pounder who became the first runner to break the 3:50 mark in the mile when he ran 3:49.4 in Goteborg, Sweden, last year.

He was second behind West German Harald Hudak during the first two laps.

Walker took the lead with 500 metres left as the leader retired, giving the New Zealander a 10-metre lead.

But on the last lap Walker's pace slowed down and when he crossed the tape West German Thomas Wessinghage was only a few strides behind. Wessinghage clocked 3:36.1 for a national record and countryman Paul-Heinz Wellman came in third, one-tenth of a second behind.

Penny paces Canadians

LONDON (CP) — Canadians picked up four firsts in an 18-event pre-Olympics international track meet Sunday, but they were in unremarkable times except for Penny Werthner's triumph in the women's 1500 metres.

She won in four minutes 10.64 seconds — her best personal time for the distance.

"This is a great boost for me before the Olympics, both mentally and physically," said the Ottawa runner.

Werthner, who has been training in Europe, said: "I only wish I had about eight other races at this level of competition before the Games."

Dave Hill of Montreal made it a Canadian victory in the men's 1500 metres in the modest time of 3:41.92.

Other Canadian winners were Joanne McTaggart of Saskatoon in a 200-metre invitational event and Robert Martin of Paris, Ont., in a similar men's invitational test.

But Martin's time of 21.25 was slower than that of Marvin Nash of Toronto, whose 21.01 was good enough for only third in the scheduled 200-metre event.

Similarly McTaggart won the invitation 200 in 23.87, while Vancouver's Marjorie Bailey had a time of 23.58 but placed second in the regular event. Patty Loverock of Vancouver was fourth in the scheduled 200.

In the hammer throw, Scott Neilson of New Westminster placed fifth with a heave of 67.06 metres, and Murray Keating of Victoria, named to the Olympic team last week, was sixth with a toss of 63.54 metres.

GET BACK $200 ON SELECTED TOYOTA COROLLA 1600 MODELS.
$200. REBATE.
This coupon is worth $200 (as a manufacturer's rebate) on the purchase of a new 1976 Toyota Corolla 1600 2-door (standard or automatic) model TE31K and TE31H or 4-door (standard or automatic) model TE31FK and TE31FH. This coupon cannot be used as part of the purchase transaction. The $200 will be rebated to the purchaser by Canadian Motor Industries/Toyota, following delivery of the vehicle purchased.
Only one rebate coupon valid for each individual Toyota purchased between June 21 and July 31, 1976.
This offer expires July 31, 1976 or when stock is depleted.
TO THE DEALER: Offer is good only on valid sales agreements made on the specified new 1976 models, between June 21 and July 31, 1976. Upon receipt of Warranty Registration Card, sales agreement and rebate coupon, CMI/Toyota will forward $200 rebate cheque direct to purchaser. (Rebate coupon good only at participating authorized Toyota Dealers.)
Introducing a terrific deal on a terrific car. From now until the end of July go to any of the 230 Toyota dealers and make your best deal on any Toyota Corolla 1600 2 or 4-door sedan* and then present the coupon in this ad. The salesman will clip it to your purchase order, and after you take delivery of your new car, Toyota will send you a cheque for $200.
Think of it. $200 back on a car that's already one of Canada's outstanding buys. It's a terrific way to save right now.
And a terrific way to save later. Because a Toyota Corolla 1600 gets better gas mileage than most of the cars sold in Canada. So in the long run you can pass the pumps with a smile on your face.
But what makes this really an outstanding offer is that these are standard 1976 Toyotas and none of them have been altered in any way for this offer–they come with all the standard features that Toyotas have become famous for. Power front disc brakes. Fully reclining front bucket seats. Rear seat heater ducts. Side window defoggers. Heavy duty battery. And electric rear window defroster.
All of which makes this one of the most terrific deals we've ever offered. But we must offer a word of caution–supplies are limited. And with a terrific deal like this the cars may go fast.
So hurry.

M. V. Chesnut's Garden Notes

During the first 50 years of the present century, rhododendrons and azaleas could be grown in all the coastal sections of British Columbia with almost complete freedom from disease or pest damage.

Gradually, though, since around 1950, rhododendron afflictions have been on the increase. I suppose the reason is the increased popularity of these lovely shrubs, and with the importing of new varieties, we have also imported the parasites, infections and natural enemies of the rhododendron tribe.

One of the most common of these troubles is a fungus infection known as Bud Blast, and the first symptoms to be noticed are blossom buds that fail to open. If these reluctant buds are examined closely, they are found to be brown or brownish-grey in color, and a magnifying glass will show tiny black-knobbed, hair-like stalks growing on the surface of the sick bud. These contain the infecting spores on the fungus.

Like cancer in humans, this trouble is not too difficult to deal with if it is diagnosed and treated in its very early stages. And again as with cancer, prompt and drastic surgery is the answer to this threat.

The spread of this infection usually takes place in July and August when the disease spores are released — in much the same way as when a seed pod opens and scatters its seeds — to infect new terminal blossom buds and leaf buds, not only on other parts of the plant, but on other rhododendrons in your own and in other people's gardens too.

If your sick plant cannot infect others until July, it follows, then, that if all unopened buds on spring-fowering rhododendrons are cut away and burnt soon after blossoming finishes, the disease can be stopped dead in its tracks. It is a sound precaution, after this pruning, to spray thoroughly with a good fungicide.

Spots and botches on the leaves are not necessarily caused by disease—poor root action due to uncongenial soil conditions can mar the leaves —but there are seevral fungus infections that betray their presence first on the leaves.

Brown spots with greyish-white centres are symptoms of a disease known as Pestalotia, while another fungus, Lophodermium, causes larger silvery-grey areas with reddish margins. Fortunately, both diseases can be controlled quite effectively by the prompt removal and burning of the affected leaves.

The key word here is, of course, "prompt", and so few home gardeners can be induced to take the immediate action so necessary to prevent the spread of the infection.

We sit around doing nothing, hoping the trouble will go away of its own accord, which it never does. And in the meantime the tiny fungus "plants" are proliferating on the diseased leaves and buds, casting forth their airborne spores to infect other rhododendrons wherever the wind may carry them.

One hard lesson I had to learn very early in my gardening career is this: A sick leaf never gets any better. A brown spot on a leaf will never go away — it can only spread or get bigger. And even if the disease could be halted dead in its tracks, the blemish on the leaf will persist as long as that leaf lives, like the pock marks of smallpox.

If this basic fact is kept firmly in mind — a marred leaf never makes a comeback —you'll find it a lot easier to harden your heart and deal firmly — and promptly — with plant diseases in their early stages. This applies not only to rhododendrons but to all manner of outdoor and indoor plants.

WASHINGTON — The New York Times is now in the process of searching for the Loch Ness monster. It has underwritten a scientific expedition with underwater TV cameras, sonar equipment and other monster gear heretofore unknown to man. So far they haven't found him-her-it, but if they do, it could be the story of the year — well, almost. There is another search going on right now by almost everyone to find the real Jimmy Carter.

Unlike the Loch Ness monster, Jimmy Carter has not only been seen, but photographed. Scientists who have studied the photographs say he probably comes from the South, and his jaw and teeth indicate his main source of food has been peanuts and Democratic presidential candidates.

One anthropologist told me, "We know he smiles a lot, but we have no idea what is behind the smile. It's hard to believe we have so much information, and yet we know so little about him."

Another scientist said, "If we could only figure out what was going on in his brain I think we could find out what kind of animal he is, but we can't tell from pictures or television. We'd have to capture him and study him closely in a cage, and I don't think the public would go for that."

I said, "Jimmy Carter has been showing up everywhere. He's been sighted in 48 of the 50 states. Is it possible that there are more than one of him?"

"We don't think so," the scientist replied. "We believe the sightings have all been of the same thing, but nobody can make head or tail of it. A few years ago no one knew a Jimmy Carter existed. But suddenly he showed up out of nowhere. It could be a new species of a presidential candidate, or an old species that just looks different.

"The question is why did he surface now and how has he managed to capture the imagination of the American people?"

"Perhaps the people are getting tired of the same old species of president and are looking for something new. Maybe they see in Jimmy Carter something that isn't there."

"We scientists can't deal in hypothesis," he replied. "We have to stick with what we know. We know he chewed up all the other presidential candidates. We found their bones in almost every state where there was a primary. We also know that the only place he avoids is Washington, D.C. If we can find out what it is in Washington, D.C., that keeps him away, we might unlock the mystery."

"Is he dangerous?"

"The Republicans think he is. They're scared silly of him, after what he did to his own kind in the primaries. The Republicans thought the South was safe, but now with Jimmy Carter roaming around they're afraid to go near the place."

"How does he protect himself?"

"With his teeth. Whenever he gets hungry he just opens his mouth and chops off whatever is standing in his way. Then he smiles as if nothing happened."

"What about his skin?"

"It's very tough. Anyone who has tried to get under it has been sorry he tried. A year ago the regular Democrats tried to stop him with every machine they had. But now everyone, including those who run the machines, is eating out of his hand. They don't understand it themselves, but they're going along with it, because they don't have a choice."

"Do think you can get a closer look at him and find out more about him."

"Do you think you can get a closer look at him and find out more about him?"

"Well, he's going on display at the Democratic Circus in Madison Square Garden next week, and we've got a special team stationed there to make a new study to observe him, and find out if there is anything we overlooked. But we're not optimistic. He may remain a mystery until he gets to the White House."

"The White House? But that's in Washington, D.C."

"We know that. But that seems to be where he's trying to get to now. If he gets there the mystery of who or what a Jimmy Carter is may finally be solved."

Things I Learned En Route to Looking Up Other Things:

● That if science could conceivably construct a computer able to perform the functions of the human brain, it would have to be as large as the whole earth.

● That garbage and refuse can be converted into cinders usable in making cement blocks, fiberboard or shingles, through incinerators that operate in airless chambers at blast-furnace temperatures.

● That a majority of Americans now live in some 200 major urban areas occupying only about one per cent of the total U.S. land area. (We're not crowded in any real sense, we're just living too close together.)

● That because of his preponderant fish diet, the average Japanese has 10 times as much mercury in his body as we or the Europeans.

● That there are more than 80,000 units of government in the U.S., most of them tax-levying; in the four countries closest to New York, there are 548 governmental units; and one suburb south of Chicago has 13 governmental units, of which 10 levy taxes.

● That those decorative cigar bands originated in colonial times when the ladies of the Cuban aristocracy smoked cigars but didn't care to have their fingers stained, so they wrapped a narrow "holding strip" of paper around them, chosen to match the smoker's gown.

● That President Truman wished he had learned Russian, complaining that when the State Department translated what Khrushchev said to him, "It was often the exact opposite of what he meant."

● That the size of a baby mammal bears no relation to the size of the mother: the adult female kangaroo, for instance, weight 60,000 times as much as the baby at birth.

● That electricity flows from the negative terminal to the positive terminal, and not the other way around, as Ben Franklin wrongly guessed.

● That lions get easily winded (even though they are not known to smoke) and cannot chase their prey much more than hundred yards without stopping for rests.

● That Gregor Mendel, whose laws of heredity originated the modern science of genetics, was failed twice in natural science in his exams to become a high school teacher.

● That, except for the higher primates, no animals have a natural feeling for rhythm. (Horses and dogs must be laboriusly trained for circus acts requiring them to prance in time to a beat.)

● That Albert Einstein once observed that of all the distinguished people he had met, Marie Curie, the discoverer of radium, was the only one whom fame had not corrupted.

● That there are over 800 different kinds of trees in the United States alone.

● That a sponge has no cohesive agent that can be detected, but if you tear a live sponge to shreds, the cells will assemble again; moreover, the cell stretches until its length is as much as 100,000 times its breadth — a Proportion unique in life.

● That the automobile that is traded in at 40,000 miles (as most of them are) has only provided about 1,000 hours of service, which hardly seems to qualify as "durable goods."

James Bacon's Hollywood

PHILADELPHIA — Back here to visit The Liberty Bell and Mike Douglas, both American institutions.

What better way to spend a bicentennial year.

Flew back on the plane with Don Adams and his fiancee, pretty actress Judy Loren. Don also was on the Mike Douglas TV show, doing a hilarious takeoff on his own TV show, Don Adams' Screen Test.

Judy's right name is Judy Luciano. Asked Don if she were any relation to Lucky.

"I'm afraid to ask," said Don.

Other guests on the show were Ron Kistler, who once spent three years as a personal bodyguard and chauffeur for Howard Hughes; Jay Black and the Americans; Khalilah Ali, beautiful, statuesque wife of the heavyweight champion of the world; and cohost Neil Sedaka.

Ron and I did a segment on The Life of Howard Hughes, as we are among the last surviving people who ever spent any time face-to-face with the late billionaire.

I, at least, could speak with Howard. Ron said that he could only communicate by note.

Ron is the author of the book, I Caught Flies for Howard Hughes.

Had to behave like a gossip columnist on the show and ask Khalilah some pertinent questions about the status of her marriage to the Champ. Mike's too polite to ask such personal questions.

Mike's staff put me up to it. It's a little scary because Muhammad might watch the show and not take kindly to it. Who wants that guy mad at you?

But Khalilah got me off the hook nicely. She just said: "No comment." And I was glad.

Khalilah is a black belt in karate and looks like she could handle Ali.

Nicholls tops Lund Memorial

Stu Nicholls captured top honors Sunday as members of Velo City Cycle Club swept top honors in the Victoria Wheelers annual Gary Lund Memorial bicycle race.

The Vancouver rider covered the 99 - mile course over Wallace Drive, West Saanich Rd., and McTavish Rd., in four hours, 18 minutes and 55 seconds.

Eugene Rochfort of Fraser Valley's River Road Cycle Club won the 22-mile novice race. Independent Jim Davis captured the "C" division race and Lido Crema of Italia Cycle Club won the "B" division race.

Novice (22 miles) — 1. Eugene Rochford (River Road CC), 2. Raymond Peron (Victoria Wheelers), 3. Bernard Ivanco (Kamloops), 4. Gordon Ney (Independent). Time: One hour, three seconds.

"C" Division (44 miles) — 1. Jim Davis (Independent), 2. Bernie Willock (Wheelers), 3. Phil Cotter (Wheelers), 4. Dave Emery (Wheelers). Time: 1.58:31.

"B" Division (66 miles) — 1. Lido Crema (Italia), 2. Michel Peron (Wheelers), 3. Ron Joostema (Velo City), 4. Ed Thompson (Velo City). Time: 2:55:29.

Open Division (99 miles) — 1. Stu Nichols (Velo City), 2. Ken Cunningham (Velo City), 3. Jeff Kirk (Velo City), 4. Hugh Harden (Carleton CC). Time: 4.18:55.

Whitecaps nab division lead

Canadian Press

Vancouver Whitecaps lost their uniforms Sunday but not their pride.

The Whitecaps, forced to play in borrowed training shirts before a record crowd of 20,418 at Ownby Stadium in Dallas, scored a 2-1 overtime win over the hometown Tornado and snapped an eight-game home winning streak.

The Vancouver team, which had its jerseys stolen, used Dallas training shirts and Bob Lenarduzzi's goal after three minutes of sudden-death overtime to post the victory in the only league game Sunday.

On Saturday, the Whitecaps beat San Diego Jaws 1-0, Seattle Sounders downed Minnesota Kicks 3-1, San Antonio Thunder beat Los Angeles Aztecs 2-1 and San Jose Earthquakes downed Portland Timber 3-0.

In Monday night action, Toronto Metros edged Boston Minutemen 1-0 in overtime while Los Angeles Aztecs downed the Timbers 2-1 in Portland.

Course ablaze

SOUTHPORT (Reuter) — The British Open golf championship course at Royal Birkland caught fire Monday and about 100 square yards of rough was destroyed before the blaze was brought under control.

Police said the course, where the championship starts Wednesday, was like a powder keg after a prolonged heatwave.

UBC fours first

HENLEY-ON-THE-THAMES, England (AP) — "We did it," exulted stroke Charlie Poole as Trinity College of Hartford, Conn., crossed the finish line to grab a major trophy Sunday, competing a great success story at the Henley Royal Regatta.

The Trinity crew danced with delight on the banks of the River Thames as U.S. oarsmen celebrated America's 200th birthday by winning three of the 12 challenge trophies.

Holy Spirit High School, the U.S. national schoolboy rowing champ from Absecon, N.J., and Harvard University's freshmen crew were the other victors. Two other American crews lost in Sunday's finals.

A University of British Columbia fours without cox took home the Stewards Challenge Cup with a one-third boat-length victory over Thames Tradesmen of Britain in one of Sunday's finals.

In another, John Lecky and Rick Crooker, of Club d'Boucherville, near Montreal, lost in the Silver Goblets and Nickalls Challenge Cup for coxless pairs to Australians I. A. Luxford and C. D. Shinners.

The Harvard frosh, three of whom had never rowed before this year, had a heart stopper in the Thames Challenge Cup final against the local favorite, the Henley Rowing Club.

The Crimson fell one-half length behind by the Fawley marker, then drew level and edged ahead at the mile.

Sentimental Sinclair?

"That's right folks.

I've never been short of good business reasons for buying Sterling Silver Olympic Coins.

But with the excitement building fast, and with the world on it's way to Canada for the 1976 Olympics, you can't blame a guy for feeling proud or even a bit sentimental.

That's why Series VII coins are so precious. They're real money but they have a value that goes beyond dollars and cents.

They're the last series of Olympic Coins to be minted, and will be the best souvenir you can buy of this great event.

But don't wait around!

With a lot of people feeling the same way as me and with all those visitors coming, these beautiful works of art might not be as easy to buy later on.

So buy them this week before the rush starts."

Having a ball

Gap-toothed smile of exuberance is flashed by Jimmy Reid, 4, of Port Alberni, as he plays with inflatable ball at Elk Lake beach Monday during one of warmest days this year. Temperatures reached 24, according to Pat Bay weather office, one degree less than season's high. Smile could disappear with cloud and rain today.

Lid still shut on building tieup

The lid remained tightly closed on the province-wide construction shutdown Monday as both sides looked without success for a way out.

After meeting with representatives of the basic trade unions in Vancouver, Construction Labor Relations Association president Chuck McVeigh said: "I have to admit we didn't accomplish very much today."

Today, however, may give some indication of whether the lockout-strike situation is going to be long lasting. Wages — the main stumbling block — are to be discussed by CLRA and negotiators from both the basic and mechanical trades.

The 22 unions have remained divided in two camps with the mechanical trades looking for a flat 11½ per cent increase and the basic trades, headed by the big carpenters union, arguing that this would only add to the existing pay disparity.

The unions were also meeting among themselves Monday in an effort to form some kind of united bargaining front. There was no indication of any real success.

The lack of a common bargaining front has also hampered negotiations.

The industry-wide lockout was imposed last Wednesday after the cement masons and carpenters had taken strike action.

The fourth consecutive bargaining year shutdown since 1970, it has idled 40,000 tradesmen and halted work on an estimated $3 billion in construction projects.

So far CLRA, representing 850 contracting firms, has held to its offer of an eight per cent package increase as a means of staying within the federal anti-inflation guidelines.

Library formula angers Saanich

A new formula for payment of municipal sharing of library costs was criticized at Saanich council Monday.

The argument — basically that provincial government property should be included in municipal assessments that partly determine payment — has stalled a library agreement that has not received approval from any council so far.

Saanich administrators took the subject before council, saying it didn't seem fair that some tax-exempt government property would be included while some would be excluded.

Provincially-owned property will not be included in the formula's assessment base, although federal land will be included.

According to Saanich library committee representative Ald. Dave Paterson, that means large tracts of land such as Victoria's B.C. Hydro site — for which the city receives grant money in lieu of taxes — would not be included on the assessment roll.

Victoria may be getting too good a deal from the formula, he said, because the city holds more provincial property than any other of its partner municipalities in the library cost-sharing.

There have been other complaints about the formula that recently received approval from individual municipal representatives and the library board.

Paterson said Esquimalt would like to see federal excluded along with provincial. With its armed forces land, a large chunk of Esquimalt is federal soil.

It's all in the hands now of municipal controllers who will try to iron out problems and report back to the intermunicipal committee, Paterson said, adding that the library is now operating without an agreement.

The old cost-sharing agreement was based on population ratios only.

According to Paterson, municipalities including Saanich felt population didn't necessarily mean ability to pay. They prefer the proposed agreement, he said, by which increases over the 1975 library budget would be paid according to general assessments during 1976 and 1977.

That cost-sharing method would change to a ratio based half on assessment and half on population after 1978-79.

Ferry rescues man overboard

A Lower Mainland man in his 70s was in fair condition Monday night in Richmond General Hospital after he apparently jumped overboard from the B.C. Ferries' Queen of Esquimalt in Active Pass.

Delta police, who took the unidentified man from Tsawwassen to the hospital after the incident about 6 p.m., said he was rescued shortly after being reported overboard.

They said it was apparently a deliberate jump but that the man appeared to suffer no serious injury.

"He's holding his own," a hospital spokesman said, adding the man would be transferred to intensive care from emergency.

The ferry turned around right after the incident which occurred on a Tsawwassen-Swartz Bay run.

Victoria Rescue Centre officials were prepared to send hovercraft and other rescue craft to the scene when they heard the man had been picked up.

At least three other similar incidents have occurred recently in Active Pass.

MP wants Quebec aviation voice

By DON COLLINS
Colonist Reporter

Donald Munro (PC-Esquimalt - Saanich) has joined with federal Opposition Leader Joe Clark in urging the Association des Gens de l'Air du Quebec to take part in the current negotiations on bilingual air traffic control.

But unlike Clark, Munro is not expressing sympathy for the Quebec aviation workers.

"They have a point to make and they should be encouraged to make it. But so far they have just held themselves aloof saying they are not going to play the game. They are being rather petty," Munro said in a telephone interview from Ottawa.

Munro is included in a six-man Conservative caucus committee monitoring the air control bilingual situation.

Clark is reported to have expressed sympathy for the Association des Gens de l'Air du Quebec at St. Marguerite, Que., Sunday in an address to the Quebec Federal Progressive Conservatives Association.

He said the Quebec aviation workers should have "equal status" with the Canadian Air Line Pilots Association and the Canadian Air Traffic Control Association and as a result should participate in the commission of inquiry on bilingual air traffic control in Quebec.

He also said representatives of the Quebec group were to meet with him Monday for "frank discussion" on what he called a major issue which threatens to divide the country.

However, Munro said later the meeting didn't materialize because the Gens de l'Air representatives "didn't show up."

Munro
. . . urges participation

This group and any other with an "input to make" should participate, Munro said. Otherwise there would be no justification to their opposition.

"They (Association des Gens de l'Air du Quebec) say they don't agree. But they don't even know what it is that they don't agree with."

In his address to the Quebec Conservatives, Clark reiterated his unconditional support of bilingualism. He said if his party comes to power "we will be committed to continuing the establishment of bilingualism in Canada."

Clark saw Jean Marchand's resignation as environment minister as "inevitable," adding that Marchand had chosen to leave in style rather than take his chances on an impending cabinet shuffle.

"In the manner of the cunning politician he is, Mr. Marchand took advantage of the situation to leave as a hero in the eyes of Quebec."

A motion approved by the Quebec Conservatives urged Clark to accept the fact the air communications problem is not perceived in Quebec as simply a technical one.

It also asked him to give public support to the recognition of the Gens de l'Air as an autonomous organization. It said the Conservatives should assure themselves of the impartiality, independence and neutrality of the inquiry commission.

Munro, meanwhile, said he wasn't entirely satisfied with the answer he got Monday when he asked in the Commons about the timetable for the inquiry. He said he was told it was indefinite.

Asked during the interview how he stood on the bilingual air traffic control question, he said:

"Our stand is that safety is of prime importance. If the inquiry shows that any element of bilingualism can be introduced without downgrading safety, then maybe it will be accepted.

"We (Canada) have a good record of safety and we don't want to be affected."

Bad in '75, worse now

Job prospects for University of Victoria graduates are bad and getting worse.

A report of a manpower committee at UVic released Monday showed that 27 per cent of last year's graduates in arts and sciences and fine arts were still looking for employment six months after graduation and 16 per cent of the 1974 graduates were unemployed or taking further studies because of their inability to find work when the survey was taken last October.

Dr. Horace Beach, director of the counselling centre and chairman of the UVic committee, tabled the report which showed a trend of fewer jobs for university graduates.

Beach, who suggested that universities should make adjustments to keep up with the changing situation, said career placements at UVic were down 59 per cent in the first five months of this year and the long-range forecast was not going to get brighter.

A survey of Victoria-area employers, Beach said, suggests that demands for professional, administrative and technical employees may be down by as much as 45 per cent over the next five years.

The picture was the same across Canada, Beach stated. In an August, 1974, survey, only 25 per cent of 75,710 bachelors' graduates had jobs.

Hospital bed-rate rises, no-choice menu begins

Royal Jubilee Hospital has received notice from the provincial government of its new daily bed rate, but the hospital still doesn't know exactly how grim its financial outlook is.

The hospital's charge for acute-care beds has been boosted from $110.35 a day to $126 a day, associate director Michael Fraser learned Friday.

But all the hospital administration can judge from that figure is that the hospital will bring in "considerably less than what we require," he said Monday. The new rate is retroactive to Jan. 1.

Fraser expects to receive complete budget figures from the province this week. As soon as those come in, administrators can analyse the hospital's financial position and meet with the executive committee of the hospital board, he said.

Like other major B.C. hospitals, Jubilee ran up a deficit last year and is expecting the situation to be worse this year unless the provincial government changes its support to cover increased hospital costs.

Jubilee has been considering "many, many" cost-cutting measures to meet the budget squeeze — ranging from no-choice menus for patients to staff layoffs. No definite proposals will be accepted until the complete figures are received from the province, Fraser said.

Victoria General Hospital, which did not have a deficit last year, hopes to save up to $250,000 a year through a no-choice menu. Starting today, patients will no longer have a choice of two main courses and three or four desserts.

The changes will trim some labor for nursing staff, ward and dietary clerks, and cooks, a hospital spokesman said.

Joli leads Maui yacht race

Joli of Seattle wrested the lead from Ragtime Monday in the third day of the Victoria-Maui yacht race.

Joli was 210 miles southwest of Cape Flattery and 10 miles ahead of the pre-race favorite Ragtime, also out of Seattle, when positions were reported Monday night.

The 2,308 mile race, run every two years, was won in 1974 by Joli, a C and C 61 raced by Bill Niemi. But the 62-foot cutter Ragtime skippered by Doug Fryer was favored to take Division I honors in a close race with Joli.

Ragtime wasd leading in the almost windless second day of the race Sunday.

In third place Monday was Rangatang of Vancouver, 58 miles behind Joli. Next was Terna III, sailed by Per Christoffersen of West Vancouver, 60 miles behind Joli.

A Victoria boat, Al Nelson's Lucifer, was in sixth position 95 miles behind Joli and 25 miles behind Trumpeter of Vancouver.

Winds have been light to moderate for the 32 boats entered in the race.

Place mats, Latin, fish all grist to AIB mill

Sometime last month, a shopper bought six place mats in a Victoria store.

The six place mats were identical but the prices weren't. Three cost 99 cents each, and the other three cost $1.78, $1.98 and $2.19.

The shopper filed a complaint with the Victoria Anti-Inflation Board which forwarded it to the Anti-Inflation Board in Ottawa.

The place mat complaint was one of 40 sent to Ottawa during June by the board's Victoria representative, Robert Chapman.

Another case involved an independent service station operator who filed a complaint about gasoline price increases charged by oil companies.

The dealer's price for regular gas went up by 3.2 cents a gallon, premium gas rose by 3.3 cents and marine gas went up by 3.2 cents.

A woman reported that the price for a load of washing at a Victoria laundromat increased from 50 cents to 75 cents between May and June.

There were two complaints regarding the price of boat moorage.

In one case, the price rose from $1 a foot a month to $1.50; the other was an increase from $364 to $524 a year.

A shopper reported an increase in the price of salmon steak from $2.39 a pound in April to $3.39 a pound in June.

Another complaint filed showed a Victoria store raising the price of halibut steak from $2.99 a pound in May to $3.19 a pound in June.

The price of a Latin dictionary was reported to have been increased from $19.25 last December to $47 in June.

The rising price of peanut butter raised the ire of one Victorian who said she paid $2.25 for a jar in April and $2.49 in June.

A drug store was the target of one complainant who said the price for a prescription drug for arthritics rose from $6.49 in April to $9.98 in June.

One complaint involved house insurance. A Victoria homeowner had his premium increased from $96 in 1975 to $175 in 1976.

Chapman said he doesn't know what happens to the complaints after they've been sent to Ottawa.

"The federal board gets in touch with the people concerned, but we don't get any feedback and we don't know how many of the cases are resolved," he said.

Federal AIB regulations allow price increases only if the company encounters higher costs.

OAK BAY CHORUS OF PROTEST

Crows in peril?

Altogether now — let's hear it for the crows of Oak Bay.

Those garbage collectors in black are going to need some support because a number of Oak Bay residents are out to get them.

A 56-name petition received by council Monday was referred to committee for study after Mayor Brian Smith said the birds are a terrible nuisance at certain times of the year.

The petition, circulated by Kathryn Botting, said there are too many crows in south Oak Bay, and that too many songbirds are being lost to the crows.

The petition was sent to council "in hopes that action will be taken."

But Smith did not hold out much hope of action.

"Any time in the past we have tried to take effective action, we have found that we have no effective jurisdiction over the crows," Smith said.

"And we have found there are some crow lovers' protection leagues."

However, it was decided to let a committee consider the problem.

Two tax notices likely in Oak Bay

Oak Bay taxpayers could get two tax notices next year so that they will be able to fairly apportion the blame for tax increases.

Under fire for a 17-mill tax increase, and under threat from some residents that a portion of taxes will be withheld in protest, Oak Bay aldermen defended themselves Monday night.

Finance committee chairman Norman Pimlott noted that Greater Victoria school board would take 11 mills of the increase, with council having no say at all in the school board budget.

The school district increase, he said, was twice the increase of any school district in the province.

He felt that council should have a say in the school board's budgeting if it was to continue collecting the taxes.

Ald. Shirley Dowell suggested the council send out two tax bills next year — one for municipal purposes and a second for the school board so taxpayers have a chance to see where the money is going.

Wicklow rezoning for public hearing

A rezoning proposal for a 53-unit development at Tolmie and Wicklow will go to a public hearing.

Saanich council voted Monday for the hearing involving the corner site where development was turned down at public hearing Nov. 4, 1975.

Residents were concerned at that time about traffic circulation and isolation of lots to the south.

But the Saanich Advisory Planning Commission told council in a letter Monday that siting of the building has been changed to discourage traffic on Wicklow Street.

26:8-pound chinook hooked by spin caster

Brian Luxton, 1023 Kenneth Street, Victoria, had an exciting time trying out his new nine-foot fishing rod by hooking a 26:8-pound chinook while spin casting off the rocks at Golf Links Point at Oak Bay.

Luxton and his regular fishing partner, Ray Tallboy, had decided to try their luck early Saturday and set out at 6 a.m.

After just six casts the big chinook hit Luxton's rod and the battle was on.

The fish put up a tremendous fight by making long runs of 300 feet.

At one point, Luxton thought he had lost his fish when a crow somehow flew into the line and tangled it.

But Luxton proved his ability as a fisherman by freeing the line and the battle continued.

Unfortunately, Luxton and Tallboy didn't have a net or graff so, when the big chinook was tiring, Luxton guided him in to the rocks and Tallboy waded to the fish, grabbed it by the gills and brought it ashore.

Luxton said that it was the biggest fish he has caught spin casting.

Luxton was using a green and white Stingsilda and 15-pound test line with a spinning reel.

Nanaimo society asks Stupich:

Don't comment on deal

By JIM HUME
Colonist Reporter

The Nanaimo Commonwealth Holding Society has asked David Stupich (NDP—Nanaimo) to decline further comment on an $80,000 contract the society has signed with former lands and forests minister Robert Williams.

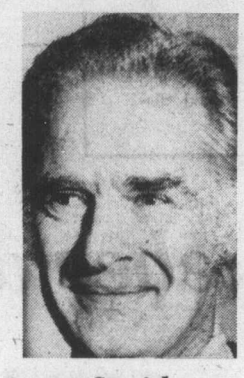
Stupich, one of the Society's founders, was also a key negotiator in the deal which saw Williams hired as a development and land holdings consultant by the society.

His contract calls for payments of $2,000 a month for 40 months. It was signed, Stupich says, shortly after Williams resigned his seat in Vancouver East to make way for the return of David Barrett to the Legislature.

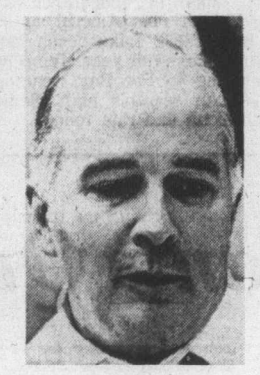
Stupich insists that the two moves were coincidental and that the $80,000 contract had nothing to do with Williams' resignation. Critics, inside and outside the NDP, say 40 months is the average life of a government in British Columbia.

The Nanaimo Commonwealth Holding Society, while operating independently from the NDP organization, has a membership requirement which insists that every member of the society must be a member of the NDP in good standing.

Normally its annual meetings are held in June with copies of its annual financial statement filed immediately after the meeting with the registrar of companies.



Stupich
. . . coincidental



Williams
. . . on retainer

This year, Stupich says, the annual meeting has been delayed by the length of the legislative session and will be held later this month.

On Friday, June 18, asked for details of the contract with Williams, Stupich said he didn't have details of the contract readily available but promised to make them available to the Colonist on Monday, June 21.

Instead, without further comment, he had delivered by hand a copy of a letter signed by Arthur Stephens, Society secretary. It read:

"Dear Mr. Stupich:

"With respect to the item on our agenda dealing with the contract between our society and Mr. Robert Williams, the board of directors at a meeting held this day wish to go on record as endorsing your report and everything that you have said in the media to this date.

"With regard to any further publicity that may be given this matter, we believe that the interests of our society will in no way be enhanced by further public discussions of our activities at this time. We would prefer to wait until there are some developments arising out of reports from Mr. Williams before any further public announcements or statements of any kind are made.

"Yours very truly, Arthur Stephens, Secretary, Nanaimo Commonwealth Holding Society."

The letter was dated Sunday, June 20, 1976.

Since then Stupich has declined further comment on the contract other than to say it would be a mistake to assume that the $80,000 scheduled to be paid Williams was "paid in a lump sum."

Earlier Stupich confirmed that the $80,000 had been placed in Williams' lawyer's trust account. He also stated that the Commonwealth Holding Society would be upset if it were made public that some of the $80,000 came from bingo games.

As of December, 1974 (the last annual Society financial statement on file at the companies branch) assets of the society are listed at $184,980 in property holdings and $138,210 in other investments.

Current funds in balance were listed as "cash on hand and on deposit — $10,733; Less: accounts payable, $8,558" giving the cash in the bank position at $2,175.

In a letter to NDP caucus chairman Karen Sanford (NDP—Comox) dated April 28, 1976, Stupich informed the caucus "purely for your information" that Williams had been hired "to assist us (the NCHS) in planning the long-term development and management of the society's assets and holdings."

In the same letter Stupich listed the assets of the society as ranging "in the area of $300,000 to $500,000." Those assets, he stated, had been made possible "through the generous contributions of many individuals and a continuing fund-raising program."

The 1974 financial statement lists $238 in donations. The previous year the revenue column lists $46 in donations. In 1973 membership dues were recorded as $55, in 1974 they had increased to $61.

In the same years "hall activities" (the old CCF hall in the centre of Nanaimo) earned $35,992 in 1973 and a further $38,163 the following year.

On June 30 Stupich, while still refusing to provide details on the Williams' contract or how the $80,000 was paid into his lawyer's trust account, said he would be quite prepared to make copies of the 1975 financial statement available.

He indicated that the statement would contain a clear picture of the financial arrangements but regretted that he didn't have the details with him.

Attempts to contact him in Nanaimo by telephone were unsuccessful.

After Williams was hired by the Society he was placed on a retainer equal to the remuneration paid MLAs by the NDP provincial executive. One of the stipulations in that particular contract is that when he works for the party he will not be paid by the Nanaimo group.

One high-ranking NDP official who prefers to remain anonymous puts it this way: "It doesn't matter how you look at it, Bob Williams is guaranteed $2,000 a month, or close to $2,000 a month for the next 40 months. And that should take us to, or close to, the next provincial election. It isn't difficult to understand why some of our members are a little upset."

Wire to Clark protests bill

PORT ALBERNI — Progressive Conservative party leader Joe Clark has been sent a telegram from the executive of the Port Alberni Progressive Conservative Association, in which it protests the bill to abolish the death penalty in Canada. The bill had passed first reading (approval in principle) in the Commons by a vote of 133-125.

Ancient find in Lithuania

MOSCOW (UPI)— Archaeologists in Lithuania have unearthed 4 pieces of amber containing flower petals, insects and the imprint of fern leaves preserved for 60 to 80 million years, Tass reported. The amber — fossilized prehistoric resin — was discovered during excavations near the fishermen's settlement of Ventoja.

Europeans wilting

'Eau de Cologne' cools pig brains

LONDON (UPI) — Britons found a way to cool overheated pigs, Paris bus drivers refused to drive bake-oven hot buses and Europe's crop-killing heat wave and drought seared on Monday with a few isolated breaks.

Portugal began cutting off electric power for regular periods because there was too little water to run hydroelectric plants.

Barges on Germany's Elbe River sailed one-third full because the river was so low. Dutch troops began tapping Dutch canals to irrigate crops.

Throughout nearly all of continental Europe, Britain and Ireland, the worst drought in generations remained essentially unbroken.

At Britain's biggest farm show the Archbishop of York, Dr. Stewart Blance, repeated Pope Paul's Sunday call for prayers for rain to break the drought. Raymond Wheatley-Hubbard worried more about pigs,

"Pigs cannot sweat," said Wheatley-Hubbard, in charge of the 484 pigs entered in the show, "and so they are more vulnerable." He recommended daubing a little vinegar behind their ears, "like eau de cologne for a woman," to cool their tiny overheated brains.

In Paris, however, bus drivers found no way to cool overheated cabs, and many drivers stayed home for the fourth day in a row.

Sudden thunderstorms broke in several areas. But in some places, the crusted earth couldn't absorb the rain, and destructive flash floods followed. Four persons died in north Portugal in floods following violent thunderstorms.

The drought in Britain and France is the worst since 1725.

Officials in Britain, France, Germany, Italy and other nations speak of large percentage of many crops already lost, livestock by the millions slaughtered early for lack of feed, and higher food prices to come.

Water rationing has been imposed in some spots and was being considered in others. Restrictions exist almost everywhere. Near Louvain, Belgium, a man was fined $150 Monday for sprinkling his lawn.

Hydro and UVic try pass system

B.C. Hydro and the University of Victoria have agreed on an experimental bus pass system starting this fall.

Under the pilot program, UVic students will be able to buy a bus pass for $30 covering the period between Sept. 13 and Dec. 17.

Students will be able to buy the passes from Sept. 1 to 17 on campus and the passes will have the students' photos on them.

The project will be administered by UVic's Alma Mater Society and will be subsidized by the university.

David Suttie, B.C. Hydro's Victoria manager, said only students will be allowed to buy the passes but the possibility exists that faculty and staff may be included if the project is extended.

The program is modelled after one in Edmonton in which all public transit users are offered passes at the same rate quoted for UVic students.

Alistair Palmer, AMS president, said Monday he has already received inquiries from such places as Simon Fraser University as to how negotiations with B.C. Hydro were handled.

A questionnaire sent out in June showed that 63 of 78 respondents said they would be interested and only one said no. Fourteen returned the questionnaire with a "maybe."

Were winches consulted?

LONDON (CP) — An article in the magazine Offshore Oil states that a company called Coubro and Scrutton deals in "lifting gear, chain blocks, wenches . . ." as well as offering an 'industrial and marine insultancy service."

Baby boy 'gift' unexpected

CHICAGO (UPI) — "This is a fourth of July I'll never forget," said Mrs. Ethel Grant, 46, Chicago, after she received an unexpected gift in a Cook County hospital waiting room.

Mrs. Grant was talking to a woman sitting next to her in the waiting room when the woman said she was going to get a cup of coffee and asked Mrs. Grant to hold her 14-day-old baby.

About a half hour later, Mrs. Grant opened the blanket covering the baby and found a note pinned under a fold which said, "take care of me. My mother cannot. June 21, 1976."

A police spokesman said the date was apparently the baby's birthday.

"You say birth of a nation, but I got a baby in my lap," Mrs. Grant said. "I'd like to adopt him."

The Grants have five children ranging in age from 9 to 26.

"This is the best thing that's happened to me," Mrs. Grant's husband, Joseph, 51, said. "This is truly something to celebrate about."

If allowed to adopt the boy, Mrs. Grant said she would name him after former president Ulysses S. Grant.

Bennett satisfactory in Kelowna hospital

KELOWNA (CP) — Former premier W. A. C. Bennett's condition has improved to satisfactory from fair, a Kelowna General Hospital spokesman said Monday.

Bennett, who suffered what his son R. J. Bennett called a "medium" heart attack more than two weeks ago, was admitted to hospital and discharged last week.

On Friday he again complained of pains in his arms and chest and was readmitted to the intensive care unit. He remained there for two days for checks and Sunday was transferred to a private room.

The hospital spokesman would not say Monday when Bennett would be discharged, saying this depended on his rate of improvement. The spokesman said the readmission to hospital was due to Bennett's heart condition, but there was no indication from any source that he suffered another heart attack.

Scientific uncertainties in plan

Flu campaign needs shot

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford's swine flu campaign needs a shot in the arm to survive.

The mass innoculation plan — beset with such scientific uncertainties as the proper vaccine dose for children — has insurance problems that Congress refuses to touch.

After two fruitless days of work on a bill "to provide indemnification against claims for injury related to inoculation with vaccine," Representative Paul Rogers, Florida Democrat, told a group of lawyers, insurers, vaccine manufacturers and health officials they should look elsewhere for a solution.

"That ought to be handled by agreement rather than by law, because I don't think the committee is in a position to write a law at this time," Rogers said.

Government officials and corporate lawyers representing vaccine companies discussed the issue Friday, and planned to resume their talks this week.

There have been other problems, too:

● One drug company accidentally made the wrong kind of vaccine.

● Dr. Albert Sabin, developer of one of the vaccines that virtually eliminated the threat of polio, said the government should vaccinate only older and high risk persons suffering from chronic illness.

● Some states complain their share of a $135 million aid bill passed by Congress to distribute vaccine nationwide is inadequate.

● Finally, nobody knows whether Americans really will listen to warnings that a potentially deadly strain of flu virus threatens the nation this winter, and line up this fall for their shots.

The insurance problems, however, are the thorniest.

Because of "virtually unmeasurable" risks of lawsuits from mass immunizations, insurers are reducing or eliminating coverage of swine flue vaccine.

The drug companies say they must have some protection by early this month against suits not related to their own negligence if they are to continue vaccine production.

"The risk to public policy is that the issues of liability and insurance may not only deny protection the public would receive from immunization against swine influenza but may even deny the public the protection of any future major public health program in the area of preventive medicine," said Theodore Cooper, the government's top doctor.

The mass vaccination program got its start last February when several hundred army recruits at Fort Dix, N.J., became ill — and one died — from a virus normally confined to pigs and the butchers and hog farmers who work with them.

The virus was similar to one believed to have caused the 1918-19 world flu epidemic which claimed 20 million lives, including those of 548,000 Americans.

Nurses defy court

MONTREAL (CP) — Striking nurses voted during the weekend to ignore 17 Superior Court injunctions taken out against them last week.

More than 700 strikers, members of the Quebec Nurses Federation, voted at a special meeting in Montreal Saturday night to continue their walkout, which began June 18.

The injunctions granted to 17 hospitals, most in the Montreal area, call for heavy fines or prison terms for those of the 5,500 federation members who fail to return to work.

Federation spokesman Diane Pare said the nurses also voted to defy the orders by average 76-per-cent totals in three areas outside Montreal where results were reported.

Affected hospitals report occupancy at 30 per cent of capacity, and even lower in several Montreal-area hospitals.

The nurses have said job mobility and work schedules were the major stumbling blocks in their negotiations with the government.

Buddy system sending two to chess tourneys

By RAY KERR
Colonist Staff

There's a buddy system in effect in the B.C. Chess Federation's scholastic division.

As a result, the province will be sending two players to Toronto to compete in two tournaments.

The two 17-year-olds Glenn Morin of Burnaby Central and Jeff Reeve of Victoria's Spectrum high school originally tied for first place in May during the provincial scholastic finals in Vancouver.

The tie was to have been broken through a four-game match held in Vancouver at the weekend. Reeve started well and won the first two games, but Morin roared back to take the next two.

And they were tied again, with only one berth open in the national scholastic championship scheduled for July 22 in Toronto.

Morin and Reeve then were supposed to flip a coin, but Reeve instead stepped aside and let Morin represent B.C.

"I let him have it (the berth) because he did the same thing for me last year when we were tied," Reeve explained. Reeve was the national runner up in last year's final.

But the Victorian was also rewarded. While Morin will be playing in the scholastic final as B.C.'s official representative, Reeve is being helped by BCCF to take part in the Canadian Open, to be held in Toronto right after the scholastic championship.

Eight of family die in smash

SWINDON, England (Reuter) — Nine persons, including eight members of a West Indian family, died Sunday night in a highway accident near this English city west of London. Police said the family, two men, three women and three children, were returning to London from the west of England when a bus travelling in the opposite direction veered over the median, through the crash barriers and smashed into them.

ann landers

Dear Ann Landers: I have learned a great deal from your column and now I want to contribute something, in the spirit of "replenishing the well." It is the profile of the Fatal Driver as described by the U.S. Department of Transportation.

The cities studied in depth were Baltimore, Boston, Albuquerque and Oklahoma City. Here's the person who is most likely to kill himself (or someone else) when he gets behind the wheel of a car:

The Fatal Driver is usually a male, 25 to 35 years old, a heavy drinker who often prefers beer to liquor. He probably has a high school education, drives an older car, is single, divorced or separated from his wife.

He displays excessively aggressive drinking habits and is the greatest threat to highway safety during the early morning hours of the weekend, especially on holidays. — A Friend.

Dear Friend: Thanks for the tip-off. And now a word to those who fit the description:

You know who you are. We don't. Will you do us all a favor and tape this column to the dashboard of your car as a reminder that our lives are in your hands? Please do it today.

Dear Ann Landers: Sorry, I can't go along with your answer to the wife who said sex does nothing for her so she fakes it for her husband's sake. You gave her "an E for Effort and a T for trying."

When a woman doesn't give her 50 per cent the man gets far less enjoyment out of sex. A normal man who is halfway decent derives very little pleasure if his bed partner lets him know it's a bore and she is merely accommodating him.

Equal participation and equal enthusiasm is essential or the sexual relationship is a bust. I wonder how many people wrote to complain about your stupid answer. I'll bet I'm not the only one. — Got One Of My Own.

Dear Got: So far, you are. But obviously you didn't read what I wrote — or you misunderstood the woman's letter completely.

She did not behave as if sex was a bore, nor did she cast herself in the role of a martyr. Her husband didn't have a clue that she wasn't getting hers.

I suggested that she be more aggressive and try to teach him what was pleasing to her. I encouraged her to be a participant rather than a passive partner. In the meantime, I gave her E for Effort and T for Trying — which she richly deserved.

Dear Ann Landers: After reading all those letters from fatties who made excuses for their overeating and damned their husbands for being "turned off" I decided to give my husband the best birthday gift of all — a new me, 40 pounds lighter.

Please print my letter so I can paste it on my makeup mirror. Thanks, Ann. Your column gave me the incentive to do it, and I feel terrific! — Grateful.

Dear G: Forget the makeup mirror, honey. Glue this column on your refrigerator door. And good luck! I'm rootin' for you.

A MESSAGE FROM CANADA TRUST

At Canada Trust, we understand that there are often "uncertainties" associated with buying or selling PROBLEM—A home to sell before purchasing.

SOLUTION—BRIDGE FINANCING. When you buy your home through Canada Trust, we can grant you up to $50,000 interest-free for 90 days (depending on your equity in your present home) to enable you to complete the purchase, prior to selling your present home.
PROBLEM—Mortgage money difficult to obtain.
SOLUTION—Canada Trust can arrange 1st and 2nd mortgage money through the Real Estate department for our home purchasers through our unlimited supply of funds.
PROBLEM—You wish to purchase a home which carries an existing low interest mortgage, but you're short on the down payment.
SOLUTION—Canada Trust can provide a 2nd mortgage at current low mortgage rates to assist purchase.
PROBLEM—You do not have sufficient down payment for conventional mortgage.
SOLUTION—Canada Trust can assist you with a high ratio mortgage.
PROBLEM—You require financing for a short period of time.
SOLUTION—Canada Trust can provide a mortgage with a term of 1, 2, 3 or 5 years at special low interest rates.
PROBLEM—You require "EXTRA" Financing for a short period of time.
SOLUTION—Canada Trust can provide you with a low interest life insured 2nd mortgage which may be paid off at any time.

HOW TO WRITE A GOOD CLASSIFIED ACTION AD

1—IT'S BEST to start your ad with the name of the article or service you have to offer. If you have an apartment, room etc., for rent, or property for sale; start your ad with the location.

2—BE CLEAR. Readers respond more quickly and favorably when given complete, definite information. Always include the price in your advertisement.

3—MAKE IT EASY for the reader-prospect to reach you. Always give your telephone number or your name and address. If you do not have regular hours, state a preferred time for the prospect to get in touch with you.

4—PLAY SAFE. You get the greatest reader attention by using consecutive insertions. A six-day order is best and costs less, and you can, of course, stop your ad as soon as you get the results you want. You pay only for the days your ad appeared. Lower yearly rates are available to those who wish to keep their services or products before the public.

5—PLACE YOURSELF in the reader's position and ask yourself what you want to know about your offer. The answer you give will make a good Want Ad.
Don't allow the reader to speculate!

6—GIVE YOUR PROSPECT every inducement you can with good copy. Classified action ad readers have the money and are already interested in buying the merchandise or service you have to offer; the details and information you give are the most important.

7—TO PLACE YOUR AD, call 386-2121, your direct line number to fast Want Ad action. A courteous, efficient advisor will be glad to help you word and place your order. And remember, Classified Action Ads afford bring the desired results do so you the most complete coverage. Telephones are open 8:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m. for you daily, Monday through Saturday call:

Off and again, a leaf blown
by the wind
Falls on the broad ocean
'Tis never lost; where'er it fate may blow,
The imprint of its settling's left behind.
And so with every life,
whate'er its kind,

It shapes itself a place,
'tis destined so,
It hence in, peace or turmoil
it should go,
Its influence ever lives,
as 'twas designed.

Provincial COURT

Legal Aid provided the difference Monday in Victoria provincial court when a 41-year-old seaman-oiler aboard a Korean wheat freighter came up on a Victoria charge of shoplifting a $375 jacket Friday from W. and J. Wilson, 1221 Government.

Friday, Judge F. S. Green had been unable to explain to Han Jung Ung of Pusan, South Korea, the differences in choosing trial in provincial, county or supreme court — mainly because the interpreter, Ung's captain, wasn't able to grasp the legal complexities.

Monday, Legal Aid duty counsel John Stowell and a new interpreter, a Korean living in this area, worked together to provide the necessary understanding. Ung chose provincial court trial, pleaded guilty to attempted theft and was fined $125.

Ung only had $50 and the fine was made payable forthwith by Green but shipping agents from King Bros., said the total would be paid in time for the ship to leave at noon Monday. Other sources indicated Ung, father of four children, might lose his job when he got home.

Preliminary hearings of two charges against Paul Joseph Desjarlais, 30, were scheduled for completion Monday, but neither made it.

Hearing of a Nanaimo break-in charge began and will be completed on a date to be set today. Hearing of a Victoria charge of theft and possession of a vehicle didn't even get started and will also get a new date today.

Desjarlais is to return on two days in late July for preliminary hearings of two major charges — one of forcible seizure, break-ins and theft in Metchosin last winter and a second of unlawful confinement and prison breach in a Wilkinson Road jail hostage incident in February.

A record of four convictions in the past seven years, two of them for possession of drugs, meant a 10-day jail term for Allen Charles McLaughlin, 24, of Quathiaski Cove on Quadra Island.

He was sentenced by Green after pleading guilty to a charge of possession of about 150 marijuana seeds found Sunday afternoon when he was checked through customs leaving the Princess Marguerite.

McLaughlin said the seeds were "just scattered around" in a knapsack and "could have been there for a year."

"You're skating on the thinnest of ice," Green told David William Holst, 17, of 697 Daffodil, who pleaded guilty July 2 to a charge of possession of a small amount of marijuana early June 20 in Saanich.

Green noted Holst was put on 12 months' probation for a break-in and fined $75 for possession of a narcotic only last February. The judge considered a jail term, then settled on a $250 fine for the new offence.

Bail was refused by Green for Nanaimo area resident Ronald Larsen, 30, on a charge of importing and trafficking in marijuana June 25 in the Sidney area and the case was remanded one week so an early date can be found for a preliminary hearing. Green granted a defence request for an order prohibiting publication or broadcast of bail-hearing details.

Victoria area resident David Kurt Brauner, 24, address not known, chose trial by county court judge on a charge of trafficking in heroin Jan. 13 in Victoria. His preliminary hearing was set by Green for July 26.

Two young men chose trials by judge and jury on separate Victoria charges of using violence while robbing a Victoria man June 18 in a hotel-pub washroom. Green put aside Oct. 20 for the preliminary hearing of Martin Lawrence Alphonse, 20, of 614 Esquimalt, and Oct. 22 for the hearing of Glen Malcolm Pratt, 21, of 1010 Balmoral.

French, Reds building plant

PARIS (AP) — A French firm has signed a contract with the Soviet Union to build what it called the biggest aluminum plant in the world. The plant will be in Siberia at a cost of 1.2 billion francs ($255 million) and produce one million tons of aluminum a year, the firm of Pechiney Ugine Kuhlmann said. The biggest aluminum smelter in the world currently is the Aluminum Co. of Canada Ltd., smelter at Arvida, Que.

Possible landing site for Viking

Viking team playing cosmic ice hockey

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI) — New Viking 1 pictures of the spacecraft's landing site on Mars Monday showed flat plains between crater fields where scientists were playing "cosmic ice hockey" with the target area for the July 17 landing.

Dr. Hal Masursky, head of the landing site team, said an ellipse — the egg-shaped area within which the lander will put down after rockets separate it from the orbiter — was moved around within the site.

"It's what we call cosmic ice hockey with the ellipse as the puck," he said. "We move it around until we get to the right place."

An ellipse is 149 miles long by 62 miles wide. Viking has a 99.7 per cent chance of landing within that area once separated from the orbiter and a 50-50 chance of landing within a chosen area about half that size.

Dr. Michael Carr Monday showed pictures taken of the C-1 site, a probable landing area for Viking 2 which is scheduled to orbit Mars Aug. 7 and land Sept. 4.

The photos shows plains between craters, dune fields and long channels which he said could have been caused by lava, streams of water or underground flows of liquid water or lava.

Earlier, Dr. Harold Klein, head of the biology team, said he was concerned that too much emphasis was being placed on the biology experiments of Viking.

He said there were 13 other experiments and termed Viking a "magnificent achievement" in view of the information it already has transmitted back to earth.

Klein said he feared the public might be led to perceive the project only as a search for life, which if it exists on Mars, might still be missed by the Viking tests.

Project director Jim Martin said Viking 1 was slowly drifting toward the new landing site, the northwest territory, and an engine burn would be made Thursday to fit it into the precise orbit.

Viking 2 was 4.5 million miles from Mars, closing at about 250,000 miles per day for its Aug. 7 orbit insertion.

Weekend: $125 holdup, $3,000 in safecracking

Safecrackers escaped with more than $3,000 in cash and rings and a stocking-masked gunman took an estimated $125 in a service station holdup in two weekend crimes reported Monday by Victoria police.

Police said one or more persons apparently stayed in Lund's Auctioneers, 926 Fort, after 3:30 p.m. closing Saturday, then forced open a door to the second floor and broke into a tool cupboard there.

The thieves then returned to the main floor and used the tools to open a safe, taking $1,561 in cash, $233 in cheques and three rings worth a total of more than $1,500.

On their way out, the thieves also took two old leaded glass windows kept in the front office. The theft was noticed about 1:20 a.m. Sunday when two police in a passing patrol car saw the open safe door.

Shortly after 3:30 a.m. Monday, night attendant Roberta Johnson, who celebrated her 17th birthday Saturday, was in the cashier's booth at the Wee Mac service station, 601 Gorge, when someone knocked on the sliding window.

She looked up to see a man with a stocking mask over his face and a shotgun or rifle held under his right arm. The man handed her a plastic bread bag with the top cut off and said: "Fill it up."

She put in some bills and was starting to add coins when the man said: "Just bills." She handed him the bag and he ran south into a parking lot. Moments later came the sound of a car with a loud muffler.

The man was described as 26 to 30 years of age, five feet, seven or eight inches tall and weighing 135 to 140 pounds. His weapon was said to have had "a long black barrel."

In Central Saanich, police said about $700 disappeared some time between Friday evening and Sunday morning from Brentwood Boat Rentals, 7212 Peden Lane.

The money had been left in a briefcase on a desk and was to be deposited in a bank Monday morning. Police said the money represented two days' receipts and added there was no sign of forced entry.

Man run over by own car?

DUNNVILLE, Ont. — A 41-year-old man apparently was run over by his own car in a nearby cemetery, police say.

It appears Jan Markus Moesker of Essex County drove to the cemetery and parked his car at the top of a slope.

He left the vehicle running, and as he walked down the hill in front of it, the car apparently rolled down the hill, knocked him down and crushed him.

VANCOUVER — David Lewis, former national New Democratic Party leader, takes up his teaching duties today at Simon Fraser University. The course is part of a program of political science courses taught by visiting lecturers at SFU's summer session.

BACUP, England — Richard Bolton is feeling the taxman's pinch early in life. Richard, 7, has erroneously received a warning for not filing any income tax returns.

SINFIN, England — Reg Plant has just married his wife Maria for the third time. The couple first were wed five years ago at Maria's home town in Mexico. A few weeks later, they married again in California where Reg was working as a Rolls Royce engineer. The third ceremony took place in this Derbyshire town where they now have their home.

BIRMINGHAM, England — Fed up with living with a man who spends all his time on his garden, housewife Clara Evans, 68, is suing her husband for divorce. After 44 years of playing second best to her husband's prized plants, Clara, not even allowed to walk on the lawn, has had enough.

LONDON — Machinist Jim Graicie thought the judge was joking when he shouted that Jim be sent to the cells for smoking in the public gallery. But it was no joke and Jim, 20, spent three hours in a cell before he was released after apologizing.

PLAINS, Ga. (UPI) — Senator Edmund Muskie was interviewed by Jimmy Carter Monday as the first of a half-dozen prospects Carter will talk with about the Democratic vice-presidential nomination. Muskie said it was "presumptuous" to say if he would become a running mate a second time.

LONDON — Queen Elizabeth has appealed to Angolan President Agostinho Neto for clemency for three British mercenaries sentenced to death in Angola, a Buckingham Palace spokesman said.

BELGRADE — Vladimir Dapcevic, a pro-Soviet foe of Yugslav President Tito and now a Belgian citizen, was sentenced to death for crimes against the state, but the penalty was immediately commuted to 20 years' imprisonment. Dapcevic, 58, took the side of Josef Stalin in the Soviet leader's 1948 bid to oust Tito.

Brazilians cut U.S. declaration

SAO PAULO, Brazil (UPI) — The editors of a Brazilian weekly reported Sunday they were forbidden by federal censors to print the text of the American Declaration of Independence.

"The federal police said that according to the general instructions on censorship received from the justice ministry, they had to cut parts of the declaration of the American revolutionaries of 1776 but found that inappropriate and preferred to cut the whole text," the editors of Movimento newspaper said in a statement.

The censors had no immediate comment.

Three extra months in jail for theft while on release

A 19-year-old Wilkinson Road jail inmate who stole from his boss while on a work-release program was sentenced Monday in Victoria provincial court by Judge F. S. Green to an extra three months in jail.

"That close to it and you've blown it," Green told Crispin Eugene Judge, who was due for full release Sept. 6 after being sentenced Aug. 28, 1975, in Port Alberni to 18 months for false pretences.

Judge pleaded guilty to a Victoria charge of stealing a cashbox and its contents of $40 in coins Sunday morning from the Olympic restaurant, 636 Johnson, were he worked six days a week as a cook.

Judge told the judge he was allowed out in the daytime six days a week for his split-shift job and got weekend passes each week for the seventh day — but "I got mixed up with some MDA" and spent the $40 on drugs.

Green said Judge had "the benefit of what appears to be a pretty liberal program of rehabilitation . . . with a fair amount of freedom, yet you were unable to handle it."

Campbell River area resident William Cooper, 20, pleaded guilty to a Sooke charge of escaping June 26 when he walked away from the Jordan River detention camp and was sentenced by Green to an extra two months.

Prosecutor Armand Petronio said Cooper was sentenced June 11 to six months over and above a 15-month term imposed Aug. 6, 1975, for a number of break-ins, and was due for release Oct. 20. Cooper was picked up in the Thetis Lake area after about 18 hours of freedom.

Police throughout Vancouver Island were seeking Brant Sidney Holson, 25, who failed to return on schedule at 11 a.m. Sunday at the federal community correctional centre on Pandora after being allowed out on a pass.

Officials at William Head, where inmates are screened for transfer to the centre, declined to give details of Holson's pass or prison sentence.

Oxtrike on exhibit

NOTTINGHAM, England (CP) — A tricycle for developing countries designed by Oxford University for Oxfam will be shown at an exhibition of bicycles through the ages at Nottingham Castle Museum. The Oxtrike is designed to carry passengers and goods economically on poor roads. Most of the tricycle can be made in developing countries from readily available sheet steel.

BROADBENT ACCEPTS MARCHAND ANSWER

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau and New Democrat Leader Ed Broadbent attempted Monday to nip suggestions that former environment minister Jean Marchand was wrongfully involved in a controversy involving government dredging contracts on the St. Lawrence River.

"It has been cleared a long while before by the RCMP," Trudeau said, referring to allegations linking Marchand and the dredging controversy outlined in a letter to the prime minister from Broadbent.

"I'm satisfied with the prime minister's response," Broadbent told reporters later.

The issue arose last Friday, when it became known that Broadbent had sent a letter to Trudeau outlining the allegations against Marchand.

The veteran cabinet minister had resigned two days earlier, and there was speculation that the dredging-contract controversy was involved in Marchand's decision to quit.

In a radio-television interview Friday night, however, Marchand said the allegations were unfounded and that they had nothing to do with his resignation.

He maintained that he decided to leave the cabinet because he disagreed strongly with a settlement negotiated by Transport Minister Otto Lang with pilots and air traffic controllers involving the use of two languages in air service work at Quebec airports.

In a statement Monday, Broadbent said he sent a letter outlining "serious allegations" against Marchand last Wednesday, hours before the minister resigned.

Since then, the prime minister "has satisfied me that the allegations of personal wrongdoing on Mr. Marchand's part are groundless."

Killanin in Montreal: Agreed conditions for Olympics not met

MONTREAL (CP) — Lord Killanin, president of the International Olympic Committee, flew to Canada Monday and reiterated that the Canadian government's policy regarding Taiwan's participation in the forthcoming Montreal Games is in conflict with Olympic principles.

Killanin said he had come to hold discussions with world sports federation officials and others concerned in the government's decision to prohibit Taiwanese athletes from participating as representatives of the Republic of China.

Questioned at a news conference, he said Montreal was awarded the Games in 1970 — backed by the federal and Quebec governments — on the stipulation that national Olympic committees, including that of Taiwan, would be admitted for participation under terms laid down by the IOC.

Killanin said that the Canadian government's policy, which would also prohibit the Republic of China's anthem and flag as well as use of the name by Taiwan, would create a dangerous precedent.

"This precedent could be especially dangerous not only for 1980 but in the long term for 1984 and 1988."

Montreal was awarded the 1976 Games only because of guarantees that IOC regulations would be followed—otherwise they would have gone to Moscow or Los Angeles, the competing bidders, Killanin declared.

The Canadian government's position has been under active consideration by the IOC since its position became known. Killanin said he could not commit himself as president regarding a government proposal that the Taiwanese come to the Montreal Games on the same basis as they attended the 1960 Olympics in Rome.

In the Commons earlier in the day, Prime Minister Trudeau and External Affairs Minister Allan MacEachen called on the IOC to extend Canada the same rights given Italy in 1960 when the Taiwanese were told by the IOC they could participate only as Taiwanese and not as the Republic of China.

Killanin said that while it was absolutely correct the Taiwanese went to Rome on those terms, the Taiwanese athletes unfurled a banner as they passed the reviewing stand in the Olympic stadium proclaiming they were participating under protest.

"I will not commit myself in any way," said Killanin, emphasizing he had come here to look into the situation as carefully as possible and discuss it with those concerned, a procedure that

External Affairs Minister Allan MacEachen said in Ottawa Monday he has rejected requests by the People's Republic of China that Canada ban entry of Taiwanese Olympic athletes.

But he also refused to alter Canadian policy that these athletes may enter Canada only as Taiwanese not as representatives of the Republic of China.

He said external affairs officials were willing to meet Lord Killanin, president of the International Olympic Committee.

The People's Republic of China, in a broadcast monitored in Tokyo Monday, said the International Olympic Committee must not allow Taiwan to participate in the Olympics.

Global cheer for daring raid

Israel buries dead while Amin stews

Associated Press

Many Western leaders praised the raid that freed more than 100 hostages in Uganda as Israel paused Monday in its celebration of the hostage rescue to bury two Israelis killed in the Entebbe airport shootout.

UN Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim on Monday criticized the Israeli raid as a violation of Uganda's sovereignty but expressed satisfaction it has proved possible to save human lives endangered by hijacking. He also predicted the raid would have "serious international repercussions," especially in Africa.

The 48-country Organization of African Unity meeting in Mauritius unanimously condemned the raid and asked an immediate UN Security Council meeting on the issue.

Israel's foes in the Arab and Soviet camps said the Jewish state had committed aggression.

U.S. President Ford expressed "great satisfaction" to Israeli Premier Yitzhak Rabin over the commando raid Sunday.

West German Chancellor Helmut Schmidt expressed "deep satisfaction and great relief" at the outcome.

Among the first to congratulate Israel was Denmark's Foreign Minister Knud Andersen who spoke of "the well executed and brave liberation of the hostages" from pro-Palestinian air hijackers of an Air France aircraft.

Prime Minister Robert Muldoon said New Zealanders are thrilled by "this audacious operation."

The French ambassador in Israel, Jean Herbly, said the raid is "a moral victory . . . a victory over brutal force."

Meanwhile, the Israeli army is on alert for threatened revenge attacks by Palestinian guerillas.

Across the Jewish state, shops and houses flew the blue-and-white national flag and newspapers filled pages with advertisements congratulating Rabin and the army.

But there was little rejoicing in Batyam and Netanya, where two of three hostages killed in the clash with the hijackers were buried.

"This is a harsh land," wept the husband of 56-year-old Ida Borochovich, a Russian immigrant who struggled most of his life to come to Israel and finally arrived with his family in 1969.

"It was a magnificent, courageous operation," said the chief military chaplain, Brig. Gen. Mordechai Piron, in eulogizing Mrs. Borochovich. "But it is the fate of this nation that every joy and delight be mixed with pain and mourning."

Mrs. Borochovich and another Israeli passenger of the hi-jacked airliner, Jean-Jacques Maimoni, 19, were buried with military honors and their graves covered with wreaths from the Israeli army, government, Air France and other groups.

They were killed in a battle during the Israeli raid, the military said. The seven hi-

NAVY TO PLAY BIG ROLE

'Four-fold increase' for West sea watch

Canadian Press

The use of naval vessels to enforce Canada's new 200-mile limit will be increased four-fold on the Pacific coast, a Vancouver fisheries office said Monday.

Ken Pittre, chief of West Coast and Vancouver Island operations, said increased patrols by naval vessels and transport ministry ships, in combination with fishery patrol vessels, will go into effect this year although the 200-mile limit does not become effective until Jan. 1, 1977.

"We are looking at a four-fold increase in surface ship surveillance," Pittre said. "The present air surveillance provided by the department of national defence is more than adequate . . . once a week."

He declined to be more specific in the number of patrols that would be carried out by naval vessels, explaining the system is still in the planning stage.

The Fisheries Council of Canada's latest bulletin, however, reports patrols on both east and west coasts will be increased to a doubling of total sea days over-all. Air patrols will increase so that every fishing vessel in Canada's offshore zone will be identified at least once a week.

Pittre said fishery patrols on the West Coast will only be necessary for a 50-mile limit.

"We have virtually no stocks (of bottom fish) outside of 50 miles," he explained.

Demoted official quits B.C. post

Wilmer Pettit, who is suing Health Minister Robert McClelland, said Monday he has quit his job with the provincial government.

Pettit was demoted from his post as director of the hospital finance division at the end of April because of what McClelland said was the premature payment of $4.5 million to five hospitals.

The health minister was under attack at the time by an Opposition that claimed the payments had been made to pad the amount of money sent to hospitals last year. He said the cheques had been sent without consultation and had since been returned.

Pettit said Monday his resignation took effect June 22.

In May he launched a three-way suit against McClelland claiming unspecified damages for alleged slander, wrongful dismissal from his directorship and financial loss.

In an interview with the Colonist, Pettit said he didn't expect examination for discovery in connection with the suit to take place before the fall.

He said he took the government job two years ago after moving from another province he declined to name.

Asked if the position was filled by cabinet order (the New Democratic Party was in power at the time), he said: "No. It was not a political job."

Comox-based jet dives into strait

Voodoo crash kills two

Eyewitness Tillotson: 'it broke right up'

By BILL SMITH
Colonist Staff

COMOX — A search was still underway at dusk Monday for one of two occupants of a CF-101 Voodoo jet fighter which crashed into Strait of Georgia waters about two miles northeast of the Canadian Forces base at Lazo.

Missing and believed drowned is Capt. Leslie John Cox, 32, of Comox, pilot of the aircraft. A fisherman found the body of the navigator, Capt. Roy James Smith, 29, of Kelowna, a short time after the crash.

The plane was taking part in a formation-flying exercise with two other jets when it suddenly plumeted into the calm waters of the strait.

Capt. Val Cretney, base public relations officer, said there was no radio transmission between the three aircraft to warn of any problems with the aircraft. "There was just routine transmission," he said.

Monday's tragedy struck almost exactly a year after two CFB Comox airmen had a close brush with death only a short distance from the scene of Monday's fatal crash.

The 1975 crash occurred July 4 at 2:40 p.m.—almost the same time as Monday's crash—with a Voodoo jet crashing into the sea about 500 yards off Kin Beach. Both occupants ejected from the aircraft, one landing in about three feet of water and the other in a tree near the beach.

Monday's crash was seen by passengers aboard the Sechelt Queen ferry which was heading for Little River from Powell River.

Owners of pleasure craft at the nearby Airforce Beach and Little River rushed to the downed aircraft and several pieces of wreckage collected

Ottawa, Argentina talk about Chilean refugees

OTTAWA (CP) — External Affairs Minister Allan MacEachen said Monday talks were being held with Argentine officials about Chileans who had taken refuge in the Canadian Embassy in Buenos Aires.

He said the talks were aimed at findinbg a solution to the problem but would give no more details in answer to questions in the Commons.

Immigration Minister Robert Andras said that the department was exploring the possibility that the Chileans could be declared refugees and thus be given special treatment for entry into Canada.

The 27 exiles entered the embassy office on the 25th storey of a downtown building Friday and refused to leave. The Chileans said their lives were in danger in Argentina and they wanted to move to Canada.

In Buenos Aires, embassy spokesman Brian Long said the embassy could not grant the exiles — 10 men, 10 children and seven women — permanent asylum in the building but possibly could provide them with visas for Canada.

Long said the Canadian government had a special program for refugees of the 1973 Chilean coup.

He said the group at the embassy felt threatened in Argentina. A diplomatic source said names of some of the refugees may have been on a list stolen three weeks ago by armed men.

The Argentine military regime, installed after the bloodless March 24 coup that ousted President Isabel Peron, has said it would welcome departure of refugees in the country because some are believed to be aiding leftist guerrillas.

'Peacekeepers' battle in Beirut

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — A right-wing radio said Monday skirmishes had broken out near Beirut airport between Sudanese and Libyan contingents of the Arab peacekeeping force.

The radio said the command of the Arab League was trying to contain the fighting and was believed to have "asked Syrian troops to separate the two contingents."

The reported clashes broke out following Sudan's complaint to the United Nations that Libya instigated last Friday's abortive coup against Sudanese President Jaafar Numeiry.

Marchand's portfolio to LeBlanc

OTTAWA (CP) — Fisheries Minister Romeo LeBlanc has been named acting environment minister, filling a gap left by the sudden resignation last week of Jean Marchand.

LeBlanc, 48, is former press secretary to Prime Minister Trudeau. He was acting environment minister last December and January, before Marchand's appointment and after a cabinet shuffle that moved former environment minister Jeanne Sauve to communications. He has been fisheries minister since August, 1974.

jackers — all Palestinians except a German man and a woman — and 20 Ugandan soldiers also were killed.

But third hostage died in Nairobi, Kenya, the stopover point for the Israeli commando plane on its 2,500-mile return trip.

American-born Lt. Col. Yonatan Netanyahu, the lone Israeli soldier killed, will be buried today.

External Affairs Minister Allan MacEachen told the House of Commons in Ottawa the Israeli raid was a "remarkable feat" that would be widely applauded as a serious setback for international terrorism.

Outside the Commons, MacEachen told reporters the raid is "bound to strike a responsive chord among Canadians who are concerned very much with hijacking."

The Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine, named earlier by the hijackers as the organization they represented, issued a statement Monday saying it considers France and Kenya equally responsible with Israel for the commando raid.

Uganda radio carried a statement by the front but did not make clear where it was issued or by whom.

The statement said an Air France plane flew over Entebbe airport and asked the control tower for permission to land at the same time the commandos were launching their attack. This was a diversionary tactic, the statement said.

It accused Kenya of playing a major role in the operation and said Israeli planes that took part in it has used Nairobi airport as a base both before and after their mission. Kenya has denied any connection with the raid but acknowledged emergency medical treatment was provided at Nairobi for some freed hostages.

Ugandan President Idi Amin declared today and Wednesday public days of mourning for "the gallant officers and men of the Uganda armed forces" who died in the commando raid.

Amin directed that all flags fly at half-mast during the two days and that only those required for essential services, such as security personnel, report for duty.

Amin, cabinet ministers and security personnel paid their last respects to the soldiers who died in the raid. The ceremony was held at Kololo airstrip.

Amin said in a broadcast statement earlier Monday he "reserves the right to retaliate in whatever way possible to redress the aggression," but did not elaborate. He added that his government will seek compensation for damage suffered in the raid.

Speaking at Mrs. Borochovich's grave, Israeli Transport Minister Gad Yaacobi said that since 1968 anti-Israel terrorists had carried out 30 hijackings and a dozen assaults on air ports killing more than 200 persons.

Yaacobi added he had requested countries whose airlines land in Israel to tighten anti-hijacking measures.

Newspapers from Tokyo to Stockholm expressed approval or at least understanding for the tough Israeli response to terrorism.

Manila's Philippines Express called the response "a triumph of good over evil."

The Asahi newspaper in Japan said "Israel will be further isolated" from the international community as a result of the raid. "This is the cost Israel is to pay . . . but Israel had to carry out the operation," it added.

Newspapers in Denmark and Sweden conceded the raid was an illegal act of war by Israel but said Israel had little choice.

"Individual nations cannot take the law into their own hands," said Sweden's daily Aftonbladet but admitted the difficulties in deciding how to deal with hijackers.

"It has taken everyone's breath away," said The Times of London. The Financial Times said the strike shows that "intervention by force of arms can work."

The London Daily Mail said: "Bravery . . . is certainly a better bet in this flabby-nerved age than compromise with killers."

The Guardian praised what it called Israeli "pirates for a day" who humiliated "a tinpot dictator and a terrorist gang."

In Nairobi, Kenya, where the rescue flights stopped over en route back to Israel, the head nurse at a hospital said wounded Israeli hostages had been treated and discharged.

Earlier reports said only one persons was admitted to hospital in Nairobi. The nurse declined to say in a telephone interview with Radio Israel how many hostages had been in hospital. The Israeli military appears to want details kept secret.

Israel appealed to the Red Cross and to an unidentified third country to secure the release of a hostage left behind in a hospital in Kampala. The woman, Dora Bloch, 75, was sent to hospital at the start of the week during which the others were held at an abandoned hangar at Entebbe airport.

Lebanon talks halted after battle heats up

BEIRUT (AP) — Palestinian guerrillas and leftist Lebanese forces said Monday they hit deep into the Christian heartland from north Lebanon.

Mahmoud Riad, Arab League secretary-general, said in Damascus a scheduled meeting between Christian and Moslem Lebanese leaders was postponed indefinitely because of the escalation of the fighting.

The leftist-controlled Beirut radio claimed Moslem forces occupied Chekka, a Christian town 40 miles north of Beirut. It said they then advanced to within four miles of Amchit, the site of the Christian-controlled radio, almost halfway to the capital.

In the capital, a Red Cross convoy trying to evacuate wounded from a besieged Palestinian refugee camp turned back Monday after both sides broke an agreement to stop shooting during the humanitarian mission.

A Red Cross spokesman said the convoy was trying to take an estimated 300 wounded from underground first-aid bunkers at Tal Zaatar camp.

The camp, inside Christian-held east Beirut, has been under siege for two weeks, defended by Palestinian guerrillas and leftists in a critical battle of the 15-month civil war.

The Christian noose around the camp has tightened and only a central section of the 74-acre shanty town remains in the hands of defenders.

Christians, blasting the camp from point-blank range with artillery and mortars, said Monday it is about to fall. However, Palestinians said the defence is holding and the Christians have suffered large losses.

Fifty volunteers in trucks driven by Armenians, who are neutral in the civil war, gathered in the no man's land between Beirut's Christian and Moslem-controlled sectors to begin the mission. Then 10 shells fell near where the wounded were to be collected.

The Red Cross contacted both sides by radio, pleading for an end to shelling, but it continued. Shooting also broke out in the area where the convoy was marshalled and the mission was abandoned.

The leftist attack in the north is seen as an attempt to relieve the relentless attack on Tal Zaatar, which the Christians say is a nest of radical guerrillas and revolutionary leftists.

Bomb threat to firm

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A communique issued Monday by the New World Liberation Front said time bombs are set to explode at two Pacific Gas Electric Co. sites in the San Francisco Bay area and all employees should stay away from work until July 10.

A spokesman for the utility company called the communique "an insane threat" and said employees should report to work and that operations would continue as usual.

The group has claimed responsibility for sabotaging Pacific Gas facilities five times since March 21, 1975, and for a number of area bombings, including one at the famous Hearst Castle in San Simeon.

The NWLF has demanded that Pacific Gas pay 50 per cent of the cost of bringing slum housing in San Francisco up to building codes.

$440,000 stolen in bank raid

MONTERREY, Mexico (UPI) — Five bandits held up the Bank of London and Mexico Monday and escaped with $440,000.

Police said the robbery was carried out in only three minutes. They said, although the bank was crowded, most patrons did not realize a robbery was taking place.

The gunmen's escape was aided by heavy pedestrian and automobile traffic and a heavy rainfall.

No shots were fired by the gunmen, who are suspected by authorities to be members of a guerrilla group.

Voodoo crashes

by the boaters were turned over to an HMCS Quadra crashboat crew.

George Tillotson of Comox, retired warrant officer who was stationed at Comox with 442 Search and Rescue squadron, was one of several eyewitnesses.

Fishing near the crash scene with his brother-in-law, Scott Webber of Kelowna and Webber's sons Jamie and Warren, Tillotson saw the three aircraft flying in formation headed towards Powell River.

"Suddenly, one of the aircraft left the formation and came straight into the water."

The Voodo hit the water, skipped, bounced and broke up, he said.

There was no evidence of a mid-air crash, Tillotson said. "I would say the crash was due to failure in the aircraft."

The jet interceptor crashed north of the ferry, which immediately stopped and conducted a search along with pleasure boats.

A rescue helicopter from the nearby base was at the scene within minutes, to be joined by the HMCS-Quadra-based crash boat Heron.

The aircraft were practising for summer air shows at Edmonton and Abbottsford and were almost near the end of the 30-minute training session when the crash occurred.

An investigation team is scheduled to arrive here today when a decision will be taken on locating and lifting the remaining wreckage.

Cretney said the aircraft went into about 360 feet of water. The body of the navigator was found floating on the water by an unidentified fisherman.

He said the aircraft had just left the formation when it turned and flew at a shallow angle into the water.

There was no evidence of the crew members trying to eject, Cretney said.

And there was no indication late Monday that the crash would mean the Comox Voodoo aircraft would be grounded.

Twelve at the Comox base were grounded last year while an investigation was carried out on the crash of another Voodo out of Bagotville, Que.

would take at least two or three days.

The IOC had not threatened to decertify the Montreal Games — as reported earlier — but Killanin gave a cautious reply when he was asked under what circumstances the world body might vote to withdraw recognition of the first such games to be held in Canada.

"That's a question I cannot answer," said the Irish peer, who spoke bitterly of political intrusions in the realm of sport.

Noting that he had just flown across the Atlantic with the Irish Olympic team, Killanin conceded that Ireland has its share of political problems but "when we come for sport, we come only for sport."

"I am happy to be here for sports, but there seems to be a lot of politics."

The rival claims of the Chinese mainland government in Peking and the Nationalist Chinese administration in Taiwan have simmered in the Olympic movement for years but erupted last Thursday when the IOC announced it was at loggerheads with the Canadian government on the question.

"I am not interested in the politics of two Chinas but in getting the maximum number of participants in the Olympics," Killanin said Monday.

He emphasized twice that the Olympic organizing committee under Roger Rousseau had behaved correctly in extending an invitation to the Olympic committee of Nationalist China on Taiwan.

But the Canadian government had not lived up to the terms by which Montreal Mayor Jean Drapeau's bid for Games had been supported in letters from Prime Minister Trudeau and the late Jean-Jacques Bertrand, Quebec premier when the application was made.

The Canadian government subsequently extended recognition to Peking and withdrew recognition of the Taiwan government.

Asked what kind of pressures the IOC could exert on the Canadian government to bring about a change of current policy regarding Taiwan's presence at the Games, Killanin repeated he was here to study the whole question.

He reported, however, that he had been "inundated" by responses to a circular to IOC members and the international sports federations, mainstays of the Olympic movement.

The majority of members stood behind the Killanin view, including those who recognize the Peking regime rather than the one in Taiwan.

"I haven't had time to sort out all the messages yet," said Killanin, but he added that the IOC also had received powerful support from among the 21 world sports federations.

These included track and field, archery, boxing, handball, judo, modern pentathlon, swimming, shooting, yachting, equestrian and gymnastics.

"The great majority of the federations recognize the Republic of China as being Taiwan," Killanin said.

Taiwan had already requested participation in such categories as athletics, archery, gymnastics, cycling, shooting, pentathlon, boxing and yachting.

"I have no other statement to make on this matter now except that we are extremely worried that this situation should have come up at the last minute," said Killanin.

He said there had been no indication of the problem until May 28 when he received a message from James Worrall, IOC member in Canada, although Ottawa insists the IOC was warned of Canada's stand a year ago.

Your Good Health

Dear Dr. Thosteson: With reports of adverse effects of oral contraceptives (the "pill") in women of the over-40 age group, I am considering changing to another form of contraception. I am nearing that age.

I have been taking the Pill for more than 10 years. What will happen if I stop? When will my body return to a normal menstrual cycle? How soon after stopping is it possible to become pregnant? And what method would you suggest as an alternative to the Pill? — R.W.

You've just about covered the entire waterfront.

Return to normal menstruation varies widely among women. In some it is practically immediate. In others it can take a few months. The same applies to ovulation. The best rule is not to assume the transition period is safe. After 10 years of successful contraception you don't want any "surprises."

The second part of your question is more difficult.

The attraction of the Pill has been its almost 100 per cent effectiveness. Actually the only birth control method that surpasses it in effectiveness is vasectomy (for the male) or tubal ligation (for the female). With the Pill there is always the likelihood of improper use.

Many women have used the diaphragm with good results, but here again proper use is a factor.

The i.u.d. (intrauterine device) follows, although there are problems with some women in retaining the device and with irritation from it.

The "rhythm" method is advocated by some on religious grounds, but it carries the uncertainty posed by erratic menstrual cycles and of miscalculations.

The contraceptive foams and jellies bring up the rear in this contraceptive sweepstakes. They just are too uncertain.

Derby winner nips Forego

NEW YORK (AP) — Foolish Pleasure upset Forego by a nose in the 90th running of the $108,800 Suburban Handicap before 41,172 fans at Aqueduct on Monday.

Forego, the two-time horse of the year carrying top weight of 134 pounds, spotted 1975 Kentucky Derby winner Foolish Pleasure nine pounds and just missed winning in a thrilling finish to the 1 3/16-mile stakes. Another nose back was Lord Rebeau under 116 pounds.

Property is point of contention

Undeveloped property of Comox Marine Industries has been point of contention between Comox council and the provincial government. It is a proposed site for berthage, boatel and marine recreational facilities, but so far, it has remained undeveloped on Comox waterfront.

Canada Week event colorful

PARKSVILLE — Spearheaded by Mount Arrowsmith Branch of Royal Canadian Legion, a Canada Week ceremony was held for the first time in Parksville Community Park through co-operation with the village council and with support of local organizations.

Dr. Emil Schafer was in charge of the program assisted by Ald. Ena MacGibbon. The opening event was a colorful flag-raising ceremony conducted by the Legion Branch and the Legion auxiliary, led by respective presidents, Bud Evoy and Lan Evoy.

Color-bearers were Jack Harvey, Sam Davis, Bill Holmes, Pauline Tranfield and Liz Harvey with Earl Leighton of the Legion and Parksville Lions as escort. George Dodds was sergeant-at-arms. Bill Kreacul also represented the Lions at the ceremony.

Star performer in the afternoon was 13-year-old Anne Scott who delighted the audience with a display of acrobatic turns and dancing. Anne, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. Scott of Parksville, has achieved her bronze medal in Acrobatics.

Parksville and District Band provided a lively program to round out the afternoon. The evening Retreat conducted by the Legion was led by Piper Derek Smith of Mount Arrowsmith Pipe Band.

Island MP comments on Marchand

Liberal sees polarization

Polarization over the bilingual problem could reduce Liberal strength in the western provinces if the "Liberal party becomes the champion" of Francophones and the "Conservative party the great hope of English-speaking Canadians," Hugh Anderson, Liberal MP for Comox-Alberni, said last week.

Anderson, in Campbell River for the town's Salmon Festival along with four other MPs from Quebec and Ontario, said some of his Conservative colleagues west of Ontario are "if not bigots and if not racists, then damn close."

He said division over the issue could "decimate Liberal strength in the West" and pit English-speaking Canadians against French-speaking Canadians.

The result eventually could be disastrous to Confederation, he said. "One will have to fight to preserve English culture and French culture."

Anderson said both the Conservatives and the NDP have "mouthed support for bilingualism in the past" but when a problem, such as the airline pilots' strike, comes around, "I don't hear their voices."

"All I hear is a hell of a lot of bickering and criticism. I don't hear leadership and satesmanship, rather I hear political opportunism."

Commenting on Environment Minister Jean Marchand's resignation Wednesday night over the government's handling of the airline pilot's strike, one Quebec Liberal MP said it was regrettable.

Claude Lejoie (L—Metro-Trois Rivieres) and Parliamentary secretary to the minister of national revenue, said "he was sorry about it." Marchand fought hard for 10 years over the issue, but he tried to overcome all the difficulties too quickly.

Alan Martin (L—Scarborough West) said he didn't see Marchand's resignation as any immediate threat to Liberal party unity. "I don't think anybody is irreplaceable."

Air display at weekend

QUALICUM BEACH — The Qualicum air festival, organized by the Parksville Qualicum Aero Club, will be held at the Qualicum Airport Saturday and Sunday.

It is expected to attract some 150 planes from many points in B.C., Alberta and the northwest U.S. There will be competitions for pilots and navigators.

Highlight of the weekend will be Sunday afternoon's air show which will feature CFB Comox Tracker aircraft, Mars water bomber from Sproat Lake near Port Alberni, and parachutists from Comox Skydiving Club. Bob Gilmour and Sven Kjong will give aerobatic displays while Vancouver's Bluebirds will be flying in formation.

Where will you be spending this Summer?

We have a suggestion! If you enjoy boating, camping, touring, golfing, or just plain relaxing around the yard drop in to Granite Industries and check out the many maintenance-free installations we have to offer . . . then throw away that old ladder.

Pick-off attempt too late

Valerie O'Brien of Gordon Head is safe as Dawson Creek's Kari Hunter pulls in pick-off attempt during B.C. girls Little League softball championships Monday at Majestic Park. Miss O'Brien pitched Gordon Head to a 12-8 win in the 13-15 year-old division while her sister Sandy hurled a one-hitter as Gordon Head won the 12-and-under division game, 7-1. The tournament resumes today with Gordon Head and Dawson Creek meeting in the 13-15 final at 4 p.m. and Lake Hill and Dawson Creek meeting in the loser's bracket final of the 12-and-under division at 6:30 p.m.

Major-league crowds show giant increase

Major league baseball has a lot of things to settle in court but it appears to be heading for a record attendance year.

A few clubs are having trouble attracting enough fans to meet expenses, but the over-all picture is excellent and the gain over last season is nearing two million fans.

Cleveland Indains set a club record on Sunday when 62,504 fans turned out for the last game of a four-game series with New York Yankees, and Monday night there were 48,467 in the Atlanta crowd which watched the Braves respond with an 8-6 win over Pittsburgh Pirates. And 60,942 fans greeted Philadelphia Phillies on their return from a road trip.

The Indians, who drew fewer than a million fans last season, are second in the American League East but they were seven games behind the Yankees when the series started. They started with a victory, and that helped considerably in bringing out 186,300 fans for the four-game set.

That was more than 40,000 above the former four-game high of 145,825, set in a 1948 series against the Yankees. The crowds of 64,529 on Saturday and the 62,504 on Sunday were the two largest gatherings in the major leagues this year, and they put the Indians 98,505 fans ahead of last season's attendance pace.

Atlanta, a troubled franchise last year with a season's total of only 534,672 fans, is under new, aggressive ownership but the efforts of the Braves hardly rate Monday night crowds of almost 50,000 and the biggest percentage gain in either league to this point of the season. The Braves had won three of their last four games, but even with Monday's win were five games below .500 and 11½ games out of the division lead.

And there was no gain Monday as Cincinnati Reds and Los Angeles Dodgers continued to run one-two in the National League West. The Reds breezed past Montreal Expos, 11-2, with Joe Morgan hitting a grand-slam homer and batting in five runs. The Dodgers got two-hit pitching from Burt Hooton and home runs from Steve Carvey and Bill Russell in besting the Phillies, 6-0.

Division leads remained unchanged in the American League, where the Yankees lost and Kansas City Royals won.

The Yankees, who stretched their lead to nine games Sunday with a third straight win against the second-place Indians, were beaten Monday, 2-1, by the Royals. The losers got 11 hits and the Royals used three relief pitchers in a successful struggle to protect their 2-0 first-inning lead.

But the Indians also lost, taking an 8-1 drubbing from California's lowly Angels and winding up with Boston Red Sox as co-holders of second place. The Red Sox finally balanced their record by clobbering Chicago White Sox, 11-2.

Texas Rangers stayed within three and a half lengths of the Royals, scoring four times in the seventh inning to outlast Detroit Tigers 8-6.

Shamrocks gain point

Victoria Shamrocks, the only club yet to have clinched a Western Lacrosse Association playoff spot, picked up a point over the weekend and are now leading by five points.

The point came on a ruling of their protest of last Wednesday's 12-13 overtime loss to New Westminster Salmonbellies. Shamrocks claimed that the New Westminster club scored two illegal goals because of a penalty mixup which allowed a New Westminster player to return to the floor before his penalty time had been fully served.

Commissioner Roy Burton found this to be so in his check of game records, and he also discovered that the Shamrocks had scored an illegal goal. That brought his ruling that the game be declared a tie at 11-11, the score at the end of regulation time.

That gave the Shamrocks a 12-4-1 record and left Salmonbellies at 6-9-1 and only one point ahead of the fourth-place Nanaimo Timbermen. However, Burton said, the game will be replayed if the failure to produce a decision has a bearing on deciding the playoff clubs.

Burton, carrying on his effort to cut down on fighting, also levied what he termed "major" fines against Nanaimo Timbermen and Vancouver Burrards for a benches-clearing scrap in Vancouver last Tuesday. And Ward Sanderson of Burrards, who also received a warning that any further offences would bring stiffer penalties, received a two-game suspension for his part in a fight with Jim Lynch.

Sanderson will sit out the July 18 game against Timbermen and the July 31 game against Coquitlam Adanacs.

Burton also said that no blame was attached to the Shamrocks for their late arrival for the Saturday game in Coquitlam. It came about because air transportation was late and Burton said that he had received an apology from Harrison Air Lines.

Next game — Tonight, Coquitlam at Victoria.

Still 10 games from the end of their schedule and only three points out front, Victoria McDonalds can't afford to take it easy in tonght's Western Canada Major Junior Lacrosse League game.

It's at Esquimalt Sports Centre against Coquitlam J-Hawks, and the opportunity is there for the league leaders to profit individually and as a team.

J-Hawks can ill afford to lose tonight. They are only three points ahead of Richmond and after tonight's game will be two games closer to the end of their schedule than the fifth-place Roadrunners.

But the Coquitlam team seems made to order for the Kevin Alexander-Bob Cool combination. J-Hawks have allowed 324 goals in their first 18 games, a statistic which indicates Alexander and Cool should add to their outstanding records.

Alexander, shooting for the Canadian junior record of 207 points he set last year, has 153 points. That puts him 19 points ahead of his finemate, but Cool is 31 points ahead of third-place Dan Wilson.

On Sunday, Burnaby Cablevision closed in on McDonalds again by overpowering the J-Hawks, 24-15. John Krgovich had four goals and five assists and Kelly McLeneghen four goals and three assists for the winners. Norm Luesler scored five times for J-Hawks.

Price nabs points lead

Jim Caudwell won the main event duel Monday at Western Speedway but Bill Price earned enough points to jump into first place in the super-stock points race.

Price took second place in the main event and first place in the trophy dash to boost his points total to 786, while former leader Bob Collins timed in with the fastest time of 19.03 before the crowd of 1080 at the Langford oval but developed head problems on his 1959 Thunderbird and was unable to race. He now has 710 points.

Caudwell, who won the first main event of his career earlier this season, led for the first nine and the last 13 laps of the 35-lap main event.

Price, who led from the 10th to the 22nd lap, stayed close to Caudwell all the way despite developing a miss in his 1964 Chevelle.

Tony Oxley won the accident-filled first heat. Only five of the 11 starters finished the race which was stopped four times by red flags.

Ernie Schoor finished first but was disqualified for having illegal tires.

Mike Tuck drove his own car to victory in the hobby-stock main event. Gordie Hildebrandt, who usually pilots the 1964 Chevelle was unable to compete so Tuck, who has some driving experience, took the wheel.

Points leader Bill Hitchcox was sidelined twice by Warner Johnstone in the hobby-stock main and Johnstone was black-flagged after the second infraction.

Softball roundup

Protests piling up

It was a big night for protests on the Greater Victoria softball circuit Monday.

MacDonalds Furniture Juniors lodged a protest over their 3-0 defeat at the hands of Hygrade Radio in a Victoria junior women's playoff game at Hyacinth Park.

And in a Sidney Men's Association League game at Sancha Park Sidney Hotel protested a 5-2 loss to Harvey's Sporting Goods.

Hygrade held a 3-0 lead going into the seventh inning when the coach brought in a player which had appeared in only two league games. Under senior women's rules a player must have appeared in a minimum of three league games to be eligible to play in the playoffs.

A league spokesman said Monday that she wasn't sure if the rule applied to juniors and a ruling had not been made.

At Sidney, Brian Vanderkratch pitched victory and Arv Hawkins and Terry Nunn hit solo home runs for Harveys.

Sidney Hotel protested the decision because the umpires allowed a run that scored on an inning-ending double play to stand.

The league has yet to decide on a protest from a Sunday game in which KOA edged Travelodge, 4-3. In that game Travelodge protested because a run that scored was disallowed. With runners on first and second the batter singled. The runner on second came home to score but the runner coming from first base was thrown out at third base. Travelodge felt the run scored before the out but the umpires disagreed.

Meanwhile, Nanaimo A and B Construction won the first annual Wally Yeamens women's tournament Sunday by defeating GSV Combos 8-5 and 6-2 in the championship round.

Laurie Grimston of Stockers North Americans won the batting title with a .500 average.

In the Stuffy McGinnis Men's League Tournament at Central Park, Ingraham Hotel won top honors with a 6-3 triumph over Port Alberni Beaufort Hotel in the final.

Mel Nelson pitched the final victory for Ingraham and was chosen the outstanding pitcher for his 2-0 record, his 1.08 earned-run-average and 17 strikeouts in 13 innings.

At Heywood Park, Century Inn won the Heywood Avenue Men's League Tournament by defeating London Boxing Club, 8-5, and finishing with a 4-1 record in the round-robin affair.

Hobbs posts upset

Art Hobbs of Victoria pulled a major upset in the first day of play in the Pacific Regional Junior Tennis Tournament here Monday.

After downing Doug Halliday of Vancouver, 5-7, 6-0, 6-2, in the morning, Hobbs came back to upset third-seeded Tony Schiwaci of Hawaii, 6-4, 2-6, 7-6 in the afternoon.

Hobbs advances to the quarter-finals of the under-18 singles where he'll meet David Trendal of Phoenix today. Trendal upset seventh-seeded Mike Sayce of Vancouver.

Scott Braley of Victoria also advanced and will meet top-seeded Steve Volrich of Vancouver in a quarter-final match today.

Miss Cameron plays Miss Barlow while Miss Bland plays Gayle Dobson of Vancouver.

Aynsley lifts Als

OTTAWA (CP) — An eight-yard pass to receiver Brock Aynsley from rookie quarterback Joe Barnes boosted Montreal Alouettes to a 26-22 win over Ottawa Rough Riders in a closely fought Canadian Football League exhibition game Monday.

Aynsley's score came at 10:35 of the fourth quarter and was set up by halfback Glen Leach's recovery of an Ottawa fumble on a punt return, giving Montreal first down on the Ottawa 18-yard line.

A holding penalty moved the ball to the eight from where Barnes found Ainsley wide open in the left corner of the end zone.

The Alouettes got two touchdowns from running back Ian Mofford and one from tight end Peter Dalla Riva. Don Sweet kicked two converts while Barnes failed on two-point conversion attempts on the other touchdowns.

Ottawa scoring was led by Gerry Organ, who kicked five field goals and converted a touchdown by wide receiver Moody Jackson in the second quarter.

Cale pushing NASCAR leader

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Victory in Sunday's Firecracker 400 increased Cale Yarborough to the No. two spot in this year's National Association of Stock Car Auto Racing money-winning competition.

Yarborough's edged ahead of Richard Petty and, with $169,080 to his credit, was pushing David Pearson for the lead. Pearson has won $179,690, including second-place money in the Firecracker 400.

Petty is third with $167,715, followed by Benny Parsons, $129,945, and Bobby Allison, $109,705.

Yarborough posted an eight-second victory over Pearson and Allison.

Only two caution periods slowed the race. One was with 26 laps to go when Janet Guthrie spun in the fourth turn. The other was for a seven-car tangle in the early going that started with a blown engine in Buddy Baker's Ford.

Kern
. . . all-star hurler

Kern regains touch and Bates triumph

SEATTLE — Stan Kern was in peak form early Monday morning as he hurled Victoria Bates to victory in the annual Heidelberg Invitational Fastball Tournament.

The big righthander, who had been struggling in recent weeks, fired a two-hitter in the championship game as Bates scored a 1-0 decision over Seattle Pay 'N' Pak.

Kern pitched three wins in the tournament, two on Sunday, he struck out nine batters in the final and was named most valuable pitcher.

The two-hitter was his best performance since he threw a two-hitter against Fraser Valley in a Pacific Coast Fastball League game on May 2.

He was below par in recent series with Vancouver Magicians and Reading, Pa. He failed to win a game in either series and Bates lost both by three games to one.

Bates run came in the fourth inning when Mike Taaffe was hit by a pitch, advanced on a sacrifice by John Green and scored on a single by Pete Songhurst, in the action which ended at 2:30 a.m.

Bates had dropped a 4-3 decision to Pay 'N' Pak in the winners bracket final but earned a berth in the championship game by beating Seattle Peterbilt, 6-3, in an error-filled contest.

Centrefielder Ken Bate led the tournament in hitting with a .530 average, Kern had an earned-run-average of .0.00 and catcher Bob Burrows hit two home runs.

Kern, Bate, shortstop Bob Holness and outfielder Harvey Stevenson were chosen to the all-star team.

The Bates next home doubleheader is July 13 when they meet a New Zealand team, which includes national team pitching star Kevin Herlihy, at Royal Athletic Park.

Tickets for the New Zealand doubleheader are on sale at Memorial Arena box office.

Robb hangs on at Cowichan

Doug Robb blew to a 74 Sunday but managed to hang on and capture championship honors in the 24th annual Cowichan Open at Cowichan Golf Club.

The Abbotsford professional carded a 67 in the opening round of the 36-hole tournament Saturday. His 141-total gave him a one-stroke victory over Victoria amateurs Dave Mick and Jim Rutledge and a three-stroke triumph over Uplands pro Brian Carbery.

Robb earned $600, Carbery took home $400 and defending champion Bill Wakeham of Cowichan earned $300.

Mick had the low round Sunday, 69, while Rutledge shot 70-72—142 to tie for amateur honors.

Ken Floyd of Powell River scored 72-73—145 for third low amateur and B.C. amateur champion Doug Roxburgh scored 72-74—146.

John Russell of Vancouver tied for third with Floyd and won the handicap title with 145-14—131. Jack Cranston was second low net and Ralph Thorne was third low net.

Leading professionals and their winnings:

Doug Robb ($600)	67-74—141
Bryan Carbery ($400)	72-72—144
Bill Wakeham ($300)	73-74—147
Bruce Rands ($225)	75-74—149
Bob Hogarth ($175)	74-76—150
Alvie Thompson ($125)	77-74—151
Sid Dahl ($62.50)	75-77—152
Joe Jeroski ($62.50)	76-76—152

Tribunal switches Grand Prix winner

PARIS (AP) — An international auto racing appeal tribunal Monday reinstated Briton James Hunt as the winner of the Spanish Grand Prix, held May 2.

Hunt had been disqualified and Austrian world champion Niki Lauda, who crossed the finish line second in his Ferrari, had been declared the winner by Spanish officials after Hunt's McLaren was found to be 1.5 centimetres — about one-half inch — wider than new regulations allowed.

Despite the decision, Lauda remains the runaway leader in this year's competition for the world driving championship, with twice as many points as his nearest competitors. Lauda now has 52 points, instead of 55, and Hunt, winner of Sunday's French Grand Prix, moves up from fourth with 17 to a tie for second with France's Patrick Depailler with 26.

Huge trout near record

FLIN FLON (CP) — Joe Fitzpatrick, 64, of Flin Flon caught a 42-pound, 12-ounce trout Sunday to win the $1,000 top prize at the 26th annual Flin Flon Trout Festival.

The fish, 44 inches long and 28 inches in girth, was caught in about 100 feet of water in Lake Athapapuskow. It took 20 minutes to land and is the second-largest ever entered in the festival.

In 1971, Ted Mackonka of Flin Flon landed a 44-pound trout.

The $250 prize for the biggest northern pike went to Jean Danielson, 24, of Cranberry Portage, Man., who landed the 26-pound five-ounce pike in Lake Athapapuskow.

Alcos win tourney

Alcos won the Victoria and District Cricket Association's annual six-a-side tournament Sunday at Beacon Hill Park.

Winners of the John Ross Robertson Trophy match with Caribe of Calgary on Saturday, the Alcos won six-a-side honors for the second straight year beating Albion "A", 42-41 in the final.

In the tournament, each club received five overs for an inning with a total of 30 balls.

Steve Hanson, who batted for 33 runs against Caribe, scored 34 not out against Albion.

Albion "B" defeated Saanich, 41-34, in the consolation final.

Golf officers named

Victoria City and District branch of the Canadian Ladies Golf Association recently held executive elections.

Margaret Todd of Victoria Golf Club was elected chairman of junior development, Eileen Anderson of Royal Colwood was elected chairman course rating and Muriel McPherson of Glen Meadows was elected treasurer.

Remaining on the executive for a second year are: June Lovitt of Uplands (chairman); Peggy Matthews, of Gorge Vale (handicaps); Sydney Boyd, Victoria (teams); Florence Hives of Cedar Hill (secretary).

B.C. in soccer final

TORONTO (CP) — Denmark defeated Canada 1-0 Sunday to win a 12-country invitational juvenile soccer tournament.

It was the first loss for the Canadian team, represented by the Kerrisdale Legion team from Vancouver. Kerrisdale won all four games in the round-robin portion of the tournament.

Kerrisdale beat Wexford, a Toronto team, to advance to the final, while Denmark beat a team from Dallas in the semi-final.

Muncey wins regatta

MADISON, Ind. (AP) — Bill Muncey, driving the smooth Atlas Van Lines, won the 28th Madison Regatta and the Indiana Governor's Cup for unlimited hydroplanes Sunday.

More than 100,000 persons lined both the Indiana and Kentucky banks of the Ohio River for the race which kept Atlas firmly atop the American Power Boat Association season point standings.

It was the second victory in four races for the boat, which won the first race at Miami and finished second both at Washington, D.C., and in the Gold Cup race at Detroit last Sunday.

Miss U.S., driven by Tom D'Eath of Detroit, won the Gold Cup and finished second to Atlas here.

Muncey, 47, now has 34 career victories — more than any other driver — and has five wins at Madison to go with his four national championships.

All-Stars win series

Victoria Firefighters All-stars completed their exhibition Senior Babe Ruth baseball series with Nanaimo All-Stars by sweeping a doubleheader Sunday at Bullen Park.

Nanaimo outhit Victoria in both games but the Firefighters took advantage of five-bases-on-balls and a hit batter to score five first inning runs and a 5-3 win in the opener and they scored a 4-1 decision in the second game.

Nanaimo starter Steve Dalman was relieved by Don Slaughter in the first inning of the opener and Victoria managed only two hits off the combination.

Rob Stenseth gave up seven hits in earning the victory.

Reg King pitched the Victoria victory in the second game and he and Mark Lawless had two hits and drove in one run each, to give Victoria a 3-1 victory in the four-game series.

Saturday, Nanaimo won the opener, 5-4, but lost the second game, 4-1.

City rower wins dash

PHILADELPHIA — John Alexander won the quarter-mile elite dash in the Independence Day Regatta Sunday.

The Victoria City Rowing Club member posted a time of 1:18 in and teamed with clubmate Steve Sidebotham to take second place in the lightweight doubles.

There were 17 entries in the doubles and 12 rowers entered in the dash as national teams from New Zealand, Australia, the U.S. and Canada took part in the prestigious regatta.

Nicholls tops Lund Memorial

Stu Nicholls captured top honors Sunday as members of Velo City Cycle Club swept top honors in the Victoria Wheelers annual Gary Lund Memorial bicycle race.

The Vancouver rider covered the 99 - mile course over Wallace Drive, West Saanich Rd., and McTavish Rd., in four hours, 18 minutes and 55 seconds.

Ken Cunningham of Vancouver finished second and clubmate Jeff Kirk took third place.

Eugene Rochfort of Fraser Valley's River Road Cycle Club won the 22-mile novice race, Independent Jim Davis captured the "C" division race and Lido Crema of Italia Cycle Club won the "B" division race.

Novice (22 miles) — 1. Eugene Rochford (River Road CC), 2. Raymond Peron (Victoria Wheelers), 3. Bernard Ivanco (Kamloops), 4. Gordon Ney (independent). Time: One hour, three seconds.

"C" Division (44 miles) — 1. Jim Davis (Independent), 2. Bernie Willock (Wheelers), 3. Phil Cotter (Wheelers), 4. Dave Emery (Wheelers). Time: 1.58:31.

"B" Division (66 miles) — 1. Lido Crema (Italia), 2. Michel Peron (Wheelers), 3. Ron Joostema (Velo City), 4. Ed Thompson (Velo City). Time: 2:55:29.

Open Division (99 miles) — 1. Stu Nichols (Velo City), 2. Ken Cunningham (Velo City), 3. Jeff Kirk (Velo City), 4. Hugh Harden (Carleton CC). Time: 4.18:55.

Whitecaps nab division lead

Canadian Press

Vancouver Whitecaps lost their uniforms Sunday but not their pride.

The Whitecaps, forced to play in borrowed training shirts before a record crowd of 20,418 at Ownby Stadium in Dallas, scored a 2-1 overtime win over the hometown Tornado and snapped an eight-game home winning streak.

The Vancouver team, which had its jerseys stolen, used Dallas training shirts and Bob Lenarduzzi's goal after three minutes of sudden-death overtime to post the victory in the only league game Sunday.

On Saturday, the Whitecaps beat San Diego Jaws 1-0, Seattle Sounders downed Minnesota Kicks 3-1, San Antonio Thunder beat Los Angeles Aztecs 2-1 and San Jose Earthquakes downed Portland Timber 3-0.

In Monday's only game, Toronto Metro-Croatia scored a 1-0 overtime victory over Boston Minutemen at Quincy, Mass.

Officials appointed

TORONTO (CP) — Peter Bavasi, executive vice-president and general manager of Toronto's new baseball franchise in the American League, announced Monday the appointment of Howard Starkman as director of public relations and Bobby Hewitson as director of ticket sales.

These hiring were Bavasi's first since his appointment as chief operating officer for the ball team on June 18.

UBC fours first

HENLEY-ON-THE-THAMES, England (AP) — "We did it," exulted stroke Charlie Poole as Trinity College of Hartford, Conn., crossed the finish line to grab a major trophy Sunday, competing a great success story at the Henley Royal Regatta.

The Trinity crew danced with delight on the banks of the River Thames as U.S. oarsmen celebrated America's 200th birthday by winning three of the 12 challenge trophies.

Holy Spirit High School, the U.S. national schoolboy rowing champ from Absecon, N.J., and Harvard University's freshmen crew were the other victors. Two other American crews lost in Sunday's finals.

A University of British Columbia fours without cox took home the Stewards Challenge Cup with a one-third boat-length victory over Thames Tradesmen of Britain in one of Sunday's finals.

In another, John Lecky and Rick Crooker, of Club d'Boucherville, near Montreal, lost in the Silver Goblets and Nickalls Challenge Cup for coxless pairs to Australians I. A. Luxford and C. D. Shinners.

The Harvard frosh, three of whom had never rowed before this year, had a heart stopper in the Thames Challenge Cup final against the local favorite, the Henley Rowing Club.

The Crimson fell one-half length behind by the Fawley marker, then drew level and edged ahead at the mile.

Sentimental Sinclair?

"That's right folks.

I've never been short of good business reasons for buying Sterling Silver Olympic Coins.

But with the excitement building fast, and with the world on it's way to Canada for the 1976 Olympics, you can't blame a guy for feeling proud or even a bit sentimental.

That's why Series VII coins are so precious. They're real money but they have a value that goes beyond dollars and cents.

They're the last series of Olympic Coins to be minted, and will be the best souvenir you can buy of this great event.

But don't wait around!

With a lot of people feeling the same way as me and with all those visitors coming, these beautiful works of art might not be as easy to buy later on.

So buy them this week before the rush starts."

Then, now and tomorrow

Three faces of Alberni bared

By JOHN HENDERSON
Colonist Correspondent

Two developments in the past two weeks have enabled those interested in Port Alberni from its earliest days to now gain further insight into this west coast community, and even gaze into the future.

The city museum located in Echo Centre this week officially opened a display entitled Port Alberni—Then and Now, graphically displaying the origins of the community in the late 1800s and updating them to the present day.

Just last week, city hall for the first time made available in printed form the results of a study conducted by AVG Management Science Ltd. in 1974, designed to project the growth of the Alberni-Clayoquot district, which includes the west coast areas around Tofino and Ucluelet, up to the 1990s.

Together they provide quite an insight into the past and future of the area, spanning more than a century of growth.

The museum project, which was six months in the planning, was co-ordinated by the parks and recreation commission's museum division under the direction of John Sendey.

Starting from the base of the collection of material which the Alberni District Museum and Historic Society had turned over to the museum, Sendey and his staff collected additional material from private collectors in the area and from the Provincial Museum in Victoria.

Hundreds of artifacts, tools and decorative pieces were sifted through, as were over 2,000 photographs dating back as far as 1864. The first survey map of the site of the present city, drawn up in 1871, was part of the collection.

"Actually, settlement at the foot of the Alberni Inlet started as early as 1860, but there was only one white settler left by 1866. Charles Taylor remained when all the other settlers had left, to continue farming his land," Sendey points out.

It wasn't until the 1880s that farming settlement resumed, and not until 1896 that A. E. Waterhouse built the first sawmill of consequence. By 1910 the settlement had grown sufficiently to be given the present name of Port Alberni.

Final selection of all the material dating back to this time and thereafter reduced the number of pieces on display to just over 400, and the number of photos to some 200.

In every case possible, the photos used from the past were "married" to photos of the present city taken on the same sites. The viewer is thus able to identify the setting of old buildings with their replacements in the present community.

"We're particularly proud of the work done in collecting, preparing and co-ordinating the photos," Sendey says. "It was principally the work of two young people, Yvonne Woveryn and Mike Phillips, who did the work in conjunction with an L.I.P.-funded project.

"We were also able to research the names of about 80 per cent of the people shown in the old photos. We haven't been able to include the names in the display itself, but if anyone is interested, we can identify most of the individuals in the pictures for them," he says.

"We were reasonably successful, too, in getting a cross section of each era in the progress of the city. Both the photos and the pieces on display come from both early times and later in the city's growth. So there is continuity as you go through the display from beginning to end."

The display is set up in the Echo Centre premises of the museum, which also contains the city's year-round tourist bureau. Thus it will be an interesting and informative addition to the service given to tourists staying in or passing through the city this summer.

For the fall, Sendey is already working with the city schools to assure that all the students who wish to will have a chance for a "a guided tour."

"Of course, the material on display here in the museum is only part of what we can offer in the way of historic data on the city and area," Sendey adds.

"We have a collection now of over 1,000 slides of material and photos we've collected, which are pertinent to a study of the growth of this area. The schools can get this material and others for classroom use whenever they wish—they don't have to bring the students to Echo for a display like this."

Port Alberni—Then and Now will remain in the museum for the next nine months.

On the other hand, the report which the city is selling publicly makes no mention of the area's past — the intent was to get a professional opinion on its future.

The Gray Report—as it is referred to on terms that it was conducted by A.V. Gray of the company's personnel—does assess the current statistics which will effect the area's future.

It points out the unique position of the city in having a tidal port plus access to a large inland water system, the Barclay Sound and Alberni Inlet providing a fifth of the salmon fishery in B.C., the access to 1.3 million acres of forest under tree licence providing some 150 million cubic feet of lumber annually, and "significant and interesting mineralization."

The beaches and trails of the Island's west coast are "perhaps the finest available on the Canadian West Coast for tourist development."

Conditions for agriculture are, however, "poor and problematic" and trees remain the best "crop" for the foreseeable future.

The current population of some 32,000 is primarily employed in the obvious industries of such an area — forestry, fishing, mining and agriculture, with only a third of the labor force in tertiary industries such as retail selling, service companies and the like—about one-half the number, proportionately, for the rest of the province.

This population, the report suggest, will increase by some 8,000 by natural growth alone in the next 20 years, sufficient to fill the 4,000-person increase in the labor force required by that time.

Twenty per cent of this growth will occur in the city itself, while a significant growth in both population and employment—with Ucluelet going to 2,900 people, Tofino to 2,000—is foreseen if the tourist industry on the west coast grows "as it is possible for it to do" and is properly serviced and developed.

If tourism does not progress according to projections, however, there might rather be a net migration of workers out of the area relative to population growth.

On terms of industrial growth, the study indicates that agriculture will be "static or decline," fishing increase in volume but not in employment due to better technology, a similar outlook for the forest industry, and some growth in tertiary industry, especially in construction and transport-communication.

While it sees little chance of the forest industry developing a tertiary progression, as into furniture-making or similar fields, because of the "distance from major markets," it does foresee that the fish processing industry could well expand, even dramatically, since it is an obvious advantage for this industry to be "as close as possible to the source of produce."

As it would with any area so intrinsically bound up with primary industries, the report encourages the area to obtain as much tertiary industry as possible to widen the industrial base.

It is obvious in many parts of the report that the future of the tourist industry is a vital part of whether the area will obtain any substantial growth.

It could still happen, but with the record of the past three years, this is possibly the most discouraging aspect of the study.

Month-end rent money stolen from caretaker

NANAIMO — Police were countinuing their investigation Monday into the theft of about $7,000 in cash and cheques from an apartment here.

Police said Monday that the manager of the Townsite apartments on Townsite Road left his suite late Saturday night and returned a short time later to discover that the money, representing month-end rent payments, had been taken from a table.

Police were also checking into two weekend break-ins. One, at a house on Goldfinch Crescent, involved a quantity of money and about $20 in Canadian centennial coins. The other incident was at a house on Highland Boulevard.

Cumberland

Swimming pool nears final word

By JOYCE HOWRIGAN
Colonist Correspondent

CUMBERLAND — Village council has approved the recommendations of the Neighborhood Improvement Program committee to spend the bulk of N.I.P. funds on an indoor swimming pool.

However, preliminary plans indicated the pool would cost $21,700 more than council saw fit to spend, and the proposal has gone back to the drawing board for trimming.

Of the $300,000 available to the village through N.I.P. funding, $200,000 has been approved in principle for the pool, with the remainder being earmarked for storm drain materials for the sanitary sewer problem areas.

Of the total funds available, $150,000 will be granted by Central Mortgage and Housing Corp. for the federal government; $75,000 from the housing department for the provincial government; $75,000 provided by the village.

The preliminary plan presented to council recently by John Vance, a member of William Graham Consultants of Vancouver, called for a 24-by-54-foot pool, with a three-to-eight-foot depth, at an estimated cost of $221,700.

Included in the proposal were changing rooms, a sauna, whirlpool, lobby and exercise room outfitted for such activities as weightlifting, and muscle development.

The pool would be situated on land adjacent to the Cumberland Recreation Centre.

In an interview this week, William Moncrief, Cumberland mayor and co-chairman of the N.I.P. steering committee, said he is expecting costs can be reduced without sacrificing any of the facilities.

"The plan submitted was a preliminary draft to determine if such an undertaking were possible. We've now given more concise recommendations to the consultants, and have turned the plan back to them to look at methods of refining costs," the mayor said.

Commenting on the proposal of a pool, Moncrief indicated that he fully supported it.

"Beautification and smaller recreational and public works projects can be done on an ongoing basis, but how often would we have $200,000 for a pool?"

Moncrief also pointed out that transportation problems in the area mean other pools are not readily accessible. "This is a closely knit community . . .the pool is something (it) will revolve around," he said.

Cumberland villagers will be familiarized with the projects by distribution of a newsletter within the next few weeks.

Hand-in-hand with N.I.P. — but distinctly different — is the Residential Rehabilitation Assistance Program, which will be administered by the village council. Under this program, homeowners may apply for federal funds of up to $5,000 for home improvements. A portion of the funds may be forgiven depending on income.

The requirements are that dwellings be located in a potentially stable residential neighborhood of the designated N.I.P. area, which has in effect minimum maintenance and occupancy standards by-laws.

In Cumberland, the whole municipality, including those areas to be incorporated within the village pending boundary extensions, is an N.I.P. area. Council has passed the necessary bylaws.

John Wilson, village administrator, said that Derrick York has been appointed as an inspector for RRAP, and that as soon as CMHC has signed an agreement, applications will be accepted.

Wilson said he did not know how many homeowners will be applying for funds, but both he and Monerief indicated a "fair amount of interest" has been shown by Cumberland residents.

Water tiff

Mayor speaks today

By CRAIG MEREDITH
Colonist Correspondent

NORTH COWICHAN — Mayor Gerry Smith said Monday that he expected to make a statement today on an official objection lodged by the neighboring city of Duncan protesting this municipality's proposed bylaw to extend the boundaries of its Southend water district.

"I don't want to make an issue of this thing, but we have spent the last three days trying to determine what the city's objections are . . . I'll likely make a statement today," the North Cowichan mayor said.

A one page-letter from the city of Duncan was delivered by hand to the North Cowichan municipal office last Wednesday, in accordance with the Municipal Act which requires the municipality to receive any objection to its bylaw before submitting it to the cabinet for approval.

Duncan Mayor Ken Paskin would not disclose the contents of the letter, but did say city council was quite concerned that the extension of water services by the municipality would duplicate those already supplied by the city system.

The city of Duncan system supplies more than 1,000 homes in the Southend of the municipality of North Cowichan.

The North Cowichan mayor also added Monday that he had attempted to contact Duncan Mayor Ken Paskin in order to get more information concerning his objections, but had been unsuccessful.

Garden mirth costly for Kinsmen

VANCOUVER (UPI) — Revellers howled with laughter when a daring young fellow climbed into the rafters of the Bavarian beer garden and promptly lowered his trousers.

He "flashed a moon," a B.C. Supreme Court judge said Monday in a personal-injuries suit arising from the incident.

Encouraged by the hilarity, others repeated the stunt — until one of them fell. He plunged 30 feet and landed on 34-year-old Robert Jacobson, a tourist from Alberta, knocking him unconscious.

In a brightly-worded judgment, Mr. Justice Sam Toy ordered the Kinsmen Club of Nanaimo — sponsors of the beer garden — to pay Jacobson $25,000 damages for injuries suffered in the accident.

He said the club should have stepped in to stop the antics.

The incident occurred during festivities marking the annual Nanaimo-to-Vancouver bathtub race across Georgia Strait two years ago.

The judge said the beer garden was an outlet for people "less inclined to subject themselves to such hazardous pastimes."

A young patron "with an apparently-high degree of dexterity" climbed a beam to the rafters.

"This feat pleased the patrons," the judge said. "But they were further amused when this gentleman . . . while standing on one of the crossgirders, lowered his trousers and flashed a moon.

"Shortly after this illustrious event, in similar monkey-like fashion, he descended without further incident."

That was the signal for other revellers to start swarming aloft. Finally one fell.

"(But) he suffered only the indignity of losing his pants when the force of his descending body hit the plaintiff," the judge said.

"He quickly regained his composure, raised his pants and beat a hasty retreat."

The judge noted that Jacobson's neck and shoulder continued to give him substantial pain after the incident.

Big project could suffer

Current unrest in the construction industry could result in disruption of the construction schedule in Nanaimo for the $4 million addition to the Harbor Park shopping centre.

The addition was started earlier this year and, if all goes well in the industry, the first phase consisting of a multi-storey parkade will go into service this fall.

Alan Brown, construction co-ordinator for Marathon Realty, owners of the centre, said Monday that construction has stayed on schedule up to this time and, if talks currently underway to find a solution to the problems plaguing the industry are successful, the schedule would remain intact.

Work is well underway on the construction of walls, staircases and other support structures for the pre-cast concrete system. Brown said this work will continue through July before the pre-cast beams and columns are put into place.

A new entrance to the mall will be put into service at the end of this month.

The entire porject is expected to be ready for occupancy about mid-1977.

Meanwhile, construction on major projects in the Cowichan Valley continues although 40,000 tradesmen from 22 unions who work on jobs worth as much as $3 billion are at a standstill in other parts of the province.

A telephone survey conducted by the Colonist Monday showed that most major contractors working in the Cowichan area at this time are not members of the Construction Labor Relations Association, which bargains for 850 contracting firms in the province.

The CLRA imposed a total lockout last Wednesday for its members, following strike action by the cement masons and carpenters.

Among the Cowichan projects which remain unaffected by the lockout are the $2 million senior citizen home in Duncan, Eagle Heights sewer system and all construction programs in Cowichan School District 65.

Firings trigger pickets

DUNCAN — An information picket line set up outside the Tzouhalem Hotel here Saturday by 15 employees represented by Local 835 of the Hotel and Restaurant Employees Union will remain until two of their fellow employees have been reinstated.

Cec Phillips, shop steward and spokesman for the hotel employees who walked off the job Friday afternoon when the two were fired, said Monday they would stay off the job until their demand is met.

The dispute arose on Friday when three employees received their paycheques with a deduction for a cash shortage in the beer parlor the preceding week.

A hotel spokesman said two of the employees were fired after they would not agree to the deduction.

The restaurant in the hotel has been closed by the dispute, but beer parlor, lounge and lodging are being maintained by management staff.

Europeans wilting

'Eau de colgne' cools pig brains

LONDON (UPI) — Britons found a way to cool overheated pigs, Paris bus drivers refused to drive bake-oven hot buses and Europe's crop-killing heat wave and drought seared on Monday with a few isolated breaks.

Portugal began cutting off electric power for regular periods because there was too little water to run hydroelectric plants.

Barges on Germany's Elbe River sailed one-third full because the river was so low. Dutch troops began tapping Dutch canals to irrigate crops.

Throughout nearly all of continental Europe, Britain and Ireland, the worst drought in generations remained essentially unbroken.

At Britain's biggest farm show the Archbishop of York, Dr. Stewart Blance, repeated Pope Paul's Sunday call for prayers for rain to break the drought. Raymond Wheatley-Hubbard worried more about pigs.

"Pigs cannot sweat," said Wheatley-Hubbard, in charge of the 484 pigs entered in the show, "and so they are more vulnerable." He recommended daubing a little vinegar behind their ears, "like eau de cologne for a woman," to cool their tiny overheated brains.

In Paris, however, bus drivers found no way to cool overheated cabs, and many drivers stayed home for the fourth day in a row.

Sudden thunderstorms broke in several areas. But in some places, the crusted earth couldn't absorb the rain, and destructive flash floods followed. Four persons died in north Portugal in floods following violent thunderstorms.

The drought in Britain and France is the worst since 1725.

Officials in Britain, France, Germany, Italy and other nations speak of large percentage of many crops already lost, livestock by the millions slaughtered early for lack of feed, and higher food prices to come.

Water rationing has been imposed in some spots and was being considered in others. Restrictions exist almost everywhere. Near Louvain, Belgium, a man was fined $150 Monday for sprinkling his lawn.

Hydro and UVic try pass system

B.C. Hydro and the University of Victoria have agreed on an experimental bus pass system starting this fall.

Under the pilot program, UVic students will be able to buy a bus pass for $30 covering the period between Sept. 13 and Dec. 17.

Students will be able to buy the passes from Sept. 1 to 17 on campus and the passes will have the students' photos on them.

The project will be administered by UVic's Alma Mater Society and will be subsidized by the university.

David Suttie, B.C. Hydro's Victoria manager, said only students will be allowed to buy the passes but the possibility exists that faculty and staff may be included if the project is extended.

The program is modelled after one in Edmonton in which all public transit users are offered passes at the same rate quoted for UVic students.

Alistair Palmer, AMS president, said Monday he has already received inquiries from such places as Simon Fraser University as to how negotiations with B.C. Hydro were handled.

A questionnaire sent out in June showed that 63 of 78 respondents said they would be interested and only one said no. Fourteen returned the questionnaire with a "maybe."

Were winches consulted?

LONDON (CP) — An article in the magazine Offshore Oil states that a company called Coubro and Scrutton deals in "lifting gear, chain blocks, wenches . . ." as well as offering an 'industrial and marine insultancy service."

Bennett satisfactory in Kelowna hospital

KELOWNA (CP) — Former premier W. A. C. Bennett's condition has improved to satisfactory from fair, a Kelowna General Hospital spokesman said Monday.

Bennett, who suffered what his son R. J. Bennett called a "medium" heart attack more than two weeks ago, was admitted to hospital and discharged last week.

On Friday he again complained of pains in his arms and chest and was readmitted to the intensive care unit. He remained there for two days for checks and Sunday was transferred to a private room.

The hospital spokesman would not say Monday when Bennett would be discharged, saying this depended on his rate of improvement. The spokesman said the readmission to hospital was due to Bennett's heart condition, but there was no indication from any source that he suffered another heart attack.

Buddy system sending two to chess tourneys

By RAY KERR
Colonist Staff

There's a buddy system in effect in the B.C. Chess Federation's scholastic division.

As a result, the province will be sending two players to Toronto to compete in two tournaments.

The two 17-year-olds Glenn Morin of Burnaby Central and Jeff Reeve of Victoria's Spectrum high school originally tied for first place in May during the provincial scholastic finals in Vancouver.

The tie was to have been broken through a four-game match held in Vancouver at the weekend. Reeve started well and won the first two games, but Morin roared back to take the next two.

And they were tied again, with only one berth open in the national scholastic championship scheduled for July 22 in Toronto.

Morin and Reeve then were supposed to flip a coin, but Reeve instead stepped aside and let Morin represent B.C.

"I let him have it (the berth) because he did the same thing for me last year when we were tied," Reeve explained. Reeve was the national runner up in last year's final.

But the Victorian was also rewarded. While Morin will be playing in the scholastic final as B.C.'s official representative, Reeve is being helped by BCCF to take part in the Canadian Open, to be held in Toronto right after the scholastic championship.

Scientific uncertainties in plan

Flu campaign needs shot

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford's swine flu campaign needs a shot in the arm to survive.

The mass innoculation plan — beset with such scientific uncertainties as the proper vaccine dose for children — has insurance problems that Congress refuses to touch.

After two fruitless days of work on a bill "to provide indemnification against claims for injury related to inoculation with vaccine," Representative Paul Rogers, Florida Democrat, told a group of lawyers, insurers, vaccine manufacturers and health officials they should look elsewhere for a solution.

"That ought to be handled by agreement rather than by law, because I don't think the committee is in a position to write a law at this time," Rogers said.

Government officials and corporate lawyers representing vaccine companies discussed the issue Friday, and planned to resume their talks this week.

There have been other problems, too:

● One drug company accidentally made the wrong kind of vaccine.

● Dr. Albert Sabin, developer of one of the vaccines that virtually eliminated the threat of polio, said the government should vaccinate only older and high risk persons suffering from chronic illness.

● Some states complain their share of a $135 million aid bill passed by Congress to distribute vaccine nationwide is inadequate.

● Finally, nobody knows whether Americans really will listen to warnings that a potentially deadly strain of flu virus threatens the nation this winter, and line up this fall for their shots.

The insurance problems, however, are the thorniest.

Because of "virtually unmeasurable" risks of lawsuits from mass immunizations, insurers are reducing or eliminating coverage of swine flue vaccine.

The drug companies say they must have some protection by early this month against suits not related to their own negligence if they are to continue vaccine production.

"The risk to public policy is that the issues of liability and insurance may not only deny protection the public would receive from immunization against swine influenza but may even deny the public the protection of any future major public health program in the area of preventive medicine," said Theodore Cooper, the government's top doctor.

The mass vaccination program got its start last February when several hundred army recruits at Fort Dix, N.J., became ill — and one died — from a virus normally confined to pigs and the butchers and hog farmers who work with them.

The virus was similar to one believed to have caused the 1918-19 world flu epidemic which claimed 20 million lives, including those of 548,000 Americans.

Nurses defy court

MONTREAL (CP) — Striking nurses voted during the weekend to ignore 17 Superior Court injunctions taken out against them last week.

More than 700 strikers, members of the Quebec Nurses Federation, voted at a special meeting in Montreal Saturday night to continue their walkout, which began June 18.

The injunctions granted to 17 hospitals, most in the Montreal area, call for heavy fines or prison terms for those of the 5,500 federation members who fail to return to work.

Federation spokesman Diane Pare said the nurses also voted to defy the orders by average 76-per-cent totals in three areas outside Montreal where results were reported.

Affected hospitals report occupancy at 30 per cent of capacity, and even lower in several Montreal-area hospitals.

The nurses have said job mobility and work schedules were the major stumbling blocks in their negotiations with the government.

Eight of family die in smash

SWINDON, England (Reuter) — Nine persons, including eight members of a West Indian family, died Sunday night in a highway accident near this English city west of London. Police said the family, two men, three women and three children, were returning to London from the west of England when a bus travelling in the opposite direction veered over the median, through the crash barriers and smashed into them.

Baby boy 'gift' unexpected

CHICAGO (UPI) — "This is a fourth of July I'll never forget," said Mrs. Ethel Grant, 46, Chicago, after she received an unexpected gift in a Cook County hospital waiting room.

Mrs. Grant was talking to a woman sitting next to her in the waiting room when the woman said she was going to get a cup of coffee and asked Mrs. Grant to hold her 14-day-old baby.

About a half hour later, Mrs. Grant opened the blanket covering the baby and found a note pinned under a fold which said, "take care of me. My mother cannot. June 21, 1976."

A police spokesman said the date was apparently the baby's birthday.

"You say birth of a nation, but I got a baby in my lap," Mrs. Grant said. "I'd like to adopt him."

The Grants have five children ranging in age from 9 to 26.

"This is the best thing that's happened to me," Mrs. Grant's husband, Joseph, 51, said. "This is truly something to celebrate about."

If allowed to adopt the boy, Mrs. Grant said she would name him after former president Ulysses S. Grant.

ann landers

Dear Ann Landers: I have learned a great deal from your column and now I want to contribute something, in the spirit of "replenishing the well." It is the profile of the Fatal Driver as described by the U.S. Department of Transportation.

The cities studied in depth were Baltimore, Boston, Albuquerque and Oklahoma City. Here's the person who is most likely to kill himself (or someone else) when he gets behind the wheel of a car:

The Fatal Driver is usually a male, 25 to 35 years old, a heavy drinker who often prefers beer to liquor. He probably has a high school education, drives an older car, is single, divorced or separated from his wife.

He displays excessively aggressive drinking habits and is the greatest threat to highway safety during the early morning hours of the weekend, especially on holidays. — A Friend.

Dear Friend: Thanks for the tip-off. And now a word to those who fit the description:

You know who you are. We don't. Will you do us all a favor and tape this column to the dashboard of your car as a reminder that our lives are in your hands? Please do it today.

Dear Ann Landers: Sorry, I can't go along with your answer to the wife who said sex does nothing for her so she fakes it for her husband's sake. You gave her "an E for Effort and a T for trying."

When a woman doesn't give her 50 per cent the man gets far less enjoyment out of sex. A normal man who is halfway decent derives very little pleasure if his bed partner lets him know it's a bore and she is merely accommodating him.

Equal participation and equal enthusiasm is essential or the sexual relationship is a bust. I wonder how many people wrote to complain about your stupid answer. I'll bet I'm not the only one. — Got One Of My Own.

Dear Got: So far, you are. But obviously you didn't read what I wrote — or you misunderstood the woman's letter completely.

She did not behave as if sex was a bore, nor did she cast herself in the role of a martyr. Her husband didn't have a clue that she wasn't getting hers.

I suggested that she be more aggressive and try to teach him what was pleasing to her. I encouraged her to be a participant rather than a passive partner. In the meantime, I gave her E for Effort and T for Trying — which she richly deserved.

Dear Ann Landers: After reading all those letters from fatties who made excuses for their overeating and damned their husbands for being "turned off" I decided to give my husband the best birthday gift of all — a new me, 40 pounds lighter.

Please print my letter, so I can paste it on my makeup mirror. Thanks, Ann. Your column gave me the incentive to do it, and I feel terrific! — Grateful.

Dear G: Forget the makeup mirror, honey. Glue this column on your refrigerator door. And good luck! I'm rootin' for you.

BROADBENT ACCEPTS MARCHANT ANSWER

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau and New Democrat Leader Ed Broadbent attempted Monday to nip suggestions that former environment minister Jean Marchand was wrongfully involved in a controversy involving government dredging contracts on the St. Lawrence River.

"It has been cleared a long while before by the RCMP," Trudeau said, referring to allegations linking Marchand and the dredging controversy outlined in a letter to the prime minister from Broadbent.

"I'm satisfied with the prime minister's response," Broadbent told reporters later.

The issue arose last Friday, when it became known that Broadbent had sent a letter to Trudeau outlining the allegations against Marchand.

The veteran cabinet minister had resigned two days earlier, and there was speculation that the dredging-contract controversy was involved in Marchand's decision to quit.

In a radio-television interview Friday night, however, Marchand said the allegations were unfounded and that they had nothing to do with his resignation.

He maintained that he decided to leave the cabinet because he disagreed strongly with a settlement negotiated by Transport Minister Otto Lang with pilots and air traffic controllers involving the use of two languages in air service work at Quebec airports.

In a statement Monday, Broadbent said he sent a letter outlining "serious allegations" against Marchand last Wednesday, hours before the minister resigned.

Since then, the prime minister "has satisfied me that the allegations of personal wrongdoing on Mr. Marchand's part are groundless."

Killanin in Montreal: Agreed conditions for Olympics not met

MONTREAL (CP) — Lord Killanin, president of the International Olympic Committee, flew to Canada Monday and reiterated that the Canadian government's policy regarding Taiwan's participation in the forthcoming Montreal Games is in conflict with Olympic principles.

Killanin said he had come to hold discussions with world sports federation officials and others concerned in the government's decision to prohibit Taiwanese athletes from participating as representatives of the Republic of China.

Questioned at a news conference, he said Montreal was awarded the Games in 1970 — backed by the federal and Quebec governments — on the stipulation that national Olympic committees, including that of Taiwan, would be admitted for participation under terms laid down by the IOC.

Killanin said that the Canadian government's policy, which would also prohibit the Republic of China's anthem and flag as well as use of the name by Taiwan, would create a dangerous precedent.

"This precedent could be especially dangerous not only for 1980 but in the long term for 1984 and 1988."

Montreal was awarded the 1976 Games only because of guarantees that IOC regulations would be followed—otherwise they would have gone to Moscow or Los Angeles, the competing bidders, Killanin declared.

The Canadian government's position has been under active consideration by the IOC since its position became known. Killanin said he could not commit himself as president regarding a government proposal that the Taiwanese come to the Montreal Games on the same basis as they attended the 1960 Olympics in Rome.

In the Commons earlier in the day, Prime Minister Trudeau and External Affairs Minister Allan MacEachen called on the IOC to extend Canada the same rights given Italy in 1960 when the Taiwanese were told by the IOC they could participate only as Taiwanese and not as the Republic of China.

Killanin said that while it was absolutely correct the Taiwanese went to Rome on those terms, the Taiwanese athletes unfurled a banner as they passed the reviewing stand in the Olympic stadium proclaiming they were participating under protest.

"I will not commit myself in any way," said Killanin, emphasizing he had come here to look into the situation as carefully as possible and discuss it with those concerned, a procedure that

External Affairs Minister Allan MacEachen said in Ottawa Monday he has rejected requests by the People's Republic of China that Canada ban entry of Taiwanese Olympic athletes.

But he also refused to alter Canadian policy that these athletes may enter Canada only as Taiwanese not as representatives of the Republic of China.

He said external affairs officials were willing to meet Lord Killanin, president of the International Olympic Committee.

The People's Republic of China, in a broadcast monitored in Tokyo Monday, said the International Olympic Committee must not allow Taiwan to participate in the Olympics.

Global cheer for daring raid

Associated Press

Many Western leaders praised the raid that freed more than 100 hostages in Uganda as Israel paused Monday in its celebration of the hostage rescue to bury two Israelis killed in the Entebbe airport shootout.

UN Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim on Monday criticized the Israeli raid as a violation of Uganda's sovereignty but expressed satisfaction it has proved possible to save human lives endangered by hijacking. He also predicted the raid would have "serious international repercussions," especially in Africa.

The 48-country Organization of African Unity meeting in Mauritius unanimously condemned the raid and asked an immediate UN Security Council meeting on the issue.

Israel's foes in the Arab and Soviet camps said the Jewish state had committed aggression.

U.S. President Ford expressed "great satisfaction" to Israeli Premier Yitzhak Rabin over the commando raid Sunday.

West German Chancellor Helmut Schmidt expressed "deep satisfaction and great relief" at the outcome.

Among the first to congratulate Israel was Denmark's Foreign Minister Knud Andersen who spoke of "the well executed and brave liberation of the hostages" from pro-Palestinian air hijackers of an Air France aircraft.

Prime Minister Robert Muldoon said New Zealanders are thrilled by "this audacious operation."

The French ambassador in Israel, Jean Herbly, said the raid is "a moral victory . . . a victory over brutal force."

Meanwhile, the Israeli army is on alert for threatened revenge attacks by Palestinian guerillas.

Across the Jewish state, shops and houses flew the blue-and-white national flag and newspapers filled pages with advertisements congratulating Rabin and the army.

But there was little rejoicing in Batyam and Netanya, where two of three hostages killed in the clash with the hijackers were buried.

"This is a harsh land," wept the husband of 56-year-old Ida Borochovich, a Russian immigrant who struggled most of his life to come to Israel and finally arrived with his family in 1969.

"It was a magnificent, courageous operation," said the chief military chaplain, Brig. Gen. Mordechai Piron, in eulogizing Mrs. Borochovich. "But it is the fate of this nation that every joy and delight be mixed with pain and mourning."

Mrs. Borochovich and another Israeli passenger of the hi-jacked airliner, Jean-Jacques Maimoni, 19, were buried with military honors and their graves covered with wreaths from the Israeli army, government, Air France and other groups.

They were killed in a battle during the Israeli raid, the military said. The seven hi-

'Four-fold increase' for West sea watch

Canadian Press

The use of naval vessels to enforce Canada's new 200-mile limit will be increased four-fold on the Pacific coast, a Vancouver fisheries office said Monday.

Ken Pittre, chief of West Coast and Vancouver Island operations, said increased patrols by naval vessels and transport ministry ships, in combination with fishery patrol vessels, will go into effect this year although the 200-mile limit does not become effective until Jan. 1, 1977.

"We are looking at a four-fold increase in surface ship surveillance." Pittre said. "The present air surveillance provided by the department of national defence is more than adequate . . . once a week."

He declined to be more specific in the number of patrols that would be carried out by naval vessels, explaining the system is still in the planning stage.

The Fisheries Council of Canada's latest bulletin, however, reports patrols on both east and west coasts will be increased to a doubling of total sea days over-all. Air patrols will increase so that every fishing vessel in Canada's offshore zone will be identified at least once a week.

Pittre said fishery patrols on the West Coast will only be necessary for a 50-mile limit.

"We have virtually no stocks (of bottom fish) outside of 50 miles," he explained.

Demoted official quits B.C. post

Wilmer Pettit, who is suing Health Minister Robert McClelland, said Monday he has quit his job with the provincial government.

Pettit was demoted from his post as director of the hospital finance division at the end of April because of what McClelland said was the premature payment of $4.5 million to five hospitals.

The health minister was under attack at the time by an Opposition that claimed the payments had been made to pad the amount of money sent to hospitals last year. He said the cheques had been sent without consultation and had since been returned.

Pettit said Monday his resignation took effect June 22.

In May he launched a three-way suit against McClelland claiming unspecified damages for alleged slander, wrongful dismissal from his directorship and financial loss.

In an interview with the Colonist, Pettit said he didn't expect examination for discovery in connection with the suit to take place before the fall.

He said he took the government job two years ago after moving from another province he declined to name.

Asked if the position was filled by cabinet order (the New Democratic Party was in power at the time), he said: "No. It was not a political job."

Comox-based jet dives into strait

Voodoo crash kills two

By BILL SMITH
Colonist Staff

COMOX — A search was still underway at dusk Monday for one of two occupants of a CF-101 Voodoo jet fighter which crashed into Strait of Georgia waters about two miles northeast of the Canadian Forces base at Lazo.

Missing and believed drowned is Capt. Leslie John Cox, 32, of Comox, pilot of the aircraft. A fisherman found the body of the navigator, Capt. Roy James Smith, 29, of Kelowna, a short time after the crash.

The plane was taking part in a formation-flying exercise with two other jets when it suddenly plumeted into the calm waters of the strait.

Capt. Val Cretney, base public relations officer, said there was no radio transmission between the three aircraft to warn of any problems with the aircraft. "There was just routine transmission," he said.

Monday's tragedy struck almost exactly a year after two CFB Comox airmen had a close brush with death only a short distance from the scene of Monday's fatal crash.

The 1975 crash occurred July 4 at 2:40 p.m.—almost the same time as Monday's crash—with a Voodoo jet crashing into the sea about 500 yards off Kin Beach. Both occupants ejected from the aircraft, one landing in about three feet of water and the other in a tree near the beach.

Monday's crash was seen by passengers aboard the Sechelt Queen ferry which was heading for Little River from Powell River.

Owners of pleasure craft at the nearby Airforce Beach and Little River rushed to the downed aircraft and several pieces of wreckage collected

Ottawa, Argentina talk about Chilean refugees

OTTAWA (CP) — External Affairs Minister Allan MacEachen said Monday talks were being held with Argentine officials about Chileans who had taken refuge in the Canadian Embassy in Buenos Aires.

He said the talks were aimed at finding a solution to the problem but would give no more details in answer to questions in the Commons.

Immigration Minister Robert Andras said that the department was exploring the possibility that the Chileans could be declared refugees and thus be given special treatment for entry into Canada.

The 27 exiles entered the embassy office on the 25th storey of a downtown building Friday and refused to leave. The Chileans said their lives were in danger in Argentina and they wanted to move to Canada.

In Buenos Aires, embassy spokesman Brian Long said the embassy could not grant the exiles — 10 men, 10 children and seven women — permanent asylum in the building but possibly could provide them with visas for Canada.

Long said the Canadian government had a special program for refugees of the 1973 Chilean coup.

He said the group at the embassy felt threatened in Argentina. A diplomatic source said names of some of the refugees may have been on a list stolen three weeks ago by armed men.

The Argentine military regime, installed after the bloodless March 24 coup that ousted President Isabel Peron, has said it would welcome departure of refugees in the country because some are believed to be aiding leftist guerrillas.

'Peacekeepers' battle in Beirut

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — A right-wing radio said Monday skirmishes had broken out near Beirut airport between Sudanese and Libyan contingents of the Arab peacekeeping force.

The radio said the command of the Arab League was trying to contain the fighting and was believed to have "asked Syrian troops to separate the two contingents."

The reported clashes broke out following Sudan's complaint to the United Nations that Libya instigated last Friday's abortive coup against Sudanese President Jaafar Numeiry.

Marchand's portfolio to LeBlanc

OTTAWA (CP) — Fisheries Minister Romeo LeBlanc has been named acting environment minister, filling a gap left by the sudden resignation last week of Jean Marchand.

LeBlanc, 48, is former press secretary to Prime Minister Trudeau. He was acting environment minister last December and January, before Marchand's appointment and after a cabinet shuffle that moved former environment minister Jeanne Sauve to communications. He has been fisheries minister since August, 1974.

Having a ball

Gap-toothed smile of exuberance is flashed by Jimmy Reid, 4, of Port Alberni, as he plays with inflatable ball at Elk Lake beach Monday during one of warmest days this year. Temperatures reached 24, according to Pat Bay weather office, one degree less than season's high. Smile could disappear with cloud and rain today.

Lid still shut on building tieup

The lid remained tightly closed on the province-wide construction shutdown Monday as both sides looked without success for a way out.

After meeting with representatives of the basic trade unions in Vancouver, Construction Labor Relations Association president Chuck McVeigh said: "I have to admit we didn't accomplish very much today."

Today, however, may give some indication of whether the lockout-strike situation is going to be long lasting. Wages — the main stumbling block — are to be discussed by CLRA and negotiators from both the basic and mechanical trades.

The 22 unions have remained divided in two camps with the mechanical trades looking for a flat 11½ per cent increase and the basic trades, headed by the big carpenters union, arguing that this would only add to the existing pay disparity.

The unions were also meeting among themselves Monday in an effort to form some kind of united bargaining front. There was no indication of any real success.

The lack of a common bargaining front has also hampered negotiations.

The industry-wide lockout was imposed last Wednesday after the cement masons and carpenters had taken strike action.

The fourth consecutive bargaining year shutdown since 1970, it has idled 40,000 tradesmen and halted work on an estimated $3 billion in construction projects.

So far CLRA, representing 850 contracting firms, has held to its offer of an eight per cent package increase as a means of staying within the federal anti-inflation guidelines.

Library formula angers Saanich

A new formula for payment of municipal sharing of library costs was criticized at Saanich council Monday.

The argument — basically that provincial government property should be included in municipal assessments that partly determine payment — has stalled a library agreement that has not received approval from any council so far.

Saanich administrators took the subject before council, saying it didn't seem fair that some tax-exempt government property would be included while some would be excluded.

Provincially-owned property will not be included in the formula's assessment base, although federal land will be included.

According to Saanich library committee representative Ald. Dave Paterson, that means large tracts of land such as Victoria's B.C. Hydro site — for which the city receives grant money in lieu of taxes — would not be included on the assessment roll.

Victoria may be getting too good a deal from the formula, he said, because the city holds more provincial property than any other of its partner municipalities in the library cost-sharing.

There have been other complaints about the formula that recently received approval from individual municipal representatives and the library board.

Paterson said Esquimalt would like to see federal excluded along with provincial. With its armed forces land, a large chunk of Esquimalt is federal soil.

It's all in the hands now of municipal controllers who will try to iron out problems and report back to the intermunicipal committee, Paterson said, adding that the library is now operating without an agreement.

The old cost-sharing agreement was based on population ratios only.

According to Paterson, municipalities including Saanich felt population didn't necessarily mean ability to pay. They prefer the proposed agreement, he said, by which increases over the 1975 library budget would be paid according to general assessments during 1976 and 1977.

That cost-sharing method would change to a ratio based half on assessment and half on population after 1978-79.

Ferry rescues man overboard

A Lower Mainland man in his 70s was in fair condition Monday night in Richmond General Hospital after he apparently jumped overboard from the B.C. Ferries' Queen of Esquimalt in Active Pass.

Delta police, who took the unidentified man from Tsawwassen to the hospital after the incident about 6 p.m., said he was rescued shortly after being reported overboard.

They said it was apparently a deliberate jump but that the man appeared to suffer no serious injury.

"He's holding his own," a hospital spokesman said, adding the man would be transferred to intensive care from emergency.

The ferry turned around right after the incident which occurred on a Tsawwassen-Swartz Bay run.

Victoria Rescue Centre officials were prepared to send hovercraft and other rescue craft to the scene when they heard the man had been picked up.

At least three other similar incidents have occurred recently in Active Pass.

MP wants Quebec aviation voice

By DON COLLINS
Colonist Reporter

Donald Munro (PC-Esquimalt - Saanich) has joined with federal Opposition Leader Joe Clark in urging the Association des Gens de l'Air du Quebec to take part in the current negotiations on bilingual air traffic control.

But unlike Clark, Munro is not expressing sympathy for the Quebec aviation workers.

"They have a point to make and they should be encouraged to make it. But so far they have just held themselves aloof saying they are not going to play the game. They are being rather petty," Munro said in a telephone interview from Ottawa.

Munro is included in a six-man Conservative caucus committee monitoring the air control bilingual situation.

Clark is reported to have expressed sympathy for the Association des Gens de l'Air du Quebec at St. Marguerite, Que., Sunday in an address to the Quebec Federal Progressive Conservatives Association.

He said the Quebec aviation workers should have "equal status" with the Canadian Air Line Pilots Association and the Canadian Air Traffic Control Association and as a result should participate in the commission of inquiry on bilingual air traffic control in Quebec.

He also said representatives of the Quebec group were to meet with him Monday for "frank discussion" on what he called a major issue which threatens to divide the country.

However, Munro said later the meeting didn't materialize because the Gens de l'Air representatives "didn't show up."

Munro
. . . urges participation

This group and any other with an "input to make" should participate, Munro said. Otherwise there would be no justification to theiir opposition.

"They (Association des Gens de l'Air du Quebec) say they don't agree. But they don't even know what it is that they don't agree with."

In his address to the Quebec Conservatives, Clark reiterated his unconditional support of bilingualism. He said if his party comes to power "we will be committed to continuing the establishment of bilingualism in Canada."

Clark saw Jean Marchand's resignation as environment minister as "inevitable," adding that Marchand had chosen to leave in style rather than take his chances on an impending cabinet shuffle.

"In the manner of the cunning politician he is, Mr. Marchand took advantage of the situation to leave as a hero in the eyes of Quebec."

A motion approved by the Quebec Conservatives urged Clark to accept the fact the air communications problem is not perceived in Quebec as simply a technical one.

It also asked him to give public support to the recognition of the Gens de l'Air as an autonomous organization. It said the Conservatives should assure themselves of the impartiality, independence and neutrality of the inquiry commission.

Munro, meanwhile, said he wasn't entirely satisfied with the answer he got Monday when he asked in the Commons about the timetable for the inquiry. He said he was told it was indefinite.

Asked during the interview how he stood on the bilingual air traffic control question, he said:

"Our stand is that safety is of prime importance. If the inquiry shows that any element of bilingualism can be introduced without downgrading safety, then maybe it will be accepted.

"We (Canada) have a good record of safety and we don't want to be affected."

Bad in '75, worse now

Job prospects for University of Victoria graduates are bad and getting worse.

A report of a manpower committee at UVic released Monday showed that 27 per cent of last year's graduates in arts and sciences and fine arts were still looking for employment six months after graduation and 16 per cent of the 1974 graduates were unemployed or taking further studies because of their inability to find work when the survey was taken last October.

Dr. Horace Beach, director of the counselling centre and chairman of the UVic committee, tabled the report which showed a trend of fewer jobs for university graduates.

Beach, who suggested that universities should make adjustments to keep up with the changing situation, said career placements at UVic were down 58 per cent in the first five months of this year and the long-range forecast was not going to get brighter.

A survey of Victoria-area employers, Beach said, suggests that demands for professional, administrative and technical employees may be down by as much as 45 per cent over the next five years.

The picture was the same across Canada, Beach stated. In an August, 1974, survey, only 25 per cent of 75,710 bachelors' graduates had jobs.

Hospital bed-rate rises, no-choice menu begins

Royal Jubilee Hospital has received notice from the provincial government of its new daily bed rate, but the hospital still doesn't know exactly how grim its financial outlook is.

The hospital's charge for acute-care beds has been boosted from $110.35 a day to $126 a day, associate director Michael Fraser learned Friday.

But all the hospital administration can judge from that figure is that the hospital will bring in "considerably less than what we require," he said Monday. The new rate is retroactive to Jan. 1.

Fraser expects to receive complete budget figures from the province this week. As soon as those come in, administrators can analyse the hospital's financial position and meet with the executive committee of the hospital board, he said.

Like other major B.C. hospitals, Jubilee ran up a deficit last year and is expecting the situation to be worse this year unless the provincial government changes its support to cover increased hospital costs.

Jubilee has been considering "many, many" cost-cutting measures to meet the budget squeeze — ranging from no-choice menus for patients to staff layoffs. No definite proposals will be accepted until the complete figures are received from the province, Fraser said.

Victoria General Hospital, which did not have a deficit last year, hopes to save up to $250,000 a year through a no-choice menu. Starting today, patients will no longer have a choice of two main courses and three or four desserts.

The changes will trim some labor for nursing staff, ward and dietary clerks, and cooks, a hospital spokesman said.

Joli leads Maui yacht race

Joli of Seattle wrested the lead from Ragtime Monday in the third day of the Victoria-Maui yacht race.

Joli was 210 miles southwest of Cape Flattery and 10 miles ahead of the pre-race favorite Ragtime, also out of Seattle, when positions were reported Monday night.

The 2,308 mile race, run every two years, was won in 1974 by Joli, a C and C 61 raced by Bill Niemi. But the 62-foot cutter Ragtime skippered by Doug Fryer was favored to take Division I honors in a close race with Joli.

Ragtime wasd leading in the almost windless second day of the race Sunday.

In third place Monday was Rangatang of Vancouver, 58 miles behind Joli. Next was Terna III, sailed by Per Christoffersen of West Vancouver, 60 miles behind Joli.

A Victoria boat, Al Nelson's Lucifer, was in sixth position 95 miles behind Joli and 25 miles behind Trumpeter of Vancouver.

Winds have been light to moderate for the 32 boats entered in the race.

Place mats, Latin, fish all grist to AIB mill

Sometime last month, a shopper bought six place mats in a Victoria store.

The six place mats were identical but the prices weren't. Three cost 99 cents each, and the other three cost $1.78, $1.98 and $2.19.

The shopper filed a complaint with the Victoria Anti-Inflation Board which forwarded it to the Anti-Inflation Board in Ottawa.

The place mat complaint was one of 40 sent to Ottawa during June by the board's Victoria representative, Robert Chapman.

Another case involved an independent service station operator who filed a complaint about gasoline price increases charged by oil companies.

The dealer's price for regular gas went up by 3.2 cents a gallon, premium gas rose by 3.3 cents and marine gas went up by 3.2 cents.

A woman reported that the price for a load of washing at a Victoria laundromat increased from 50 cents to 75 cents between May and June.

There were two complaints regarding the price of boat moorage.

In one case, the price rose from $1 a foot a month to $1.50; the other was an increase from $364 to $524 a year.

A shopper reported an increase in the price of salmon steak from $2.39 a pound in April to $3.39 a pound in June.

Another complaint filed showed a Victoria store raising the price of halibut steak from $2.99 a pound in May to $3.19 a pound in June.

The price of a Latin dictionary was reported to have been increased from $19.25 last December to $47 in June.

The rising price of peanut butter raised the ire of one Victorian who said she paid $2.25 for a jar in April and $2.49 in June.

A drug store was the target of one complainant who said the price for a prescription drug for arthritics rose from $6.49 in April to $9.98 in June.

One complaint involved house insurance. A Victoria homeowner had his premium increased from $96 in 1975 to $175 in 1976.

Chapman said he doesn't know what happens to the complaints after they've been sent to Ottawa.

"The federal board gets in touch with the people concerned, but we don't get any feedback and we don't know how many of the cases are resolved," he said.

Federal AIB regulations allow price increases only if the company encounters higher costs.

OAK BAY CHORUS OF PROTEST

Crows in peril?

Altogether now — let's hear it for the crows of Oak Bay.

Those garbage collectors in black are going to need some support because a number of Oak Bay residents are out to get them.

A 56-name petition received by council Monday was referred to committee for study after Mayor Brian Smith said the birds are a terrible nuisance at certain times of the year.

The petition, circulated by Kathryn Botting, said there are too many crows in south Oak Bay, and that too many songbirds are being lost to the crows.

The petition was sent to council "in hopes that action will be taken."

But Smith did not hold out much hope of action.

"Any time in the past we have tried to take effective action, we have found that we have no effective jurisdiction over the crows," Smith said.

"And we have found there are some crow lovers' protection leagues."

However, it was decided to let a committee consider the problem.

Two tax notices likely in Oak Bay

Oak Bay taxpayers could get two tax notices next year so that they will be able to fairly apportion the blame for tax increases.

Under fire for a 17-mill tax increase, and under threat from some residents that a portion of taxes will be withheld in protest, Oak Bay aldermen defended themselves Monday night.

Finance committee chairman Norman Pimlott noted that Greater Victoria school board would take 11 mills of the increase, with council having no say at all in the school board budget.

The school district increase, he said, was twice the increase of any school district in the province.

He felt that council should have a say in the school board's budgeting if it was to continue collecting the taxes.

Ald. Shirley Dowell suggested the council send out two tax bills next year — one for municipal purposes and a second for the school board so taxpayers have a chance to see where the money is going.

Wicklow rezoning for public hearing

A rezoning proposal for a 53-unit development at Tolmie and Wicklow will go to a public hearing.

Saanich council voted Monday for the hearing involving the corner site where development was turned down at public hearing Nov. 4, 1975.

Residents were concerned at that time about traffic circulation and isolation of lots to the south.

But the Saanich Advisory Planning Commission told council in a letter Monday that siting of the building has been changed to discourage traffic on Wicklow Street.
